'Hang on,' she cries, 'world needs laughter'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Freddie Prinze died Saturday as a nurse pounded on his chest, crying "Hang on! The world needs all the laughter it can get."

Nurse Linda Rufin's emergency measures could not restore the life that 22-year-old Prinze apparently decided to end in a fit of despair.

Prinze, star of "Chico and the Man," pumped a bullet through his brain early Friday as his horrified manager watched helplessly. Friends said the young comic was despondent over the breakup of his year-long marriage and the pressures of his hectic career.

Death came at 1 p.m. PST after a tense all-night vigil by family and friends.

"A doctor brought the wife and mother into a room and broke the news," said Paul Wasserman, Prinze's agent and friend. "They fell on the bed and each other, crying."

Prinze never regained consciousness. Doctors, who operated on Friday, said the bullet passed through his head, causing massive brain damage.

Katherine Prinze, 26, who rushed to her husband's side after the shooting, had filed for divorce last month. He fired the fatal shot just after speaking to her on the telephone early Friday morning.

Electronic signals marking his vital signs came to an abrupt halt, ending a promising acting career for a young star whose popularity had skyrocketed with his role as a Mexican-American mechanic in the "Chico" series.

James Komack, creator of the television series, called Prinze the "most gifted entertainer of his time," a man who could be warm, funny and charming onstage but was uncomfortable in the real world.

Komack had Prinze over to play backgammon Thursday night, just hours before the shooting. "The last time he spoke to me everything was happy, happy," Karmack said. "He talked about his future. He laid out everything that was good."

Komack said the young star, having attained so much so early, was still uncomfortable with his world.

"All that charm, all that love, all that marvelous talent and all that niceness. He couldn't do that offstage," said Komack.

Had Prinze been older when fame descended on him,' "he would have been sure enough and seasoned enough to look at the world properly."

"Unfortunately, he had to grow up in the glare of the public spotlight," said Komack, "and everything he did while approaching maturity was magnified."

Rican and Hungarian heritage, Prinze had acted since he was 4 years old when he did imitations of the late Ed Sullivan.

Several hours after his deatl fellow entertainer and Prinze's clos friend, Tony Orlando, said:

"We have nothing to say, excep that we had hoped for the best fc him. God took him, and that's it."

After two hours of bedside grie ing, the family, accompanied b Orlando, was quietly hurried out c the hospital. A hospital spokesma said Prinze's body would remain a the morgue room in the medic center for at least 24 hours, wher the coroner would conduct a autopsy.

A 4-day work week in crisis?

Blizzard has East, Midwest at knees

Death toll rises to 36; half million out of work

By Associated Press

Frigid winter weather and a wind-whipped blizzard brought much of the East and Midwest to a near standstill Saturday, closing roads, factories, businesses and places of entertainment.

The freezing or subzero weather that hit much of the eastern half of the nation during the early morning followed a blizzard that dumped as much as 14 inches of snow on the Northeast.

At least 36 weather-related deaths in eight states have been recorded in recent days.

More than half a million people were thrown out of work as a shortage of natural gas brought on by the week-long cold closed factories and businesses.

State officials mapping plans to conserve available heating fuel gave essential services and homes priority access to natural gas — and some said that could as much as double the layoffs.

New gas shutoffs in New York State were expected to double the 100,000 layoffs recorded there. At least 20,000 workers in New Jersey were laid off Friday and further restrictions on the use of natural gas could bring as many as 300,000 more layoffs in coming days, officials said.

Bradford, Pa., was the coldest spot in the 48 contiguous states with the temperature dropping to 25 below in the early morning.

Subzero temperatures were common from the northern plains to the Great Lakes, Ohio Valley and Appalachians, and single digit readings were recorded regularly along the Atlantic Coast as far south as Delaware.

The winter freeze held sway as far south as northern Florida and across the Gulf Coast to central Texas.

The National Weather Service said the "unmerciful" temperatures would be below normal for another month. The wind chill factor sent temperatures early Saturday to 80 below zero in Northern Illinois and 100 below in Minnesota.

The National Guard was out in Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Michigan and New York, trying to keep stalled traffic moving and rescuing motorists from stranded vehicles.

In hard-hit upstate New York, at least seven persons died in the Buffalo area in a paralyzing blizzard that was accompanied by icy winds, blinding snow and below zero cold.

The fierce storm struck the Buffalo area about noon Friday and left thousands marooned at work or stranded in lines of traffic. Many motorists and bus riders had to walk through the brutal storm in search of shelter in office buildings, restaurants, taverns, churches, stores and hospitals. Children were held overnight in some schools.

One resident reported that at its peak the storm reached such intensity that it was two hours before he could cross a street.

Ohio officials turned to prayer in seeking an end to the bitter cold that made the state one of several to declare an "energy crisis."

Carter, Cabinet in emergency session over fuel shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter hurriedly called his Cabinet into an hour-long session over the energy shortage Saturday and said he may ask industries to go on a four-day work week to conserve fuel.

He also said he was ordering federal disaster relief for New York and Pennsylvania because of the extreme cold, snow and ice in those states and will sign emergency aid legislation for Florida on Monday because of weather-inflicted crop losses there.

"I don't want anybody to be unduly alarmed," Carter told the Cabinet. "I'd like the whole process to be done carefully, methodically and coordinated with Jack Watson" the White House assistant Carter placed in charge of the White House team monitoring the energy situation.

He added: "I'll be maintaining personal contact with the governors."

Carter also urged the governors of 17 states to give him assessments of their current energy problems.

Carter pointed out that 11 states are in "some degree of crisis" and six states are having problems because of blizzard conditions.

The 11 states he listed as in the "crisis" category were Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Carter and White House aides did not list the six others affected by blizzard conditions.

Noting that 8,000 to 8,500 factories are closed and 500,000 persons out of work because of the energy shortage, Carter said he might go along with "a few amendments" offered by members of Congress to the emergency natural gas bill he sent to Congress earlier this week.

He initially said these amendments might include a requirement that industries go on a four-day work week, perhaps operating 10 hours a day to combat the energy shortages.

But Carter and his press secretary, Jody Powell, cautioned that this requirement would face serious legal problems because legislation limiting the number of hours in a work day would have to be changed, and there was a reluctance to do that.

Powell told reporters that Carter would like to see industries and other private employers implement the four-day plan voluntarily on the local level. No specific industries were mentioned.

Carter also said he might urge the businesses to shift from natural gas to using oil or coal during the gas shortage.

Powell said Carter's chief energy adviser, James Schlesinger, had reported that a "significant amou of fuel," particularly natural ga has been located and could "have significant impact" on alleviatin the energy shortages.

The spokesman said there is an e cess of natural gas in storage in th West, but it cannot legally be move into interstate pipelines to need areas elsewhere without th emergency legislation that Carter seeking from Congress.

Carter presided at the start of th Cabinet meeting and called for coo dination of all of government age cies that have some dealings wi energy-related problems.

He said requests for federal di aster declarations for states oth than New York, Pennsylvania ar Florida were being processed. E called on the Cabinet to "be i novative in how you can help."

Cabinet secretary Jack Watson ha been placed in charge of a Whi House team effort to cope with th energy problem. The director of th federal disaster assistance progran Thomas Dunne, was included on th team, along with other senior a ministration advisers.

Powell told reporters at a Whi House briefing that Carter has bee receiving reports "on the worsenir weather situation Friday evenir and Saturday morning."

"The situation requires a coo dinated and concentrated effort c the part of the federal government deal with both immediate and lon term effects" of energy shortage Powell said.

Space shuttle ready to roll

PALMDALE (AP) — Half rocket, half airplane, but at this point 110 tons of dead weight, the first Space Shuttle orbiter was ready to be towed from its hangar Monday through two desert cities to a dry lake runway for flight testing.

The delta-winged cargo carrier that will zoom back and forth from Earth to orbit in a few years was hooked to a tractor that would pull it at a stately 5 to 10 miles an hour to Edwards Air Force Base, 36 miles away.

Testing will begin Feb. 18.

Okay seen for anticrime strike force

Pomona council may split on financing of 10-man team

Pomona City Council Monday night will consider adoption of Police Chief Richard Slaght's recommendation to create a special 10-man strike force to deal with violent crime in the city.

Indications are that the council will approve the plan, but a possible split may develop between council members over the method of financing the special squad.

Cost of the strike force is estimated at $300,000 per year, and about $150,000 to finish out the current fiscal year.

Some council members are known to favor use of federal funds, while others favor placing a special tax assessment proposition on the municipal ballot in April.

If the plan is adopted by the council, it is expected it would take about 30 days to have the unit staffed, organized, equipped and ready for operation.

Other agenda items for 8 p.m. meeting include council consideration of a request from the National Hot Rod Association, sponsors of the Winternationals drag races this weekend at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, for exemption from the city's admissions tax.

Although the tax was adopted by the council last spring, a spokesman for the NHRA contends his organization was only notified of the tax last week, which was too late for inclusion on tickets to the event.

The council will also hold a public hearing on a request from B & B Ambulance Service for a permit to operate in the city on a limited basis. The company desires the right to pick up non-emergency patients for transport to hospitals in the West End communities upon request.

Contaminated coffee enters U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the price of coffee was doubling last year, more than 70 million pounds of green coffee beans entering the United States were found to contain insects, mold, rodent droppings and other contaminants.

Thousands of pounds already in this country also were seized by the Food and Drug Administration after inspectors found them being stored and shipped under unsanitary conditions. One batch contained human feces.

Most of the contaminated coffee, whether it was detained at ports like New York, New Orleans and San Francisco, or seized after it had made its way into interstate commerce, was ultimately released for consumption after it had been cleaned under FDA supervision.

Figures provided by the National Coffee Association show, for example, that it costs about $6 to recondition a 132-pound bag of coffee containing insects, a cost which ultimately is passed on to the consumer. Industry executives say this added cost "is not a significant factor in the price of coffee to the American consumer."

"We don't like to deal with delayed coffee," says an executive for General Foods, maker of Maxwell House. When a shipment is detained by the FDA, substitute coffee must be found and this often means paying more for lower quality, he says.

Coffee is one of the most frequently detained of all imported foods, an FDA official says, but he is quick to point out that the volume of coffee imports is larger than most other foods.

The total number of detentions and seizures, as reflected in statistics made available by the FDA, represented only a fraction of the 2.6 billion pounds of coffee that entered the United States last year.

However, the FDA official estimates that only 15 to 20 per cent of coffee shipments entering this country actually are inspected.

Statistics for other food items are not available. The coffee statistics were compiled as part of a special FDA study aimed at finding solutions to the problem.

The problem of unsanitary coffee entering this country is a growing one, according to government and industry officials, but they don't know whether it's due to an actual increase in filth or expanded coverage by FDA inspectors. The problem has caused enough concern so that FDA officials met with representatives of coffee-producing countries earlier this month in Dallas and Houston to discuss ways of cleaning up coffee shipments.

Among coffee-producing countries, some of the worst offenders are the Philippines, Madagascar and Nigeria, according to FDA figures. An FDA official, who asked not to be named, stressed that the unsanitary conditions were the fault of the exporting country or the shipper, not the American coffee firms who buy the green coffee beans to roast and put on supermarket shelves.

He provided the following breakdown of the total 434 shipments that were detained at U.S. ports last year:

—Insects, alive or dead, were found in 226.

—Beans were damaged by insects in 68.

—Coffee was water-stained, moldly or decomposed in 66.

—Rodent filth was found in 32.

—The remainder were seized for a variety of reasons, including oil stained bags and the presence of insecticides.

—Nine hundred bags of Brazilian coffee owned by the coffee division of The Great A&P Tea Co., Inc., and stored at Belt's Wharf Warehouses, Inc., in Baltimore, Md., was found to be contaminated with "a poisonous and deleterious substance," sodium aluminum fluoride.

—Ten thousand bags of Brazilian coffee owned by International Produce, Inc., and stored at Belt's warehouses "may have been rendered injurious to health by reason of being exposed to contamination with sodium bichromate."

Most of those 10,000 bags were reconditioned at a plant in Jersey City, N.J. "The bags were vacuumed and contents dropped into a conveyor and from there into a tumbler to remove dust," an FDA document says. About 80 bags could not be salvaged and were taken to a dump at Secaucus, N.J.

Dr. Sago installed president of APC

Dr. Paul E. Sago was inaugurated as the 14th president of Azusa Pacific College in ceremonies held Saturday at the campus.

Sago, appointed to the post last summer, was officially recognized as president of the 1,100-student college before an audience of approximately 500 persons, that included delegates from over 50 colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Prior to coming to Azusa, Sago had been an administrator at Armstrong College in Armstrong, Ind. He was appointed to the Azusa presidency following the death of Cornelius Haggard who had been the college head for 36 years.

DR. PAUL E. SAGO

Dr. David McKenna, president of Seattle Pacific University, was the inaugural speaker at the ceremonies Saturday. He spoke of the need for Christian colleges like Azusa Pacific to meet the challenge of a new "great awakening."

McKenna told of the three great spiritual awakenings during recent history that have profoundly influenced the freedoms that man now enjoys, and pointed out that our present society appears to be in just such an awakening.

He said that Christian colleges should offer leadership in any spiritual renewal, but cautioned that any leadership would be ineffective if it did not also include ethical considerations for necessary social and political reform.

John Morse, chairman of the board of trustees for Azusa Pacific made the investiture at Saturday's ceremonies. Dr. James Earl Massey, chaplain at Anderson College, delivered the inspirational message.

Bids sought for highway projects

The California Department of Transportation is calling for bids on 15 highway construction projects including two locations in Diamond Bar.

These are on Route 57, the Orange Freeway, between Diamond Bar Boulevard and Route 60, the Pomona Freeway; and on the Pomona Freeway between Old Brea Canyon Road and Golden Springs Drive.

This work calls for plant groundcover, shrubs and trees at both locations.

Bids will be opened Feb. 24, in Los Angeles. Estimated cost of both projects is $227,000.

Blaze destroys lighting company

Six Pomona Fire Dept. units responded to the 3:16 a.m. alarm near the intersection of Second Street and Hamilton Boulevard. Fire officials estimated the loss to the structure and contents at $20,000.

Cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

Car hits gas main; fire burns woman

A 21-year-old woman driver is reported in stable condition at the San Bernardino County Medical Center burn unit after she sustained first, second and third-degree burns on her arms and legs in an unusual accident on Carbon Canyon Road south of Chino.

According to Chino Fire Dept. officials, Julie Lee, address unknown, was driving a car with Oregon license plates along Carbon Canyon Road about 9:40 p.m. Friday, when she missed a turn in the road, and the car plummeted into a ravine.

The vehicle hit a 10-inch gas main, erupted it, and the escaping gas ignited.

Miss Lee was able to escape from the burning car, and to climb out of the ravine.

Officials said that television actor Ed Nelson happened to drive by, and gave Miss Lee a ride towards Chino.

He met the fire department paramedic unit at Pipeline and Carbon Canyon roads. Miss Lee was treated by paramedics, taken to Chino General Hospital and transferred to San Bernardino County Medical Center.

The whooper: he's different and special

SAVING THE WHOOPER

A whooping crane chases another which has invaded its territory at winter wildlife refuge in New Mexico. In an experiment there wildlife officials are attempting to have sandhill cranes raise their whooper cousin to keep them off the endangered species list.

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP) — The show starts every day an hour before dusk. With luck, one of the cast will be a special celebrity: a whooping crane.

"Look that way," Dick Rigby instructed, pointing north. "They feed in cornfields there all day long and all of them are back before dark."

Through binoculars, weaving threads of black laced the ginger sky and then the overture began, a distant, eerie trilling that grew ever louder, closer, tightening the pores.

Without sufficient warning they were overhead, just overhead, so low they seemed almost within touch, and there were tens of thousands of them, ducks frantically flailing the darkening sky, majestic snow geese in chevrons of white barking a high-pitched arrival song, squadrons of raucous Canadas, and at last the cranes, lordly birds, long necks outthrust in rightful disdain of all lesser creatures that fly.

"There's one! There's a whooper!" Rigby cried.

And there it was. As the formation winged past the curtain of a mountain, the whooper appeared as a single glistening pearl in a pale gray strand.

The formation circled, listening to the invitations of thousands of insistent kin to come join them on the ground for the night, and finally chose a group bedded down in an appealing marsh 200 yards away.

Do the sandhill cranes make him keep his distance?

"No" Dick Rigby said. "He has a place in the pecking order like all the rest, but he's not rejected. They don't seem to notice he's any different."

But he is. Different and special.

The whooper is one of six wintering in New Mexico in an experiment, successful so far, aimed at starting a second flock of the rare breed in North America and thus removing them from the endangered species list.

Rigby, a big, bluff man with a hard voice and a gentle nature, is manager of the Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge, a 57,000-acre sanctuary of life situated, with glaring irony, about 25 miles from the site of history's first atom bomb test.

"My job is to watch over them, see that they are well fed and able to get through the summer at the nesting ground and get back here for winter."

The experiment was the brainchild of Roderick Drewien, an expert on cranes at the University of Idaho and a pal of Dick Rigby's. It was Drewien's idea to steal whooping crane eggs from the great birds' only nesting site, in far north Canada, and put them in sandhill crane nests at the sandhill nesting site in Idaho.

So if the experiment works there will be two whooping crane flocks, the second one flying side by side with the sandhills between Idaho and New Mexico.

Bond money is marked for park

A combination restroom and snackbar facility and a group picnic area at Cahuilla Park in Claremont may soon become a reality.

The Claremont City Council Tuesday night went along with a recommendation from the Claremont Parks and Recreation Commission that the first money the city receives from the 1976 State Bond Act be spent on the Cahuilla Park improvements.

Parks and Recreation Director Fred Hawkins explained that Claremont can expect to receive about $16,506 a year each year of the life of the bond act.

Hawkins said that construction of the restroom and snackbar facility and design and development of the group picnic area "are of major importance to the entire community.

"The restroom facility is drastically needed," Hawkins said, "as a result of the extremely heavy program schedule, including tennis, adult softball, high school baseball, Pop Warner football, AYSO practice, rocket club, and the drop-in activity at the play area."

In reviewing a capital 6-year improvement program developed last year, Hawkins said that the restroom and group area were one and two on the list.

Learning goals sought in new program

Kommunity Kids Christian Nursery School of Pomona will offer a new program in open court reading, math and language arts development, beginning Tuesday.

The program, taught by Gloria Coates, is designed to cover a variety of teaching procedures and methods in reaching definite learning goals. Kindergarten and first grade students will participate in the special program.

Mrs. Coates described the program that covers different areas of learning.

"The emphasis is on deliberate teacher rather than on the management of activities. There are definite learning goals and the teacher's efforts are directed continually toward those goals. Teaching procedures are clearly set forth, but they allow ample freedom for the teacher to use her own style, whether it is a low-key, relaxed style or a more lively one," the teacher said.

The general principles of the kindergarten program involve learning reinforcement through feedback; self-correction rather than teacher correction; learning through exploration; fun in learning; creation of enthusiasm in various tasks; and accommmodation of individual differences.

The complete open court kindergarten program consists of 1½ hours of teaching per day. It is broken down into the divisions of language development, letters and sounds, classification and basic vocabulary; counting and measuring; thinking skills; perceptual games and activities; social development and self-awareness; human understanding through literature; and music.

The remainder of the daily kindergarten session will be devoted to more informal activities.

The open court program for first graders will involve a three-stage development of skills needed for independent reading. It is designed for the first half of first grade or for remedial use at higher levels.

The first stage consists of 10 getting acquainted sessions, devoted to listening skills, letter-name skills, and writing skills.

The second stage introduces sounds and blending techniques, dictation skills, simple stories and poems composed of the sounds taught. It involves one book and eight short soft-cover storybooks with coordinated vocabulary.

The third stage introduces the remaining sounds. The book for this stage contains dozens of fables and poems as well as exercises and opportunity for writing. There are also four soft-cover storybooks with coordinated vocabulary.

Mrs. Coates holds a lifetime standard teacher's credential for grades kindergarten through nine from the state of California. She taught in the Los Angeles Unified School District for eight years before recently joining the Kommunity Kids staff.

Mrs. Edith Mathews will assist in the teaching of the open court program.

D'Estaing willing to talk of cutting arms trade–Mondale

PARIS (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale, winding up the European leg of his international tour, said French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing gave "a warm response" Saturday to a call for talks on reducing the world armaments trade.

The vice president, in what was probably the toughest stop from a diplomatic standpoint on his 10-day trip, spent three hours at the Elysee Palace with Giscard d'Estaing. As with other European leaders, he reviewed international economics, the upcoming summit talks, and the Carter administration's goal to reduce nuclear proliferation.

From Paris, Mondale was going to Japan, with a brief stop in Iceland to meet government officials there.

A spokesman for the French president said the atmosphere of the talks was not only cordial but one of confidence. He said Mondale had a wide knowledge of issues, and the feeling at the Elysee Palace was that the visit advanced the dialogue between France and the United States.

Mondale told a news conference before leaving Paris that his discussion of arms sales with Giscard d'Estaing did not get into details of limiting the sales.

Carter and Mondale have frequently criticized the level of U.S. arms sales around the world. Since the United States is the largest international arms merchant, Mondale said, he told the French president that the Carter administration recognized it must take the lead in cutting back.

"Then we would hope to commence discussions with other arms producers" about taking similar steps, he said, noting that "we received a warm response" to this proposal from the French leader.

He said "strong representations" in this field would also be made to the Soviet Union, another leading arms merchant.

"There is a general consensus that progress is needed in this area and now the talks can begin," he said.

There have been strains recently in U.S.-French relations, most notably stemming from the independent course France has taken in the field of nuclear technology sales and its release of suspected Arab terrorist Abu Daoud, detained briefly in Paris earlier this month.

But Mondale said France was now making "a helpful contribution to the serious problem of controlling nuclear fuel of weapons grade quality," although it is in the midst of a sale of a nuclear reprocessing plant to Pakistan.

Mondale refused to reveal what he said specifically to Giscard d'Estaing about the Daoud affair. Carter, one day after Daoud was released, said he was "deeply disturbed" by the French action. Daoud is suspected of masterminding the massacre of 11 Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics in 1972.

"The French government shares with us concern for terrorism and the need to deal with terrorism," Mondale said. He said the discussion of terrorism was "raised in a constructive spirit."

British leftists outraged over 'extravagent' hospitality offered Mondale

LONDON (AP) — Left-wingers in Britain's ruling Labor party were outraged Saturday by reports that "extravagant" hospitality was offered U.S. Vice President Walter F. Mondale during his visit to London last Thursday.

A cognac estimated to cost at least $48 a bottle, Mouton Rothschild claret, and port from a private stock kept by the late Sir Winston Churchill were offered Mondale and his party, the Daily Mail reported.

The Page 1 article quoted Mondale press secretary Albert Eisele's description of the dinner laid on by Prime Minister James Callaghan at 10 Downing St.

"The British public would probably rise up in arms if they knew about it," he was reported to have said before the Mondale party left London for Paris.

If British taxpayers knew, Eisele was quoted as saying, "the government would be overthrown."

Tom Litterick, outspoken Labor member of Parliament from Birmingham, said: "Such hospitality is nothing but extravagant selfish indulgence. It is particularly offensive when the living standards of everyone in the country are being reduced.

"Vin ordinaire or even plain straightforward water would have been good enough," he added.

Dennis Skinner, another Labor MP, said: "I don't see why wage earners who tighten their belts should be faced with a government that spends money in this manner."

Officials at 10 Downing St. would not comment on the criticism but said the menu for the Mondale dinner included sole, duck and apricots, and profiteroles and chocolate sauce.

Callaghan himself is a nondrinker.

Behind the row is an ailing British economy, slowly recovering from its worst depression since World War II, in which pay increases are falling behind the cost of living.

3 girls kidnaped, 1 raped

Three Pomona girls were kidnaped at gunpoint late Friday night and forced to drive to Ganesha Park where one of them was sexually assaulted.

Police said the three girls were in their car in the 2400 block of Halcyon Way when a man walked up to the driver's window and asked for a light. He then produced a 4-inch .38 caliber revolver and forced his way into the backseat behind the driver ordering the car driven to Ganesha Park.

The gunman, described as a male black in his early 20s, medium height, black hair parted and a black mustache, pointed the gun at each of the victim's heads from time to time during the drive.

He ordered the car pulled off the road in the Ganesha hills and took one girl from the car to a secluded area off the roadway where he assaulted her.

In the meantime, the girl's two companions fled in the car to a nearby fire station on White Avenue to seek help. A Pomona police officer found the third victim in the hills and took her to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was treated and released.

Police said a similar incident with a gunman matching that description occurred a week ago.

Robbery in laundramat

A man in a Pomona laundramat was robbed and forced to fend off blows by a crowbar-wielding robber early Saturday morning.

The victim told police he was doing his laundry around 4:40 a.m. Saturday when three male black adults entered the laundramat at 1249 N. White Ave. They asked the victim for some soap before producing the crowbar.

One robber said, "Give me all your money."

The victim gave them all his change to be used in the washing machines trying to protect his currency.

One robber said, "I know you have bills in your pocket."

The robber then reached in the victim's pocket and took his currency. Before leaving, one of the thieves attempted to strike the victim with the crowbar, but the victim managed to fend off the blows with his arms. The three robbers then fled out the rear door of the laundramat west-bound on Orange Grove Avenue.

Obituaries

Ronald Mog

Ronald Ralph Mog, 17-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald P. Mog of 328 Navajo Springs Road, Diamond Bar, died Saturday morning in Children's Hospital, Los Angeles.

The child was born Aug. 24, 1975 in Pomona.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Rhonda and Cary, both of the home; and grandparents, Mrs. Eleanor Mog of Parma, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kronick of Racine, Wis.

Services will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Services will conclude in the chapel.

Louise Brehmer

Mrs. Louise M. Brehmer of 714 E. Fernleaf Ave., Pomona, died Friday afternoon in a local convalescent hospital.

Mrs. Brehmer was born July 3, 1893 in Dodge Center, Minn. She came to Pomona last year from Minneapolis to live with her son, Alfred W.

Besides the son, she is survived by two brothers, a sister, three grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Shipment will be made to Minneapolis, Minn., where services will be held Wednesday in the Trinity Lutheran Church.

Burial will be in the Hillside Cemetery in Minneapolis.

Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of local arrangements.

Special session slated

The Upland City Council has called a special working session Monday at 7 p.m. in the City Hall to study the problems at the 17th Street Reservoir constructed as a part of a city water expansion program.

Meeting with the council members will be engineers, contractors and consultants involved in the building of the reservoir at the corner of 17th Street and Benson Avenue with funds from a $2.5 million bond approved by the Upland voters in 1974.

The roof covering the 7.5-million gallon reservoir has developed cracks which, while they do not penetrate the ceiling at this point, are causing concern of city officials.

The city has not yet accepted the reservoir and completed payment to the construction firm pending additional study.

'Slumlord' unloads property

DETROIT (AP) — An inner-city Detroit landlord has hit on an unusual way to unload one of his slow-moving rental properties. He signed the deed for the building over to President-elect Carter.

Owner Charles Costa — a self-styled "slumlord" — said the move was a symbolic way of telling Carter the nation's cities need federal help.

"Our cities are falling apart," said Costa. "Detroit is just one of the worst examples. It's like having a time bomb in the center of millions of people; everyone hears it ticking, but nobody wants to play bomb squad."

Costa is the president of Housing Owners of United States Exchange (HOUSE), a landlords' group fighting what it considers unfair federal and state regulation of city housing.

Neighbors described the house, on the city's northwest side, as "raggedy." Costa agreed, but called the building "a fairly typical piece of Detroit rental property."

"I rather doubt that it's legal," said Frank Hagen of the Burton Abstract and Title Co. "There usually has to be a mutual agreement before property can be transfered."

Tax rate increase sought

Foothill Fire District, serving Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda, will go to the voters March 8 to request an increase in the district tax rate of $1 per $100 of assessed evaluation.

Currently the district tax rate is 70 cents per $100 of assessed evaluation. It has not been increased since the district was formed Jan. 1, 1975 by the San Bernardino County Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO).

Battalion Chief Robert Lee said additional funds are needed to increase personnel and replace old equipment in order to serve the rapidly increasing population in the foothill communities.

Lee said the 70 cent tax rate was the same levied by the old Alta Loma volunteer organization and was not increased even though the district was formed to increase services.

The district now has 31 full-time employes, including secretaries. The population has increased from 24,000 to 30,000 in the three communities since Jan. 1, 1975, and now is increasing so rapidly it is impossible to keep factually current.

The district has five pumping engines, three in good repair and two older units (one is 28 years old) that are used just for minor emergencies such as grass and car fires.

Another real need in the district, Lee said, is a fourth station probably to be situated in the industrial area south of Foothill Boulevard.

Many high school diplomas sought

Adult education flourishing in Claremont

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

In a college community such as Claremont where the average education per resident is 14.5 years, it would seem unusual to find many persons without a high school diploma.

But the Claremont Adult School, part of the unified school district, discovered there are quite a few, and has done something to remedy the situation.

Principal Charles W. Freitas, assured by many phone callers that they would take a diploma course, set up a personalized instruction lab for diploma seekers last fall.

Fifty persons enrolled for the first semester, and according to Freitas, the number is sure to grow as more persons find out about the lab where they can proceed at their own pace to acquire a high school diploma.

In fact, some have already completed the requirements for a diploma.

Freitas said that persons may enroll for the diploma course at any time. The lab is open Monday and Wednesday from 4 to 6 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. in Room 401 at Claremont High.

When a person enrolls, he or she is counseled by Mrs. Elizabeth (Betts) Linker to find out how many credits the person is lacking towards a high school diploma.

Mrs. Linker sends for transcripts, and will give credit for previous high school work, work experience, and military training.

"I do a lot of informal counseling," Mrs. Linker said. "I emphasize to the student that he can proceed at his own pace, and that there are instructors available at the lab to assist him."

She reviews for the diploma applicant the requirements for a high school diploma: 30 credits in English, 20 credits in social studies, 10 credits in mathematics, 10 credits in science, 90 credits in electives, and no credits for a required first aid or health course.

Those enrolled include persons 16 up into the 60s.

"The diploma course is still being built as we find out the wants and needs of the students," Freitas said.

Who are some of the diploma seekers?

They include such persons as the Claremont mother who has two school-age children. She left high school in her senior year to get married. Now she's found time to complete graduation requirements and to set for herself a career goal of registered nurse. She was able to learn through the school's computer the names of two and four-year colleges which give registered nursing degrees.

They include such persons as the wife of a foreign graduate student. She only completed ninth grade in her own country. Anxious to complete her high school education before taking on more family responsibilities, she enrolled in an extensive course of study last fall.

Her knowledge of English was expanded both in the program and in classes in English as a Second Language. She has completed graduation requirements and is planning to enroll in college.

The diploma seeker is a man in his 30s working on a job where his shift rotates every three weeks. He likes the Personalized Instruction Lab because he does not miss any class work during the three weeks that his work hours conflict with lab hours. He can pick up his studies where he stopped three weeks previously.

The diploma seeker also is the 18-year-old youth who needed only 15 credits to graduate and was in a hurry because he had to have a diploma for an immediate job opening. He spent a few nights reviewing and practicing test taking for the General Educational Development test- A high school equivalency certificate enabled him to get the job.

Freitas said that the diploma course is open to anyone. School boundaries are no barrier, he remarked.

"We're a telephone call away at 624-6402," he said.

With $290,408 raised

United Way near goal

The East Zone of the Los Angeles County United Way Campaign, which includes Claremont, La Verne, Pomona and San Dimas, is at 96 per cent of its goal with $290,408 raised to date.

The zone goal this year is 10 per cent over the total raised in last year's campaign, $276,823, according to John Felton, zone chairman.

The final campaign figure is projected at $297,000, Felton added, which will represent an 8 per cent increase.

Campaign results were announced at an awards presentation program at the Pomona Red Cross on Friday. The campaign is a partnership program of the United Way and the Red Cross.

Felton announced that Joseph Gendron, editor of the Progress Bulletin, will serve as zone campaign chairman for next year's drive.

Employe campaign chairmen awarded certificates were Dennis Phelps, Pomona Valley Community Hospital; Margaret Marxmiller, FMC Corp.: Claire Hunnicutt, Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association; Neal Coble, California Credit Union League; Michael Ferguson, Progress Bulletin; Joe Samaniego, Synthane Taylor Corp.; Walt Baggot, CUNA Mutual Insurance; Mike Dutton, City of San Dimas; Pat Morrison and Wayne McKenzie, City of Pomona; Jack Berg and Ernie Polster, Pomona Unified School District; Leland W. Holland, Claremont Manor.

Harry M. Grissard, Mt. San Antonio Gardens; Jesse F. Perrin, Pilgrim Place; Mike Gozansky, Pascoe Steel Corp.; John Harrison, CUNA Mutual Insurance; H.E. Gist, Potlatch-Northwest Paper Co.; John Gilham, Sentinel Container Corp.; Ray O'Toole, Allen Avenue School; Gabriel Damico, Le Puerta Junior High School; Joe Moody, Castle Rock School; and Herman B. Landis, Hillcrest Home.

Special recognition awards were also made to Mrs. Vonne Robertson, Progress Bulletin; Charles McDaniel, Southern California Edison Co., who served as last year's campaign chairman and adviser this year; and Felton, Security Pacific National Bank, chairman.

Claremont planning takes time

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

More waiting is in store for land developers in the hillside area east, north and west of Claraboya in Claremont.

At least one developer has been waiting four years for the city to tell him how many houses he can put on his 110 acres.

City Planning Director Donald G. King told the Claremont Planning Commission at the end of a two-hour study session Tuesday afternoon at the Claremont Public Library that he in the next 13 to 14 weeks will prepare draft ordinances setting up two zoning districts in the hillsides.

King explained that one zoning district would contain land where, because of the slope of the terrain, development would be prohibited.

The other zone, King explained, would contain a holding district where housing development would be allowed under certain standards.

In addition to the two draft ordinances, King said that he will continue his work of getting the open space and conservation elements of the city's general plan up to date, according to the new requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act.

King explained that he currently is working on a general plan amendment which would change the regional shopping center concept for the area west of the Claremont Tennis Club to a zoning on which the Planning Commission can make a decision.

King said that the rezoning study will take about 3½ to 4 weeks before he can get to the hillsides.

King explained that the seven square miles of hillsides in the study will be divided into two districts, one where land not next to developed land will be put into a holding district to prevent leapfrogging development.

King suggested that commission members reread the environmental impact report (EIR) prepared two years ago on the hillsides.

He explained that under new changes to the Environmental Quality Act effective Jan. 1 a city rezoning a piece of land or changing its general plan must write an EIR for each change.

Every piece of land in the hillsides outside Claremont has been listed by the county as conservation, or if under private ownership as open space, King said.

He stressed that under the new guidelines the burden is on the developer to show that it is safe to develop tracts in the foothills.

"We believe that areas in the foothills are geologically unstable," King commented. "An EIR must show through tests that the area would be safe for residents in case of earthquake or fire."

"Would there be an economic impact on our city if the foothills are developed?" King asked. "What kind of protective standards can we adopt to insure that residents are safe to a reasonable extent?"

King recommended prezoning the foothills to a conservancy listing. He said that there is no reason that the city must justify foothill development.

But Art Waters, 4931 Webb Canyon Road, said that he and his sisters have owned 45 acres in the hillsides for the 30 years, and "when we retire we would like to be able to sell it."

Waters complained that the county has zoned the area for 10,000 square-foot lots, and that taxes have soared on his property to $6,000 a year.

Much discussion was held on the county's assessing hillside property at a housing density level at which the land could never be developed because the slopes are too steep.

"We would hate to see the city restrict development so severely that we have lost our investment," Waters said.

Bugbear of childhood still has teeth

We have nothing to fear but fear itself: Roosevelt

EDITOR'S NOTE: Fear, that bugbear of childhood, still has teeth for adults. For many, it is paralyzing numbness that defies reason and cripples lives, an inescapable nightmare that knots the stomach and glazes the eyes.

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Thoreau wrote, "Nothing is so much to be feared as fear."

Years later, Franklin Roosevelt told a frightened nation: "We have nothing to fear but fear itself."

Philosopher and president were reassuring those of us who know ordinary fear. Their words were not all that helpful to the millions of Americans who know special fears — those who are phobics.

They suffer from anxieties that are not understood, fear that can be totally debilitating, fear that overtakes their rational minds, fear that paralyzes the limbs, makes the heart race and the stomach twitch with nausea.

Their best friends think they're just a little crazy. Imagine, they sniff, a grown woman who has been afraid to leave her home for 28 years. Another lady so terrified of toy balloons she won't take her children to the park because somewhere a balloon may be spotted. Or the electrician who walked up 17 floors a day because he was afraid of the elevator.

It all sounds slightly ridiculous. But these phobias cause loss of jobs, dissolution of marriages, alienation of friends, destruction of the productive lives of very bright people.

Therapists say a fear becomes a phobia when it starts affecting one's daily life, when it becomes more and more difficult to cope because of the problem.

In other words, there are irrational fears that can easily be avoided. And there are fears that make good sense.

Says Dr. Gordon Derner, a psychologist at Long Island's Adelphi University: "If I told you to imagine there was a snake on this floor and you started to panic thinking of it, that's phobic. If you looked down and saw a rattlesnake and said, 'Let's get the hell out of here,' that's common sense."

Phobias, which researchers believe have existed since primitive times, are usually curable. It's a question of finding the right treatment for the right person.

Even in Manhattan, where there are more psychiatrists than delis per square block, it's tough. Take Clare an articulate woman who had been extremely phobic since she was a child.

"In school, instead of concentrating on what the teacher was saying, I would concentrate on whether the door was open, on whether I could get out," she recalls.

Things worsened and Clare went to a psychiatrist. For three years, she told him about her dreams, her relationship with her father, her sex life, her true feelings about her mother.

He didn't want to hear about the symptoms — symptoms that were growing worse. He didn't want to hear that her world was closing in, that she could travel less and less far from her home in the Bronx.

She went to another psychiatrist. He treated her for four more years. Still no relief. She was becoming suicidal and worrying that her marriage would break up. And the little world she had created for herself was ever shrinking.

Clare then found Dr. Manuel Zane, a psychiatrist who makes housecalls when the situation demands it. He simply asked her to try to go a little further than four blocks.

"It took him six months to get me to go from 165th Street to 161st Street," she says. "He provided the atmosphere where I could do these things."

Clare is now fully functional, able to fight through a crowd of people in a noisy cafeteria and laugh: "This is no place for a self-respecting phobic."

Dr. Zane, who works with a phobia clinic in White Plains, N.Y., and practices privately both in Manhattan and White Plains, has taken other patients on elevators, out into open fields, on top of high buildings, and once even accompanied a phobic on a Caribbean cruise.

The technique Dr. Zane uses is called "in vivo" or, on the West Coast, "exposure therapy," one of the newer methods of treating phobics. Besides talking about fears, the person is taken to confront the fear and understand the relationship between the physical twitchings of the body and the reactions of the mind.

The psychiatrists who treated Clare represent diversity of opinion. Traditional analysts believe the problem is deeply rooted, with the phobic behavior just a symptom of the problem. Others say let's cure the symptoms and return the patient to society.

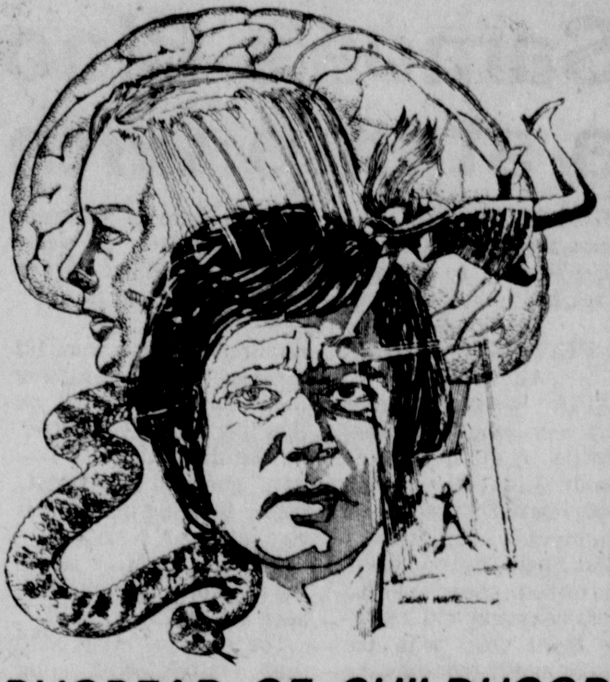
The disagreement is also evident in theories about the causes of phobias.

Dr. Gordon Derner, a psychologist at Adelphi University in Long Island, explains it this way:

"The traditionalist would say the fear of leaving the house is rooted in the basic expulsion from the womb. The behavioralist would say it may or may not have been caused by some real life experience."

Dr. Leon Salzman, a traditional psychoanalyst who practices in New York and teaches at Georgetown University Medical School in Washington, says behavioral therapy does not cure the problem. He also says there is a point of reference from which a phobia develops.

"While behaviorists alter the phobia, they do not alter the underlying personality configuration that produces the phobia," he said. "All of these tactics are very effective and useful devices, but they do not cure the phobic. There are 20 to 30 gimmicks of this type."



BUGBEAR OF CHILDHOOD

Dr. Salzman is not averse to these techniques. He thinks they are useful but adds, "The treatment has to be more than a behavioral deconditioning."

Dr. Zane believes that phobics who seek professional help are just the tip of the iceberg, particularly with agoraphobics, the silent sufferers who may remain hidden. This phobia, "the fear of the

Samoa's Bloody Mary rates a stamp with her portrait

EDITOR'S NOTE — In Western Samoa, everyone knows that Aggie Grey is Bloody Mary. Over the years she's become so famous that the government of that island has issued a stamp with her portrait on it.

By PETER O'LAUGHLIN
AP Writer

APIA, Western Samoa (AP) — James Michener admits that he based Bloody Mary, his famous South Pacific character, on Aggie Grey.

But Aggie Grey, a sort of uncrowned queen of the South Seas and still knocking them dead with the hula at age 79, reckons she owes a lot of her fame to a drink named Tom Collins.

It was the most popular order at the Cosmopolitan Club on the waterfront at Apia, capital of Western Samoa, where Aggie has been holding forth for 57 years. It was here that Michener saw her, and through his writing she became well-known to Americans, particularly as Bloody Mary in the Broadway musical "South Pacific."

Today the Cosmopolitan Club is Aggie Grey's Hotel, a modern 120-room inn where Aggie, still trim, performs hip-swaying dances at a weekly Fiafia, or Samoan festival.

The hotel, with two swimming pools and a garden of crimson hibiscus, is a far cry from the bar Aggie started in 1919 when New Zealand introduced prohibition on the island.

The idea was to cut down on the wild drinking of the Samoans. To get a drink, you had a doctor sign a permit saying your health required it. There were 102 veterans around Samoa in those days and I got all their permits," Aggie said.

"We didn't have a real bar," she said of the white frame building that now is the hotel's office. "Everyone used to sit on the floor on mats and drink beer and whiskey."

The crew of every ship that visited Apia soon steered for Aggie's.

Prohibition was also in force for the U.S. Navy, stationed 80 miles away in Pago Pago on the American-controlled half of Samoa. Aggie's place became their port of call whenever possible, and the drink the American sailors wanted was Tom Collins.

"Boy. That Tom Collins. The Americans drank so much of it I was shoving dollars under the mat, under the icebox and everywhere," Aggie recalls cheerfully.

Then World War II came to the Pacific and the U.S. overflow from Pago Pago spread to Apia. Aggie decided to sell hamburgers.

"Hamburgers were the next big thing . . . The Americans had all the money in the world. They didn't know what to do with it and they were going to war. I really cared about those young men."

It was the Seabees — the Navy construction crews — who told Aggie about hamburgers. The Seabees cleaned up the club for Aggie, and two officers helped Aggie with her hamburger plans.

"I bought a whole cow, got onions, salt and pepper, like they said, but on opening day they didn't show up to show me how to make 'em," she said.

"The first order I got I had to say to a young soldier, 'How do you stop them falling apart?' He jumped over the counter, flattened down the meat balls and said, 'See, it's easy.' "

Aggie fed hamburgers to 12,000 Seabees and sailors, she estimates. "When they left they all said, 'Aggie, goodbye, we'll come back and see you.' "

But only nine made it back.

"I suppose they got married and tied down with families. And of course lost of Seabees got wiped out."

Two years after the war, when her husband died, Aggie expanded her hotel. "We started with 24 rooms, not enough sheets or towels, so that most of our regular guests used to bring their own towels and give them to me when they left," she said.

Aggie's guests include tourists, businessmen on their Pacific rounds and film stars like Marlon Brando. "Last movie of his I saw he was getting very stout," she said. "But was he handsome."

Now she sits back, taking it easy, so well-regarded by the government of Western Samoa which became independent in 1962 that they issued a stamp with her portrait on it.

"I can still touch my toes. It's the dancing that does it. Samoan girls don't do the dancing enough. That's why I am still so supple. All I need now is a gigolo."

In case she is taken seriously, she adds, somewhat regretfully, "I'm too old for that now."

Mr. Coffee adopts tea into family

Vincent Marotta, president of North American Systems, Inc., said Wednesday that his firm has entered a major cooperative advertising arrangement with Lipton Tea Co. of New York to promote use of tea in the nation's biggest selling automatic coffee maker.

Marotta said the campaign comes at a time when consumers are revolting against high coffee prices and when tea consumption normally starts its warm weather upswing.

He said Lipton would be responsible for the bulk of the advertising campaign.

"But the big ticket starts in the May to September period, during the iced tea peak period," he said.

Nothing to fear marketplace," also has been called "housewives' syndrome" since the great majority of the sufferers are women.

An Australian physician, Dr. Claire Weekes, has specialized in long distance treatment of agoraphobics through letters and tapes. She is most concerned over the lack of understanding that the public — and even some doctors — have about the affliction.

"One doctor just recently wrote that agoraphobics simply lack courage. This couldn't be more wrong. They are extremely brave. They are constantly afraid they will make fools of themselves. When that panic hits, it's like an electric blast," says Dr. Weekes

Another treatment is called systematic densensitization. Dr. Allan Leventhal, a psychologist at American University in Washington, says it was introduced in the 1960s and has been gaining wider acceptance.

First, he says, the patient must learn deep muscle relaxation. Then he must establish an imaginary hierarchy of scenes related to the phobia.

For instance, if a patient fears elevators, he must imagine scenes relating to elevators. One set could be a bank of elevators viewed from a distance, another of those glass-enclosed elevators, another a picture of himself in an elevator.

Next he visualizes the least threatening scene and works upward until one produces panic. Then he puts the deep muscle relaxation into effect until he can think of the scene without panic.

"It's a very graduated confrontation," says Dr. Leventhal. "For those to whom it is appropriate, it has a 90 per cent success rate."

Another in-office treatment is a direct confrontation called "implosion therapy." In it, the therapist attempts to make the fear collapse under its own weight.

For instance, if the phobic is afraid of snakes the therapist might say: "Imagine snakes all over the place. There are snakes crawling all over your body, there are loud hisses, tongues are darting in and out, the snakes, thousands of them, are searching for an opening to crawl into your body..."

The theory is that the terror and panic can only last so long and eventually the patient realizes nothing has happened to him. He is still there. He is safe.

Needless to say, this does not work on every patient and some therapists are opposed to it.

One of several phobia clinics in the country is at Manhattan's Roosevelt Hospital. It operates on a goup encounter basis.

Phobics of various sorts meet and discuss their problems; experts are called in for reassuring lectures and "helpers" are assigned to each patient.

Example: One of the members found a Manhattan building with a bank of elevators and a sympathetic operator. Those who fear elevators go to the building with a helper, a person not afraid of elevators, and "practice."

"These people suddenly are able to say to themselves, there's someone else in the world who is like me."

'Wildfowl' painter portrait of a rarity: a happy man

EDITOR'S NOTE: The patriarch of American bird painters has more commissions than ever, the vitality of a man half his age and energy to spare in a fight for his beloved wildfowl. An AP writer visits the Wisconsin artist and draws the portrait of a rarity: a happy man.

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Writer

BRIGGSVILLE, Wis. (AP) — America's foremost painter of wildfowl is alive and well, thank you, having just passed his 80th birthday, and still mightily active at the easel. And mightily active otherwise as well, on behalf of his birds.

Owen Gromme lives on 167 acres of mixed marshland, pools and upland woods in what started out to be a farmhouse, somewhere around the turn of the century.

"If you took a map of North America," he says, "and put down a ruler from the south end of Hudson's Bay to the north end of Chesapeake Bay, you could draw a line that goes right through this house."

But from the cathedral windows that take up the whole north end of his studio, you can watch the passing of just about every migratory bird known to use this greatest of the inland flyways, along with some that aren't supposed to.

The door that is nearest the winding country road which passes by the farmhouse bears a neat sign: "Guests by Invitation ONLY please." It is a modest defense established by Anne in her 50th year as wife, secretary and general manager.

Even so, there are more guests than they need if Gromme, the articulate and gregarious, is to finish that ever-growing list of accepted commissions — now a page and a half long, single spaced, running mostly from $5,000 to $15,000 for small canvases — not to mention the new requests from such clients as the Shah of Iran, whose Empress currently is pressing for a picture.

And not to mention the spur of the moment drawings exchanged this summer with the naturalist nephew of Emperor Hirohito, when the shy and slender prince from Japan visited the farmhouse on the hill.

There was a hiatus last fall in the works already commissioned, for Gromme has taken up again what younger men have called another lost cause: the defense of his beloved Horicon Marsh, one of the great waterfowl wonderlands on the continent. tinent.

If you stand before the mild reproof of the farmhouse door, waiting to see what will happen now that you have recklessly pushed the bell, you may hear a faint howl of indignation from somewhere within: Gromme already has guests and is speaking passionately to the current subject.

Horicon Marsh is more than 20,000 acres in central Wisconsin, drained once in a disastrous farming experiment early in the century, then left to the slow fires that burned deep in the dry peat for years. Restored through the relentless efforts of many conservationists, including Gromme, it came under public ownership, and the northern half was made into a National Wildlife Refuge.

It has become the home of innumerable small birds and animals ranging up to whitetail deer, and is favored by countless ducks and shorebirds, both resident and transient. But it has reached its greatest fame as a major stopping place for the great armadas of Canada geese on their way south — last October, the peak population was more than 270,000 of the majestic birds.

But Horicon has become

IN FLIGHT — This painting by Owen J. Gromme shows Canadian geese at Tamarack Lake. They have been the object of his lifelong study and, at 80, he's still a leading proponent of their preservation.

too successful for its own good, the federal wildlife people say. They have adopted, to considerable outcry, a policy of dispersion they say is necessary to avoid an outbreak of disease and to reduce the depredation on crops growing on the farmlands for miles about. So they have drawn down the waters once again and started harassment on foot, in air boats where water remains, and by air as well in order to break up the enormous flocks and hurry their departure south.

Paying for a legal fight against such measures is expensive. On a recent television interview, Gromme offered to paint a picture of the marsh immediately, for $3,000 to be donated to the defense.

Two days later he had a certified check from a donor who was anonymous by request. The picture shows 13 — "the unluckiest number there is" — Canada geese descending forlornly on a desolate muddy flat that is recognizably Horicon. Gromme called it "Horicon Marsh 1916-1975," the way "you'd see it on a tombstone."

For Gromme, the mighty Canadas with their stately flight and mystic clarions have been a lifelong study, and Gromme was led back to its beginnings on a crisp fall day by a visitor — Del Bray, mayor of Willow Springs, Mo., and a boyhood friend of Gromme's at Fond du Lac.

Now Bray says: "Show us that first picture of the geese, Owen, the one that you did when you were a kid, the one that always hung in your father's bedroom."

"I never show that to anyone any more," Gromme says. "It's derivative, when I was learning how to paint."

But he fumbles in the shadows behind the old-fashioned accountant's stand-up desk, and draws forth a bundle wrapped carefully in paper. It is oil on board: a flock of geese descending on a field of corn stubble. He turns it over, and there is the boyish scrawl recording a young artist's debt in design: "Last 10 birds on left after Lynn Bogue Hunt."

"It was on a calendar," Gromme says softly, remembering a kitchen with oilcloth on the table and lamplight more than 60 years ago.

He did not make his reputation on geese, of course. There were trips all over the world, most of them for the Milwaukee Museum, and everything from African rhinos to the portrait of a polar bear with a notably interested expression, which Gromme says is because he made the original sketch from an adjoining ice floe while he and the bear were floating in some odd place like the Bering Straits.

But there is little dispute over Gromme's premier position among living painters of birds, and the body of his work may well, in the judgment of some art historians, surpass that of Audubon, Wilson and Fuertes — under whom he studied. Dr. Roger Tory Peterson, himself a naturalist and painter of international reputation, long since called Gromme "America's finest upland bird artist."

He was chosen to select the items in what was advertised as the finest exhibit of bird art in North America a few weeks before, at the opening of the Lehigh Yawkey Woodson Art Museum at Wausau, Wis.

Bird artists are a special breed, meticulously realistic when the fashion may be nonrepresentational art; superior craftsmen, more often than not trained in science as well as art. Great reputations in this field, as in others, are based on the paying of dues — establishing the range of skills on a foundation as broad as possible, beginning at the bottom.

Gromme began the series of 328 avian species in 1941, and has been acknowledged as the master since it was published in one volume in 1963, with the supremely modest title of "Birds of Wisconsin" — all the birds known to be recorded in the state now or in the past.

Parent preschool classes set

The Claremont Adult School, a part of the Claremont Unified School District, has scheduled two parent education preschool classes at Mountain View School beginning Monday.

The older children, 3 years to kindergarten, will attend Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to noon. Parents must attend two of the three sessions, or all three if desired.

The younger children, 18 months to 3 years, will attend Tuesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon.

The classes are designed to offer parents an opportunity to learn about child growth and methods of solving behavior problems through participation in discussion and observation of their children.

Persons wanting more information may phone the Claremont Adult School at 624-6402.

Yakutat's natives value tradition over oil boom

EDITOR'S NOTE: "They need Yukutat, but we don't need them." "They" are the big oil companies, and the speaker is one of the young native leaders who put preservation of their land and traditions above the lure of the oil boom.

By G. MICHAEL HARMON
Associated Press Writer

YAKUTAT, Alaska (AP) — The Tlingit Indians of this glacier-sculpted bay have learned a lot since the first white men met them in the summer of 1787.

The white men who sailed into Yakutat Bay last fall with a 27,000-ton drilling rig faced some of the toughest "take it or leave it" bargaining oil men have seen this side of the Middle East.

Why did the British aboard the 100-ton square-rigged brig "Queen Charlotte" have an easier time? What happened to the simple folk since Capt. George Dixon reaped extraordinary profits by trading glass beads for otter pelts?

Awareness, that's what.

"They need Yakutat, but we don't need them," says Byron Mallott, one of the fiery young native leaders of this little fishing town of about 500. "Some people thought we were crazy when we didn't fall all over ourselves when the oil companies wanted to come in here.

"But we make our lives here. People don't seem to understand what this country means to us... We're determined not to see it destroyed for something like development or growth."

That's the kind of thinking Shell, Arco and Mobile encountered when they anchored their exploratory drilling rig, "Seedco 70", in the bay, with potential profits from an offshore oil field rivaling Prudhoe Bay at stake.

The result is that the oil companies have agreed to every community demand, including prohibitions against owning property, housing employes locally or constructing land-based storage and production facilities.

Mallott and the other Tlingit (pronounced Klingit) natives of Yakutat were born and raised in what scientists have called a country of "instant geology."

It is a country shaped by the advance and retreat of some of the largest action glaciers in the world. Nobody has counted them, but one, the Malispina Glacier, is larger than the state of Rhode Island.

Massive earthquakes have twisted the surface along the 15-mile-wide strip of habitable, forested lowland. Storms from the North Pacific smash against the sides of mountains that soar up to 20,000 feet. Rainfall averages 132 inches a year, snowfall 222 inches. Storm winds over 100 miles per hour power 60-foot waves.

Wildlife is abundant, and 90 per cent of the households depend on subsistence activities such as fishing, hunting and berry picking as a major source of food.

Salmon, cutthroat trout, Dolly Varden char, northern pike and rainbow trout fill the sea and streams. The spruce, hemlock and cottonwood forests abound with moose, mountain goat, bear, wolf, mink, marten, lynx; the sea with seals, whales, sea lions and sea otters; the marshes with snow geese and trumpeter and whistling swans.

To the Tlingits, that is what is at stake.

To the oil men, the bay is a perfect spot for a service base for the drilling that may reach 22 miles offshore. The field is estimated to contain up to 7.2 billion barrels of oil, 52.6 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

But not all the oil in Saudi Arabia can sway the Tlingits, as anthropologist Dr. Frederica de Laguna observes:

"The environment is not for the Tlingit simply the land and sea with natural resources to be exploited," Dr. de Laguna wrote in her epic study of the Tlingit Indians. "It is much more a community of living beings, where the lines which we would draw between man and beast or between the animate and inanimate are blurred or do not exist. The Tlingit shares his world with his nonhuman relatives and fellow creatures as he shares it with other people."

"The environmental impact statement for offshore drilling forecast a population growth impact on Yakutat of 1,150 per cent to 4,600 people by 1985," says Mallott, 33. "The impact on the community would have been beyond its capacity to absorb or respond to financially.

"With development of that scale, traditional Tlingit values would have been lost and the lifestyles of the residents of this community so prized by whites and natives alike would have been lost and the community would have become just another industrial town."

Although a joint city-state legal challenge to the offshore leasing failed, the city and the Tlingits, who represent more than 80 per cent of the population, rallied.

They formed an unusual partnership between the city and Yakutat native village corporation, Yak-Tat Kwaan, one cog in a regional corporation created to administer the more than $900 million and 40 million acres from the Native Claims Settlement Act.

With the exception of two small pieces of land, including the old cannery, the Kwaan owns all the property surrounding the bay, a total of more than 23,000 acres.

The confrontation was inevitable.

ENVIRONMENT AT STAKE — The aerial photograph shows the glacier-sculpted bay of Yakutat, Alaska. To preserve its beauty and their way of life, the Tlingit Indians of the little fishing town have bargained hard with oil companies wishing to build a service base there for exploiting offshore oil. The pier at right is the proposed site.

Natural gas shortage haunts Southland future

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

Unless construction is started this year on a Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) receiving terminal, there's going to be a shortage of natural gas in Southern California in three years.

That warning came from Don Crawford, Pomona district manager for the Southern California Gas Co.

This winter energy emergencies exist in Ohio, Indiana, New York and New Jersey where dwindling supplies of natural gas are dangerously low because of the bitter cold weather.

In those areas, temperatures have dropped to 5 degrees and less, schools and offices have been closed and people have been advised to set thermostats at 65 degrees to conserve fuel.

While the danger of freezing from cold weather does not exist for Southern California residents, lack of fuel could cripple industry.

Southern California industries have been on short rations of natural gas for as long as 30 years, and the situation is going to get worse before it gets better, he said. "But it isn't because the world is short of gas. It's because means to get the gas to where it's needed do not exist.

"Each day about 2.1 billion cubic feet of gas is burned off as it comes out of oil wells in Iran simply because there are no facilities for storing or shipping that gas.

"That's a day's supply in the Southland," said Crawford.

Currently there is no shortage of gas for homes in Southern California. Homes get top priority for available supplies.

Industry, however, is required to cut back or eliminate the use of gas when supplies run low. The lowest priority is given electric power plants. Southern California Edison Co., once the biggest customer of Southern California Gas Co., now relies mostly on oil.

Facilities using 750,000 cubic feet of natural gas a day at peak capacity are in the next lowest priority level.

"Normally, because this winter is unusually warm, Southland industry would have been permitted more gas. This year, however, 300 million cubic feet of gas a day, originally scheduled for the Southland, is being loaned to the frozen East," said Crawford.

The Southern California Gas Co. supplies come from Texas via the El Paso Natural Gas Co. and the TransWestern Pipeline from Houston.

Normally, the East has no claim on this gas, explained Crawford. And once the emergency is over, the Southland will be entitled to replacement of all the gas it has loaned.

Crawford said that by 1990 it "may be possible not only to provide all the gas needed for homes, but also for all industrial customers, including Southern California Edison."

To accomplish this, plans are being made to purchase some 500,000 cubic feet of gas from Indonesia a day, with a storage facility to be built at Oxnard.

Crawford said restrictions on industry are controlled by the California Public Utilities Commission (PUC).

With restraints on industry, its use of oil rather than natural gas results in what Crawford calls a "detriment of the air quality," meaning industry using oil produces more pollutants into the air.

"The PUC tightened restrictions last year, requiring some facilities to switch to oil earlier and stay on oil for longer periods.

"The California priority schedule is expected to become tighter in the next few years," said Crawford.

Some priority two facilities were reduced to priority three or four last month, meaning less gas and more dependency on oil, and others will be moved lower down the priority list by next December.

Crawford said the Southland situation could have been much worse if there had been normal temperatures this winter.

"Usually, Southern California homes use seven times as much gas in the winter as in the summer. This year, however, homeowners have been able to hold down the consumption of gas because we haven't had any real cold weather."

Solar energy tests set

Southern California Gas Co. has asked the California Public Utilities Commission (PUC) for an $11 million rate increase over a five-year period to install and test 315 solar energy systems in Southern California.

The systems — if the rate increase is approved — will provide hot water, pool heating, space heating and cooling and industrial high-temperature heat.

The initial rate increase proposed would be about $2.5 million the first year, or about 3 cents per month for a typical residential customer. The utility hopes that if it is funded, the program will prove that solar energy is practical, reliable and cost effective.

Thanks, friends, but no thanks

Catching a bus, and a bad day

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

For some months now, friends have been telling me that the best bargain in town is an 80-cent bus ride to Los Angeles.

They pointed out that if a person drove there and back, the gasoline alone would come to about $3 for the 70-mile trip.

Of course, the bus would take a little longer — say 20 minutes more — and I'd have to walk a little more, say three blocks, to my destination. But then I could arrive refreshed, plan my day, read a book, or just rest and leave the driving to the Rapid Transit District.

Since I spend a couple of days a week at the Hall of Administration, it all seemed like a good idea. So last week I acceeded to the urgings of my friends; I wish to report that those friends now are just acquaintances, if that.

They protested that I just happened to catch a bad day. They were right. It was a bad day.

I took the bus at 8:10 a.m. at Mission Boulevard and Garey Avenue. As I handed the woman at the wheel a $1 bill and waited for my change, she sighed with resignation. "We don't make change in the bus," she said as if she had said it a thousand times before. "Just fold up the dollar and put it into the box. I'll give you a transfer, if you want."

"To where?"

"Up to you," she shrugged. "You can use it to go to Inglewood, North Hollywood, Santa Monica . . . "

I took the transfer and found a seat. I settled back to enjoy the ride — after all it was a bargain even at a buck — watching the familiar places go by, when a heavy smell of burned tires began to drift through an open window. We were on the freeway past Covina. We had a flat.

The driver pulled the bus off to the shoulder at an emergency telephone and made a call. Then we waited. When your bus has a flat, you don't fix it yourself, you don't call the Auto Club, you wait — until the next bus shows up.

Twenty-five minutes later the next bus arrived and we resumed our trip. We got to Los Angeles at 9:30. Total travel time, 100 minutes.

The day in Los Angeles was a tiring one and I looked forward to coming home by bus, not having to fight the rush hour traffic. If I took the 3:40 bus back to Pomona, I surely could be home before 5.

It didn't quite work that way. The 3:40 bus was a few minutes early, and I joined those who had also missed it.

Buses kept passing the corner of First and Hill Streets in Los Angeles, but Pomona bus 480 was nowhere.

Fifteen minutes passed when 480 arrived. The sign said its destination was El Monte. Could they have made a mistake?

"Are you going to Pomona?" I asked the driver.

"No, El Monte," he said.

"But then your number is wrong," I tried to argue feebly, "The 480 bus goes to Pomona."

"My number is right, SIR," the driver snapped back. "And I'm going to El Monte."

I had been standing on the corner more than 25 minutes when the Pomona bus arrived. The bus was crowded and there was only standing room. When we boarded there wasn't even standing room left.

Manila folder stacked with papers in my hand, I held on to the overhead strap, trying to wiggle my tired feet, when the bus came to an unexpected stop. The folder fell out of my hand and the papers slid out all over the floor. Other passengers helped me collect them and kept watch over me lest it happen again.

As we neared home the crowd thinned out. A seat appeared finally, but a more agile young man got to it before me. Finally, I got a seat at Covina.

I arrived at Pomona at 5:31, picked up my car and drove home in comfort.

Now that I made the trip — have had the experience — I would like to make a few conclusions. But you probably wouldn't want to hear them. Let's just say it was a bad day.

LEARNING TO SKI

Learning to ski— rare gift for some

At the end of their first skiing lesson, two teen-age boys were coming off the rope tow and gliding down the hill under complete control.

This is not too unusual for students at the Movie Slope Ski School at Mt. Baldy but these two students are unique in the skiing field — they are developmentally disabled.

The boys are being trained to enter the Winter Special Olympics for mentally retarded in Steamboat Springs, Colo., later this week.

The novice skiers, Mark Giovanne and Dennis Rennish, both 18, attend the Chaffey Training Center, Ontario. Bill Thornhill, a teacher at the school, is serving as the area coordinator for the California Special Olympics.

"We've taught a paraplegic girl and other handicapped youths to ski," Adams said.

California will send 19 participants to the Special Olympics. According to Thornhill, these two will be the only ones taught to ski in advance.

For the first time since its creation in 1968, the Special Olympics, the world's largest sports program for the mentally retarded, will hold the winter event for 500 special athletes.

The games are being hosted by the Greater Steamboat Springs Rotary Club and the people of Steamboat Springs.

Coached by former U.S. Olympic stars Billie Kidd and Swen Wiik, and the instructors of the Steamboat Springs Ski School, the athletes will take part on alpine cross-country events, ice skating and other adaptations of winter sports. Three days of instructions in Colorado will precede the actual games. Included, also, will be a traditional opening and closing ceremony, dances and many exhibitions of skiing skills and social events.

Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Shriver is founder and president of the Special Olympics.

Star athletes from the Special Olympics coaching staff who will participate include Rafer Johnson, Suzy Chaffee, Frank Gifford and Chris Evert.

Created and sponsored by the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, these olympics now involve more than 600,000 mentally retarded individuals and 175,000 volunteers in a year-round program of sports training and athletic competition in every state and 13 foreign countries.

'Overwhelmed' by her accomplishment

Blind psychologist finds a dream

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

It took six months of searching to find an ideal new office, but blind psychologist Mari Bull of Claremont is so delighted with her setting that she is staging an open house for friends this afternoon.

A former Spanish teacher at Claremont High School, Dr. Bull, at 40, decided that what she really wanted to do was counseling. So she quit her job of six years, returned to school to obtain a doctorate in clinical psychology and opened her own office.

"In my saner moments, I'm overwhelmed by what I did," she laughs.

"I need to be surrounded by beautiful things to be at my best emotionally," said the psychologist. "And it's important for me to be at my best when I work with my clients."

The psychologist said she chose her new surroundings with a big picture window and a garden to resemble her family room at home. It is decorated in warm browns and natural shades with comfortable furniture, bird and flower prints on the walls and a giant coffee table.

"It communicates to my patients all the nonverbal messages I want them to receive as they enter.

"All the real estate people wanted to show me windowless rooms because of my blindness," she adds, "but I do sense the beauty of nature."

Dr. Bull, who was born blind, says she feels very comfortable with people who are depressed. She admits that, prior to undergoing therapy herself, she had considered suicide.

"So I can relate with others who've been extremely depressed. I also am concerned for the very quiet, repressed child who may not be recognized as having a serious emotional problem.

"But I'm not as comfortable with the aggressive child who acts out problems."

She is especially interested in psychosomatic psychology and works closely with physicians in trying to correlate the physical and emotional problems of patients.

"I find it hard to live with the fact that a person has the right to choose to stay sick," the psychologist says.

During the three years she was studying in Los Angeles, the Claremont woman gained practical experience at the West Central Mental Health Center, the Southern California Counseling Center and the Brentwood Veterans Administration Hospital.

She taught Spanish for 12 years and uses her fluency in the language with Spanish-speaking patients.

Dr. Bull earned her teacher's training at Harvard School of Education and her degrees in Spanish at Swarthmore College and the Middlebury College School of Spanish in Spain.

A safe course for economy

A number of economists, most notably Harvard Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, urge that whatever stimulus the Carter administration decides to give to the economy not take the form of tax breaks to individuals. Instead, they say, the money should be spent directly on programs to provide jobs for the unemployed.

They argue that most people would only squirrel away their little windfalls for a rainy day rather than go on immediate buying sprees.

Now if Americans were in the habit of putting their excess funds in a cookie jar in the kitchen cabinet, they might have a point. This would effectively remove the money from circulation and certainly be of no benefit to the economy.

But even if they did elect to save rather than spend — which is by no means a foregone conclusion — most people would do so by adding to their bank accounts. And any bank that merely sat on its depositors' money, as if it were some kind of great big cookie jar, would soon find itself in trouble.

Banks are in the business of making money by lending money. A sudden infusion of savings on the order of several billions of dollars would be translated into loans for new housing, loans for business expansion and a whole range of other investments.

But this is too slow, too hit-and-miss, too "unguided" a process for the liking of certain economists. It allows too much scope for individual financial decisions, made for individual financial gain, even if all these decisions ultimately combined to work for the good of all.

What it comes down to is that they believe the government (with the advice and consent of the social planners) knows what is best for Americans and how best to direct the flow of the nation's wealth.

The discussion may be academic at this point. Neither a massive tax reduction or new large-scale government attack on unemployment or other problems seems to be in the cards.

What is more likely is that we will see the cautious application of a little of both kinds of stimulus, as the Carter administration attempts to steer a safe course between the still-clinging sands of recession on the one hand and the treacherous shoals of renewed inflation on the other.

What's good for railroads

The first drop of Alaskan oil has yet to flow through the hundreds of miles of pipeline from North Slope fields to the port of Valdez, thence by tanker to Oregon and California ports. But petroleum experts are already worried about what they are going to do with the 1.2 million barrels a day of oil Alaska will begin producing in mid-1977.

The dilemma centers on the fact that, according to current estimates, it will take two to five years to upgrade existing pipelines and build new ones to transport the fuel between the West Coast and inland refineries. They predict a surplus of 400,000 to 500,000 barrels a day when Alaskan oil begins flowing in full stream.

Fortunately, the West Coast's glut of the black stuff may become a Niagara of gold for the railroads, which up to now have shared only a fraction of the petroleum shipping business. They are banking on an innovation called the TankTrain, which they believe will not only be competitive with pipelines but could become the predominant method of moving crude oil within the U.S.

Developed by General American Transportation Corp., a subsidiary of GATX Corp., the TankTrain concept features a system of interconnecting hoses, special valves and sensing devices that permits a string of cars to be filled or emptied in a continuous flow from a single connection. A two-man crew can load or unload a 90-car TankTrain in five hours at a cost of two cents a barrel, compared to 12 to 14 cents for a conventional tank car.

At present, four companies — Missouri Pacific, Southern Pacific, the Santa Fe and Burlington Northern — are bidding for the chance to move some of the "surplus" Alaskan oil.

Think on these things

If you don't like the circumstances you now find yourself in — then use your active imagination constructively to get you out of it. You know a lot more than you think you do and it can be released through your imagination.

Take five minutes every day and mentally see yourself in happier conditions. Look at the sky and see how limitless it is — your own inner space is the same way. Nothing can choke off that good like your own limited thoughts. If something can go right, it must, by your own urging of your tremendous possibilities. Give everything good a chance to happen by giving yourself the support it needs to leap over the barriers.

Street residents ignored

Dear Editor:

In response to George MacLaren's article, "Reactions Mixed on Claremont Barricades," in the Jan. 20 Progress Bulletin, the taxpayers on Santa Barbara Street would like to respond.

Who is he kidding and what does he mean, reactions are mixed? Reactions are not mixed. For the first time in years we have a residential, neighborhood street that is quiet and peaceful. We see the neighborhood children at play in front of our homes. It warms our hearts to know they are safe as well as to hear their happy laughter. Only we who live on Santa Barbara can experience this peace and it is long overdue.

Why should we have to fight and beg for justice when we have paid high taxes for the privilege to live in a residential community?

We are losing confidence in our city officials, and why shouldn't we? We feel they are using poor judgment in planning and land use, they are catering to business interests instead of people interest.

The manager of Betsy Ross Ice Cream Store is quoted in the newspaper as saying: "Why are they doing this? They didn't talk to us about doing this? They didn't talk to us about closing the street." Mr. Neighbors, the manager, says that his customers like to use Santa Barbara to get to his shop instead of Foothill Boulevard.

You can well believe that all the people going to Griswold's, the doctor's office, the stock exchange, the travel agency, the law firms, the jewelers, the offices plus the ones yet to be filled, would all prefer Santa Barbara to Foothill, why wouldn't they? We feel we have had enough of this business traffic for too long when it is not necessary.

This is a residential neighborhood. We will show you our tax bills to prove it. We do not want to be a thoroughfare for everyone's convenience to business. We feel we have been taken advantage of long enough.

Planning commissions, city councils and safety committees have long been ignoring the voices of the people. We have signed petitions, attended meetings, but it has all been in vain. They tell you to speak out, but they do not listen. Santa Barbara should have been protected long ago as a neighborhood street. We have been against three-story buildings, further business expansions and additional hotel rooms now already overbuilt. The city officials should have our trust and they should do what is morally right for the people.

A few weeks ago we were appeased with the offer of a cul-de-sac. We jumped at this chance to have a safe street. All of a sudden it is to be a trial for a month.

We asked, "A trial for whom?" Not for us on Santa Barbara, we know what we want, we want a cul-de-sac made of brick, cement and planted with tall trees, that is all we want. We the taxpayers of our little community street want a peaceful, quiet street, where children can play, and laughter can be heard.

Carter concern: West stability

WASHINGTON — President Jimmy Carter wants peace in the Middle East, a settlement in Africa, better relations with Russia, an accomodation with China, a disarmament agreement. But all these objectives, according to sources familiar with his priorities, will be subordinated to one that he considers even more urgent: the economic stability of the industrialized West.

The president has told subordinates that the greatest threat to world peace, in his view, would be the economic collapse of the West. This would cause the fragmentation of the Western alliance and the political collapse of the free world, he believes.

Yet the danger signals are flashing around the world. Most nations have been piling up debts. Several have reached their borrowing limit. This deficit financing usually has not gone into capital improvements. The money has been spent instead to maintain living standards. When the loans are cut off, living standards will drop. This could lead to political unrest and instability.

Ex-Treasury Secretary William Simon left behind some grim classified documents which warn the Carter administration that the economic growth rate is slowing but that "inflation rates continue to remain disturbingly high in the industrial world." One confidential analysis declares tersely that "the international financial system may face severe strains during 1977." Privately, Simon spoke to his successors about the danger of a worldwide depression.

The cause of the economic crisis has been the high price of oil. This has been disputed by OPEC, the exclusive club of oil-producing nations. The truth would appear to be contained, however, in the classified documents, which were not intended for propaganda purposes but for the confidential instruction of the Carter administration. These briefing papers put it bluntly:

"The quadrupling of the price of oil in 1973 and 1974 severely shook the economies of the oil importing countries, was a major factor in the world recession of 1974-76 and produced enormous payments deficits in the oil consuming countires." The billions that these countries borrowed, the documents add, have wound up in the coffers of the OPEC members. "The so-called recycling of these funds back to those countries in need of external financing continues to be a heavy burden on the international financial community," the documents explain.

The danger of a worldwide economic collapse is heightened, according to the papers, by the refusal of the consuming nations to adjust to the new realities. The oil-short countries "have not fully accepted the real economic impact of the oil price hikes and have not adjusted their consumption and development patterns accordingly." As a result, some countries already "are reaching the limits of their ability to borrow funds to cover their oil-induced deficits."

But the hardest hit have been the less-developed countries, which "have suffered greatly because of oil price increases." The worldwide economic stagnation has dried up the markets for their exports at the same time as price increases have caused their import bills to shoot up. The result, of course, has been a sharp economic decline.

Yet the developing countries tend to excuse the OPEC nations, whose oil squeeze really caused their predicament. Instead they "blame these problems on developed countries and on the financial system, regardless of the economic justification." They "increasingly claimed that the structure of international economic behavior was biased against them and raised demands for a 'New International Economic Order.'"

Instead of calling upon the oil powers to lower prices, the developing countries want the industrial powers to cancel their debts. Discussions have been held to reduce tensions between the developed and developing nations. But unfortunately, "it cannot be said that the dialogue has been very fruitful," the briefing papers concede.

Treasury experts estimate, meanwhile, that the OPEC members have accumulated a staggering $150 billion since oil prices went into orbit. This is the greatest transfer of wealth in the history of the world, far surpassing the shiploads of gold that the European powers brought back from the Americas.

President Carter has already started a quiet campaign according to White House sources. But the only oil power which seems to understand the danger of depression is Saudi Arabia. From the beginning of the oil squeeze, the Saudis have tried to keep prices in bounds. The loudest clamor for higher prices, on the other hand, has been raised by Iran.

All's calm in Washington

By TERRY WADE
PB Washington Writer

WASHINGTON — An aura of calm permeates the nation's capital now that Jimmy Carter is officially Mr. President.

Despite a controversial blanket pardon, which has made everyone unhappy except the 4,500 draft evaders and their families and despite the prompt problems the Senate presented for a few of his key appointments Carter is still on easy street here.

Certainly, there have been a few public demonstrations. The first days of an administration always have a few protestors — they know when the publicity is easiest to garner.

This year they demonstrated against construction of the B-1 bomber and destruction of the human fetus. Hardly as emotional issues, unless you're a Pentagon general or a fetus, as the last few presidents have confronted when they took office.

This calmness is a tribute, first, to Jerry Ford, second, to the Democratic control of both the Congress and the White House and third, the Republicans are just priming their guns and unprepared for a concerted blast of righteous indignation.

And, of course, the honeymoon all new presidents are afforded contributes to the serene atmosphere.

Ford, by his very nature, has convinced the society to believe in its elected leaders, at least a little, again. For that reason Carter is not faced with an instant lack of credibility.

Carter's little walk down Pennsylvania Avenue Jan. 20 with Rosalynn in tow, calculated or not, helped cement that trust. Surprising what a small gesture can accomplish.

The Democratic Congress wants Carter to succeed. Oh, there will be pretensions of independence and already have been over the nomination of Ted Sorensen to the CIA post.

But it is in the best interest of a Democratic Congress to have a successful Democratic president (the Democrats in Congress outnumber the Republicans two to one). After all, most of the members must run for reelection before Carter does.

The Republicans would have raised more of a hue and cry over the Carter pardons, but they are just adjusting to their new roles as the White Houseless minority.

There is a lot to be said for calmness.

It was great to witness a presidential inauguration where the participants outnumbered the protestors (what protestors?) and where the new President dared to walk down the street and did it safely.

Just in jest

Despite the fact that we Californians voted for it, the death penalty for criminals convicted of certain crimes is still not being enforced. But thwarted voters of the Golden State, do not despair. Even though the powers that be deliberately disregard the voters' mandate, what we the people can not accomplish in the democratic way will eventually be done for us once the televising of executions is legalized.

No judge, no legislator, not even a governor will be able to withstand the pressure put on them when our all-powerful TV producers find they have an opportunity to broadcast spectacles unequaled since Christians were thrown to the lions in the Roman Colosseum but, because of legal beagle stubbornness, have no victims for the starring role.

* * *

It is interesting to note that providing execution victims for the entertainment of the common people in order to keep their minds off taxes and unemployment was much simpler in the olden days. In ancient Babylonia, for instance, a person could be executed for bootlegging beer.

Press freedom stopped here

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — On the morning after the bad weather came to Washington my newspaper was not delivered.

I woke with the usual expectations of front page grief and editorial enlightenment. Instead, nothing, not a comic or an ad. I tried to make do with a back copy of Time magazine, but it wasn't the same at all.

I was angry. Worse, I was off my routine. It was as if I had dressed without shaving, the pieces of my morning were not all in place. Did the planets collide? I would have to wait for a newsstand edition to learn. But by then, full of steam and buried in the day's obligations, I would not have time to read it if they had.

Alas, misfortune turned to catastrophe. I did not receive my newspaper the next morning, or the morning after. The heavy snows had melted somewhat, allowing the roads to clear, and my neighbors were receiving their papers as usual. But not me, or is it I? — when I do not read the Washington Post regularly my grammar goes to hell.

I called the circulation office, and the delivery man, advising the recording machines of my circumstances and return number. To no avail. No one got back. And this at a time of a subscription price hike! I was now furious, and so wrote a letter to the deliverer asking that, in the name of my routine, he get his act together.

He did. For one day. Maybe two. After that service was again interrupted, and my worried calls to those in charge again went unanswered. It was as if I was being purposely ignored, and indeed, as it turned out, I was. When I finally managed to contact an authority, a delivery supervisor, he said that his delivery man had not liked the tone of my letter and would not service me again until I apologized.

I asked whether he was kidding. He said he was not. And so it was: I had been perceived naughty, and hence was unworthy of being a subscriber to the Washington Post. Good God! I shouted, and immediately composed a telegram to the circulation director. Is this possible, I asked, and if so could my newspaper be cut off for other insignificant reasons, say if the deliverer did not like the color of my hair?

Naturally the circulation man did not immediately respond. I had spent $30 on a night wire, thus was a loyal if foolish reader, but still it was I who had to phone him. Oh, yes, he said, he read the wire. Too bad about my problem, he added. But it was out of his hands, he went on, the matter was between me and the deliverer.

He explained it all this way: Years ago, in an effort to save money, the Post and many other newspapers began franchising newspaper delivery routes. Contracts were made with outside people to service designated areas. The people are sold bulk lots of papers and may distribute them as they please, at what price they please. If they want to be obstinate with customers, the newspaper has no counter control.

I asked if this meant they could discriminate?

He said they can and sometimes do.

Well, I told the circulation director that I did not think John Peter Zenger would approve. He replied that many papers now realize franchising is a mistake, a public relations nightmare, but that retreat is difficult. Many newspapers, including the Post, are trying to eliminate the outsiders, but the courts are not friendly. Antitrust is involved. Franchisers regularly get the law to confirm their independence.

The circulation director said he would try to work something out for me. Which meant he would put my complaint with thousands of others, and send them to the franchise dealers with a plea for reason. I noted a sigh in his voice. Here was a circulation director who was not in charge of circulation. And he had just confessed that freedom of the press and McDonald's hamburgers have many things in common.

I am still not receiving the Washington Post. I am filling the a.m. void with — gad — radio and television news, for shallow as it is it is at least at my bidding. And it strikes me as odd, in competitive times, when newspaper circulation is at best a worrisome thing, that I am being forced to add to my own industry's problems.

Rabbits do growl, you know

KEEP OUT
GRRR!

DEAR DR. MILLER: In the last month Harvey's gotten pretty big, as rabbits go. He was cuter when he was tiny. Lately I swear I've heard him growling at me a few times. I don't tell my friends, though, because I tried it and they think I'm crazy. Do rabbits ever growl? Please say yes. — W.B.

DEAR W.B.: Good news. Rabbits do, on occasion, growl. Apparently Harvey has some territorial ambitions, and his growling may represent resentment over what he considers the territorial infringement.

DEAR DR. MILLER: You've never seen a more beautiful blonde cocker than my Lulu. She's not that beautiful-but-dumb type, either. She's smart. Lots of fans want puppies of hers, and she has a pedigree a mile long. I'd like to breed her if it's okay, but one problem. She has these seizures, occasionally, which the doctor says are epileptic. My own veterinarian feels it's not advisable to breed her because of this. May I please have your opinion? — T.K.

DEAR T.K.: I concur with my colleague. While I can understand your being anxious to breed beautiful Lulu, it's inadvisable under the circumstances. For one thing, there's no way to pre-determine what effects the stress of pregnancy would have in relation to her epilepsy. It might have no effect; it rarely might even reduce her epileptic seizures. But to be realistic, it could also severely aggravate the problem, probably to the point of crisis. Then there's the effect on her proposed puppies. Any epileptic seizures while she's pregnant, could conceivably have a direct effect. There would also be the possibility that puppies from her litter might themselves be epileptics. Lovely Lulu definitely shouldn't be bred.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have a 12-year-old cat who is physically and mentally very good. Her mother lived to be 19. We don't know about her father. He was just traveling through. What chance does Spitty have of living to be as old as her mother? — C.E.

DEAR C.E.: Spitty's own doctor is the one to answer that question, but her chances could be excellent, particularly if she stays healthy in the next seven years. Keep close tabs on her, don't allow her to roam as her father used to do. This is to prevent various types of accidents from befalling her. That and following her doctor's advice closely in regard to diet and general health care will give her the best chance.

For Monday, Jan. 31, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's very important to keep others out of your domestic affairs today. This is especially applicable to things of a financial nature.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If two friends you care a great deal about are having a problem, don't attempt to be a peacemaker. They may come down on you like a drawbridge.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're on very shaky grounds regarding your personal finances. This is not time to spend money you don't yet have.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) For one who is normally very sensitive about her image, you could do something today to tarnish it. Tread carefully in social situations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You tend to lavish too much generosity on the wrong party today. This could boomerang, if one who is deserving gets wind of it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Nothing is a fait accompli today until it gets in the record book. You could cheat yourself of success by prematurely thinking so.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are inclined today to take long risks for very dubious gains. It's too bad, but you probably won't be able to pull off even these successfully.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually your plans are based on realistic approaches, but that's not so today. Too-far-out ideas will certainly fizzle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful of associations today, particularly in joint ventures. If you're with someone whose head is in the clouds, you'll be up there with him.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Double-check today to make sure your mate doesn't have plans to spend money you're unaware of. This person is on the extravagant side at present.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Even though short cuts look very attractive in your work today, they should be avoided. Innovations could cause complications.

Your Birthday, Jan. 31, 1977

This coming year sudden changes could come about to alter your entire lifestyle. Be ready to move when the right chance presents itself. (Are you an Aquarius? Boss cheats during the day

Dear Ann: My boss has had affairs with one or more women ever since I have been his secretary (ten years). He is an important man in the community and has kept his secret very well. His wife suspects nothing because he does his cheating during office hours.

We've never discussed his double life. He has a private phone which I've been instructed never to answer and that's that. My only "involvement" is to tell his colleagues he is at some fakey place when he disappears during office hours. But lately my migraines have been getting worse.

My husband says what the boss does is none of my business — that I'm there to do my work. Period.

I've thought of going to a shrink but I'm afraid he'll tell me to quit my job and I can't afford to. I'm 50 years old and employment isn't all that easy to find. What can you suggest? — Georgia Fix

Dear G.: If these shenanigans have been going on for ten years, I doubt that your migraines are in any way related. Since they are "getting worse," I suggest you get a complete physical and find out if there is an organic problem. If there is none, perhaps it might be a good idea to do a little shrinking and find out what is REALLY bothering you.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell us what could be wrong with three 16-year-old girls whose main topic of conversation for the last year has been what we would do if we got pregnant, how we'd tell our parents, what reaction we would expect from our boyfriends, whether we'd have an abortion, go to a home for unwed mothers, or keep the baby if the guy didn't want to get married.

This letter is no joke. There is no one else we can ask without letting them know we are involved in heavy sex. Please help us. Topics A, B, And C In Chillicothe

Dear ABC: "The thought is often the father of the deed." In this instance substitute the word mother for father.

Each of you needs to speak to a school counselor at once. The kind of fantasizing you girls are into suggests serious trouble ahead.

Never mind about revealing yourselves. School counselors are there to help, not to pass judgment.

Dear Ann: I've been dating Brad for 3½ years. He's 24. I'm 22. We are in love.

A year ago my family moved 1,500 miles from here. I was living at home and moved with them. A few months later Brad got a good job and asked me to move back so I could be near him. I agreed.

In October, Brad received a promotion and had to move 100 miles away. We see each other twice a month. Brad wants me to give up my job and move to where he is. I said I would but this time I want a ring.

Brad resents the pressure — says AFTER I move I'll get the ring. I feel I've done my part by moving 1,500 miles and it's his turn now. What do you say? — Camp Follower

Dear Camp: If Brad wants to marry you he'll give you the ring now. If he refuses, take the hint and mother other friends.

All I own for a cup of java

I want to boycott coffee. I really do, but basically I'm weak and cannot endure pain.

Last week, I paid more for three pounds of coffee than I paid for a winter coat the first year I was married, but I can't help myself.

You cannot imagine the pressure I get from the women in the neighborhood. The other morning I practically ran to the coffee klatch at Lois's house.

Just inside the door Lois said, "Want a cup?"

She put an empty cup in my hand.

"Where's the coffee?" I asked.

"I never promised you coffee."

"That's not funny, Lois. Do you have any idea what I would give for a cup of coffee? I'd sell my children."

"Wouldn't we all."

"Braggart."

"Lois! I'd sell my bowling trophy!"

"Will you get hold of yourself? We've got to stand firm together or there is no telling how high the price of coffee will go."

"Look," I said regaining my composure. "I never thought I'd admit this to anyone, but I am older than the rest of you and I lived through the Great Caffein Drought of 1942 during the war."

"I never heard of it," said Carol.

"And I hope you never do," I said. "I saw my mother in the morning without a cup of coffee once and it's the closest to death I ever want to come. She toasted and buttered her hand and put it on my sister's plate. She bumped into a footstool with her head. She felt a draft and it was her eyelashes blinking. When she thought no one was looking, she put her head in the coffee canister and inhaled. My father caught her trying to shave her tongue. It was awful."

"It must have been a terrible thing for a child to see," comforted Carol, "but have courage and it'll all be over soon."

"I know," I whimpered, "but a day without Joe DiMaggio is like a day without sunshine."

You can only be "lousy with courage" for so long. On the way back from school after lunch, I swung the car into a drive-in and yelled, "One cup of coffee please . . . and will you take a personal check?"

Eliminate those fat deposits

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 47 and getting heavy in the middle. I could think of no other way to flatten my tummy other than to exercise this area. My problem is whenever I exercise a month the measurements increase rather than decrease.

I became a member of a health spa but to no avail. It seems that I cannot get back to my old self since I quit working a year ago. I am a plain housewife and maybe staying at home is part of the problem. I would appreciate it if you could help me in any way.

DEAR READER — Exercising is a good idea and how you do it is important. However, you can tighten up the muscles and still not do much good if you have body fat you need to get rid of. There is usually about as much fat inside the abdomen as there is outside under the skin. You can't squeeze this into nonexistence; you have to eliminate the fat deposits then your stomach will decrease in measurements. In short to decrease your waistline you have to GET THE FAT OUT and GET THE FAT OFF. Both are important.

Sit-up exercises, leg lifts and a general exercise program with a diet is the key to avoiding the big bulge. To give you more information I am sending you The Health Letter, 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding The Big Middle. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it possible to transplant whole eyes? Thirteen years ago I had to have my eye removed because of an accident in which a piece of plastic cut the eye in half. An infection set in and my eye had to be removed. It was not possible for a transplant then but modern medicine has changed a lot in 13 years.

Right now I have an artificial eye but still hope for a real one. My eye socket is still very muscular.

DEAR READER — I am sorry to say this can't be done as yet. The tissue of the brain and spinal cord will not regenerate, whereas a nerve to the leg or arm can. The eyes are really extensions of the brain and one cannot cut and sew together the optic nerve to the back of the eye and have it regenerate into cells that will transmit the impulses needed for sight. We need a basic advance that would make regeneration of brain and spinal cord tissue possible before we can hope to accomplish anything like an eye transplant.

There was a flap a few years ago about an eye doctor trying an eye transplant but that either was not what the operation really was or it was a total failure — as it would have had to be because of the absence of optic nerve regeneration or regeneration of the essential nerve paths even at the back of the eye.

Your loss of an eye in this manner though prompts me to point out that a major cause of blindness remains injuries to the eyes. Many of these could be prevented if people would wear suitable protective goggles when working or doing anything that exposes the eyes to danger. Eyesight is so precious that to fail to take this precaution is really rather foolish.

"For me directing films is like having sex; when it's good, it's very good; when it's bad, it's still good."

— Director Stanley Donen, in a new book, "The American Film Directors."

"I got the guy down by the shoulders. My old football coach would have scolded me."

— Capt. David Grindle, of the Salvation Army in Des Moines, Iowa, explaining how he chased a bank robber three blocks and tackled him.

"I think I reacted as calmly and dispassionately as anybody possibly could."

"I think the music business is one of the most disgusting lines of capitalism in American society. It uses people, abuses people — and it's sexist."

—Singer Bonnie Raitt in a recent interview.

Opening lead — 8 ♠

Both sides in the Spingold finals reached four spades after a Jocoby transfer sequence. North's two-heart call was a transfer and guaranteed at least five spades. His jump to three notrump asked South to choose between a notrump and a spade game and both South players elected to play four spades. George Rosenkranz made the contract at his table. Now look what happened at the other one.

John Mohan opened a trump. South won in dummy and led a club to his jack which won the trick when John held back his ace.

Declarer cashed his ace of trumps, played another trump to dummy and led his second club.

What could go wrong?

He found out quickly. Roger Bates showed out and John let declarer's queen hold that trick also.

All of a sudden the cinch contract had become a sure loss. Actually, South managed to go down two tricks in a desperate salvage effort.

He played his jack of hearts. John ducked that card also. The 10 was played from dummy and Roger was in with the queen. He led a heart right back and South finessed as his last hope and wound up two down after John made the super brilliant shift to a diamond.

Ask the Jacobys

A Delaware reader wants to know if Charles Goren was ever a great bridge player.

The answer is that from 1936 when he won his first national title (as Oswald Jacoby's partner) until the early 60s when age began to slow him down, he was as good as anybody in the World.

The presidents who took gifts

Q. "Has there ever been a president of the United States who refused to accept personal gifts during his term in office office?"

A. Two possibly. Thomas Jefferson vowed that he had never taken a gift while in public office. James Buchanan directed that all gifts be returned to the givers. If any other presidents did likewise, it's not in the records at hand. Question arrises, too, as to which president took in the biggest haul. Dwight D. Eisenhower might be a candidate for that distinction. It's known he accepted about $300,000 worth of presents, including livestock for his Gettysburg, Pa., farm. How much was received by Richard M. Nixon he did not make perfectly clear. Nor did Lyndon B. Johnson, John F. Kennedy, Harry Truman or Franklin D. Roosevelt. Bear in mind, the 1966 law which forbids a president from keeping foreign gifts does not prohibit him from accepting domestic offerings.

BLUE AND PINK

Why is it blue is for boys traditionally and pink is for girls? Given a choice, the boys like pink better and the girls actually prefer blue, evidently. Or such appears to be the case as indicated by a recent marketing test by the makers of a bubble bath.

When the Soviet Dictator Josef Stalin went anywhere on a train, he always saw to it that the locomotive engineer was a certain trusted woman named Mrs. Trozkaia.

Q. "If a man is starving, does his brain lose weight, too?"

A. In extreme cases, a little, but not much.

Q. "What proportion of the country's convicts are classified as dangerous or extremely dangerous?"

A. Can only report that about one out of 10 requires maximum security confinement.

STRENUOUS LABOR

Know anybody whose birthday falls on the fourth day of the month? If so, does said party work particularly hard? I only ask in an attempt to confirm the latest report from our Old Superstitions man. He says the ancient Greeks devoutly believed all infants born on the fourth day of the month were destined to lives of strenuous labor.

A sawmill operator reports that among the things he has found completely embedded in trees are a wine glass, four feet of heavy chain and a cannonball.

Counseling Corner

By R. CLIFF WATERS
Marriage and family counselor

It happened not too long ago. I had come to work an hour early and was seated at my desk thumbing through what seemed to be an impossible pile of paperwork and deadlines to meet. I was unable to "get down to work" or concentrate.

The night had been spent in fitful sleep, and wakening occurred long before the first light. There was just a feeling of being depressed that would not lift.

A colleague joined me at a neighboring desk and greeted me with her usual — but unwelcomed — good morning cheer. The day dragged on. She placed her work aside, drew two cups of coffee, pulled up a chair beside me and asked: "Is something bothering you? You know you don't have to keep it all to yourself."

My response? "There's nothing wrong, just a little behind is all, but thanks for asking."

She returned to her work and I began to gnaw at myself for having pretended so. I really wished I had said how lousy I felt. Instead, I just kept it all to myself. I was hiding the real me behind a mask of pretense, and I hated it. It is harsh to think that I must not talk about or share my hurt with others. I was angry at myself for being aloof.

"Don't keep it in," the old adage says. But I was above that; too ashamed of the weakness I would reveal and too proud to let another have a look at my human flaws. The point is, I kept hurting inside.

My friend was sensitive enough to offer a listening ear again that afternoon. I found that I could no longer hold my problems in. I must have talked in a disconnected and disjointed way. It made no difference how I said it. The important part was that I was sharing with a friend, who would listen. She cared. I felt relieved.

I have learned that I can tell when I need help. It is when I sense that unmistakable inner urge to get something that hurts into words. When I long to talk to someone. I find that it takes only one kind and understanding person to see through the pretense and invite me to talk. One thing is certain: I harm myself by neglecting to talk through concerns or by being unwilling to share myself with others. I do not have to exclude others. People care.

Jewelry fashions, facts, fictions

MEMBER AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

AGS IN MY WINDOW WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

The American Gem Society is an organization of fine jewelers throughout the United States and Canada dedicated to knowledge, ethics and good taste. The Society was founded in 1934 to promote high ideals within the jewelry industry and to protect the consumer.

In order to gain entrance into the American Gem Society a jeweler must pass specific gemological courses, have several years experience in the industry and exemplify the code of ethics prescribed by the Society. An AGS Registered Jeweler has extensively studied either colored stones or diamonds. The more advanced Certified Gemologist has studied both diamonds and colored stones and has extensive training in the use of gemological testing equipment.

Once a jeweler has become an AGS titleholder, the learning process does not stop. The Society's annual convention provides lab sessions and lectures to refresh the memory and to introduce new gemological developments. Literature supplied to all members also serves an educational purpose. To maintain AGS membership, the titleholder must uphold Society principles and must, each year, pass an exam to demonstrate overall efficiency and an understanding of new developments in the industry. If these requirements are met, the AGS member's title is renewed for one more year.

I am very happy to announce that my title of Registered Jeweler has been renewed for 1977. I am proud to be counted among the select fine jewelers who have achieved the honor of AGS membership.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WEECH

William Weeches observe 50th year

Mr. and Mrs. William Melvin Weech of Diamond Bar recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

The event was held at Diamond Point Club and hosts and hostesses were their sons and daughter and their spouses, Mr. and Mrs. Marlan Weech of Diamond Bar, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Weech of Hacienda Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gubler of Hacienda Heights.

There were 125 guests present.

The Weeches have 10 grandchildren and four great-grand-children. They were married Dec. 22, 1926, in Safford, Ariz., and have lived in this area for 14 years. They lived in San Gabriel Valley for 20 years before moving to this area. Mr. Weech is retired and was formerly a building contractor for 45 years.

The Weeches are members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The celebration included a short program honoring the couple. Two of the grandchildren sang the "Anniversary Song" and a tribute was presented by all 10 grandchildren. Highlights of the couple's marriage were recounted by their daughter and at the close of the program the grandchildren sang "Memories."

Pomonan selected for district contest

Mrs. Lydia Leon Brooks of Pomona has been selected from among a number of entries by the Soroptimist International of Pomona as its representative in the Soroptimist Training Award- McCall-Life Pattern Award competition in District 6 of Soroptimist Clubs.

Mrs. Brooks is a junior at Cal Poly Pomona and formerly attended Chaffey College and Mt. San Antonio College.

The Training Awards Program of Soroptimist International has been expanded by foundation trustees to include the McCall Life-Pattern special award. Awards are given to women re-entering training for a place in business or professional areas.

Mrs. Brooks's entry will be judged at the Soroptimist District 6 level with other selectees and should she be chosen for advanced judging she will compete with other women at the regional level. If named a winner of Pacific Region of Soroptimist International, she may be the recipient of one of two $1,000 training awards or the $2,500 McCall-Life Pattern Award.

San Diego Ballet set at MSAC tonight

Stars of the San Diego Ballet will perform in Gymnasium 3 at Mt. San Antonio College at 7:30 tonight. Admission is $4, students $2.

The concert will feature director Keith Martin and dancers Helen Dexter, Suzan Kroll, Monica Mudgett, James McArdle and Duncan Schute. Misical director is Charles Ketcham.

The program will include "Tarantella" by Gottschalk; "Spring Waters" by Rachmaninoff; "Carmen" by Bizet, and "Don Quixote Pas de Deux," by Minkus.

"Spring Waters," choreographed by Asaf Messerer, features Duncan Schute and Monica Mudgett.

Martin and Miss Mudgett will perform Minkus' "Don Quixote" originally choreographed by Petipa and adapted for this company by Martin. Though the complete work is performed only in Russia today, the brilliant merging of the flavor of the Russian national dances with the classical ballet form have made this pas de deux a popular inclusion in many dance programs.

The work was chosen from more than 325,000 entries in the annual Kodak summer snapshot contest conducted by 109 newspapers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Flight exhibit slated

A one-man show, "Tom Van Sant — Sky Sculpture," will open next Sunday at the Wignall Museum-Gallery at Chaffey College. A reception will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. at the gallery.

On view will be 50 kites and flight-related sculptures. The show will run through March 6. Gallery hours are noon to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday; noon to 3 p.m. Friday and 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

The Bahamas

WEAVING MAGIC — Artist Ingrid Petersen of Claremont displays some of her dolls and fabric work which she will show at a meeting of the Pomona Valley Art Association at the Claremont Public Library at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Fabric artist to give lecture

Fabric artist and designer Ingrid Petersen of Claremont will show examples and slides of her work at a meeting of the Pomona Valley Art Association at the Claremont Public Library at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The public is invited.

Danish-born Miss Petersen is one of the leading teachers of weaving, stitchery and fabric crafts in the valley. She is a graduate of Claremont Graduate School and former vice president of the PVAA. She has had one-artist shows at Redondo Beach, at Griswold's Art Gallery, Claremont, and at Citrus College. She was a demonstrator at the Art in Action show at the Los Angeles County Fair last year.

Miss Petersen teaches Flemish tapestry weaving in Claremont for the Cal Poly Office of Continuing Education. She is currently working on a commission of a series of unicorn wall hangings.

PVAA will have a fabric and fiber show at the gallery in April.

HIGH JUMPERS — Members of the Hungarian Folk Ballet will perform in Spring Auditorium, Ontario, next year as part of the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association season. PVCCA will hold its annual membership drive Feb. 14-19. A kickoff dinner is planned Feb. 14.

Pomona Valley Community Concert Association

Membership drive planned

The Pomona Valley Community Concert Association will hold its annual membership drive Feb. 14-19, starting with a potluck dinner at 7 p.m. Feb. 14 at the Bethel Congregational Church, 536 N. Euclid Ave., Ontario.

Headquarters for the campaign will be Ralph Pierce Music, 822 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, telephone 629-0615. Present members are asked to renew their memberships. As a bonus to new members for the 1977-78 season, the membership will entitle them to attend the final concert this season — The Montagnana Trio March 2 at Spring Auditorium, Ontario.

PVCCA is a non-profit organization aimed at bringing fine concert artists and dance and musical attractions to the valley. Admittance to the concert is by membership card; no tickets are sold at the door. Members also enjoy a reciprocity privilege of being able to attend programs of community concert associations in other cities.

Memberships are $12 for adults, $6 for students and $30 for family (two adults and two or more children).

The more memberships that are sold the more and higher-priced attractions that can be offered. PVCCA has already reserved the Masterplayers, a European group of chamber musicians, and the Hungarian Folk Ballet and Gypsy Orchestra of Budapest. The remainder of the series, two to four attractions, will be determined by the success of the membership drive.

Volunteers working on the campaign can earn additional memberships by introducing new members. Interested persons can get information from Mrs. Josephine D'Auro, membership chairman, at 622-9933. People wanting to join PVCCA can call Mrs. Stuart Brockway, campaign secretary, at 986-5789. Information on the dinner can be obtained at 984-0309.

Opera chorus begins

Chorus rehearsals for the West End Opera Company production of Verdi's "Aida" will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the upstairs choral room of Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School.

Chorus director will be Donald Brinegar, choral director of Claremont High School. Mario Cajati will conduct the opera.

Rehearsals will be held at 7:30 each Tuesday night. The opera will be presented May 7. A large chorus is needed.

The opera company also has openings for volunteer workers on costumes, scenery and other areas of production. Information can be obtained at 982-3149.

CONCERT ARTIST — Violinist Pierre d'Archambeau will be soloist in a concert by the Claremont Symphony Orchestra at 4 p.m. next Sunday in Bridges Hall, Pomona College. Admission is free.

French troupe plays at UCLA

Jean de Rigault's Le Treteau de Paris, the French language theater company that has been presenting modern and classical French plays throughout the United States for 18 years, will perform in UCLA's Schoenberg Hall at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 7 and 8.

The company will feature Richard Fontana as Harlequin in the diabolical "La Double Inconstance" by 18th Century playwright Pierre Marivaux.

Jean Anouilh, who adapted "The Rehearsal" from the Marivaux play, described it as "the elegant and gracious story of a crime." A tale of young lovers who are maneuvered by another couple into changing partners, "La Double' Inconstance" is full of psychological nuances and mood fluctuations rare in plays of that era.

Symphony sets free concert

The Claremont Symphony Orchestra, conducted by George Denes, will present its winter concert in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 4 p.m. next Sunday. Admission is free.

The program will include Brahms' Symphony No. 2 and Beethoven's Violin Concerto with concert violinist Pierre d-Archambeau as soloist.

D'Archambeau comes from a long line of musicians. His father, Ywan, was cellist of the celebrated Flonzaley Quartet. D'Archambeau is the founder of "Foyer Musical d'Archambeau," an annual cycle of summer concerts and courses at Francorchamps in the Belgian Ardennes.

Civic leaders honor Saints

The San Dimas High Boosters Club recently saluted its Hacienda League football champions with a banquet at the San Dimas Canyon Country Club.

It was especially impressive because of the way so many civic leaders were there to honor the Saints' head coach, Bob Baiz, and his team of teen-age champions.

There were representatives of the city government, Bonita Unified School District, Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th District, Assemblyman Bill Lancaster, D-62nd District, San Dimas Chamber of Commerce, San Dimas Rotary Club, San Dimas Kiwanis Club and even the Bonita Booster Club,

San Dimas enjoyed a banner 11-2 season under Baiz, whose ancestors date back to Pomona's beginning. He directed the Saints to a perfect 7-0 mark in the Hacienda League and got them as far as the semifinals in the CIF 2A playoffs when champion Antelope Valley prevailed.

San Diego State's Claude Gilbert, who has a lifetime record of 64-13-2 with the Aztecs, was the guest speaker.

One of his messages concerned the image of losers.

"There is a trend these days we must all beware of," he said. "I think it is an attitude which has filtered down from the pro level and that is classifying losers as something less than honorable.

"For instance, the Vikings have been great winners through the years but they are branded losers because of their Super Bowl defeats. I think it is terribly wrong.

"It is very important to maintain a proper prospective about winning and losing. The key thing is to try to win by preparation, training, sacrifice and study then let the chips fall where they may."

The community spirit displayed by San Dimas is the sort of thing which makes sports so wonderful.

Scolinos takes bows

JOHN SCOLINOS, CAL POLY POMONA'S AMAZING BASEBALL COACH, would just as soon hide these days as he continues to bring in honors and awards after guiding the 1976 Broncos to the NCAA Division II national championship.

"I get to take all the bows but the players and coaches do all the work," says the humble Scolinos.

For awhile, it looked like the defending national champions would be faced with a very limited schedule this year because of financial woes resulting from last year's trip to the World Series in Springfield, Ill.

But Scolinos said the problem has been worked out and everything is OK.

Scolinos had planned to take his team to Japan this spring but the plans fell through when his brotner, a resident of Japan, died.

Scolinos said the player limit has been reached but all youth coaches and parents are welcome to attend. It starts at 9 a.m. in the gymnasium.

Poly will open its schedule on Feb. 15 at Cal State Fullerton and play its home opener on Feb. 24 against Long Beach State.

Finals coming up

THE BIGGEST ATHLETIC EVENT AT POLY this year will be the AIAW (Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women) small college national basketball championships on March 22-26.

Besides coaching her own powerful team, Darlene May is busy handling all the arrangements for the week-long tournament.

She said 16 teams will be coming to Pomona from all around the nation. Naturally, the tournament ns good business for local motels and restaurants.

There will be 27 games played in the tournament with play beginning at 5 p.m. on a Tuesday and concluding with the championship game at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 26.

AIA rolls again

ANAHEIM (AP) — Eldon Lawyer scored 23 points to pace Athletes in Action to a 104-77 victory over fifth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas in a fast-moving exhibition basketball contest Saturday night.

AIA took a 6-5 lead with two minutes played and never trailed thereafter.

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Shirley Muldowney set a Pomona raceway record Saturday in the final day of qualifying as she beat Don Garlits for the pole position in the Top Fuel category in a head-to-head duel down the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds' track.

Qualifying honors in the other professional categories in the 17th annual running of the Winternationals went to Don Prudhomme (Funny Car), Don Nicholson (Pro Stock) and Billy Williams (Pro Comp.).

Ms. Muldowney shattered Gary Beck's speed record of 244.46 miles per hour as she zipped down the track in 5.85 seconds for the new speed record at 248.61. The speed was just two MPH short of her prediction entering the Winternationals.

The current National Hot Rod Association speed record is held by Don Garlits at 250.69 even though Ms. Muldowney eclipsed her top foe's mark with a speed of 252.10 MPH at Phoenix two weeks ago. However, the NHRA doesn't reconize it as it didn't sanction the Phoenix drag race.

Don Garlits, who came out of retirement for the Pomona Winternationals, fell to second after finishing the first two days as the Top Fuel leader.

Late in the afternoon Saturday, Garlits improved his time to within three-hunderedths of a second behind Ms. Muldowney's time of 5.85. Garlits, who ran against Ms. Muldowney when she achieved the new raceway record, ended the final qualifying round with a second place time of 5.88 seconds and a speed of 236.22.

Garlits, the four-time Winternationals champion from Seffner, Fla., remarked about today's finals, "I've just got one problem to contend with and that is Ms. Muldowney. We have a weight problem in running against her. Her car weighs about 100 pounds less than ours because of her weight and her car is lighter and smaller.

"There are about five cars that can win this race," added Garlits.

"The track has been in very poor condition and has held this field back. This entire field of cars should have been in the fives! The course was marginal at the beginning and now the track has been neutralized as there is a mixture of oil and traction compound which can effect a car's performance."

Garlits after making his final run of the afternoon recieved a standing ovation from the large crowd before his Donovan propelled dragster was towed into the pit area.

Garlits teasingly said, "I came out of retirement because I got tired of fishing every Sunday. Actually, I promised Prudhomme that I'd come over here and run his race here.

"He wanted me to run Pomona and we wanted Prudhomme in our race at Phoenix so we traded races."

"We've been happy with the times we've achieved so far. We have Ed Donovan's engine in the car and it's not supose to be any good. But they're all wrong about that. It's a nice engine! It's real easy to work with and I think it has more potential than the 426 engine."

Prudhomme tuned up for today's final emlination round by turning in a 6.14 in his new Plymouth Arrow Funny Car. Apparently, Prudhomme has shaken all of the bugs out of the new car after a slow start Thursday.

Nicholson, who hails from Orange, Ca., captured the pole position in the Pro Stock brackett despite Larry Lombarado's national record-breaking run of 159.01 MPH, which broke Warren Johnson's record of 158.73.

Richard Tharp, who is the reigning World Top Fuel Champion, did not make the final field of 16 cars as his car was ousted by mechanical failure.

In addition to Tharp not making today's final elimination round, Beck failed to make it. It was the second consecutive time that Beck failed to qualify in a major NHRA event. He is the second winningest Top Fuel driver with six titles.

Also, Bob Strukness of Minot, N.D., Tom Kaiser of Lakewood, Colo., Paul Longenecker of Aracanum, Ohio and La Verne's Chuck Smithfield failed to qualify.

Longenecker was forced out when the supercharger exploded off of his Top Fuel dragster at the starting line. He escaped without injury as there was a large boom and flames lept out as oil spewed out onto the pavement. Jake Crimmins was not hurt in an earlier accident when the fiberglass body of his Monza Funny Car was substained heavy fire damage.

Bill Meyer, who suffered a freak accident in the pit area Thursday, is expected to be released from Pomona Valley Hospital Monday or Tuesday.

Pomona's Jerry Darien qualified ninth in the Pro Comp division with a time of 6.86. He turned in a speed of 199.55. Gary Southern of Glendora was 15th at 6.89. Chino's Tom Bristow qualified as an alternate if anything happens to one of the top 16 cars in Pro Comp action.

TOP QUALIFIER

Don Prudhomme, the top qualifier for today's finals in the Funny Car division in the Winternationals at Pomona Fairgrounds, poises for a qualifying run Saturday afternoon.

Poly suffers one-sided loss

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

As coach Don Hogan put it, "We were flatter than a pancake."

It was one of the most one-sided defeats ever for Poly in a home game and it came just 24 hours after an exciting 74-73 win over Cal Poly San Luis Obispo in two overtimes Friday night.

"We have so many new players this year and they don't know what it is like to come back on back-to-back games," Hogan explained. "We weren't ready to go. It was a total loss on our part."

The final score doesn't reflected how decisive the game really was. Bakersfield enjoyed a huge 26-point lead (65-39) with 11:24 on the clock before the shell-shocked Broncos were able to cut down the final margin.

Bakersfield recorded its first CCAA victory after three losses while Poly's conference mark is now even at 2-2. With a 10-game league schedule, a team can't afford four defeats.

"It's going to be tough to get back into the fight for the championship with two losses but we have to work at it," Hogan said. "I still feel we can bounce back and do it."

The Broncos will get another test next weekend to determine how they handle back-to-back games when they visit Cal State Los Angeles Friday night and host UC Riverside Saturday night.

Statistics tell Saturday's story.

Bakersfield shot 54.2 per cent in making 32 of 59 field goals while Poly hit on only 37 per cent (25 of 68) in another cold shooting performance. The Broncos had nine more field goal attempts but made seven less.

The game was close with Poly trailing 30-27 with 6:36 on the clock in the first half. Bakersfield outscored the Broncs, 12-4, the rest of the half for a 42-31 lead at the intermission.

The Roadrunners really went to town when the second half opened in outscoring the hosts, 19-6, to take away any thoughts of a big comeback.

Jack Gamulin was the only Bronco in double figures with 12 points but was only four-for-11 from the floor and a perfect four-of-four at the foul line.

Poly had to play without regular forward Henry Randolph, who suffered a sprained ankle Friday night. He figures to be out one or two weeks.

Duran was sure KO was coming

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Whirlwind Roberto Duran looked frustrated at times chasing Vilomar Fernandez around the ring Saturday, but said he never had doubts that the knockout which ended his lightweight title fight was coming.

"It didn't bother me that he ran a lot," said the World Boxing Association champion of the dancing tactics of Fernandez. "I knew I'd catch him."

Fernandez took heavy punishment throughout the bout, but never showed signs of buckling until he was hit full force by a left-right combination to the midsection. He was counted out at 2:10 of the 13th round.

"It was a good shot to the body that finished me," said Fernandez. He said it left him groggy and "I couldn't see."

Duran's trainer, 77-year-old Ray Arcel, said, "We had more trouble than we expected. Fernandez is very shifty."

Duran was never in trouble in scoring his 45th knockout in a career which now shows 55 victories in 56 outings. But despite near-total domination of Fernandez he called him "a valiant fighter, well prepared.

"He has a great future in boxing," added Duran. But unfortunately, the 23-year-old Fernandez is in a division dominated by a man only two years his senior.

The victory was Duran's 10th straight successful title defense. He also knocked out his nine previous challengers.

It was more like practice shooting at a moving target than a fight for most of the bout, with Duran the relentless pursuer and Fernandez apparently satisfied to just survive.

The light-hitting native of the Dominican Republic who lives in New York had only five knockouts in his 27-bout career. He drew a heavily-booed warning from Panamanian referee Servio Ley in the fifth round for refusing to mix it up.

No. 1 USF nearly loses

The Dons, the only unbeaten team in major college basketball at 21-0, were down by 16 points at 52-36 early in the second half but tied it at 57-57. They took the lead for the first time at 61-60 with 5:50 left on a stuff shot by James Hardy.

Redmond got 19 of his 23 points in that time as the Dons outscored the Broncos 25-8 to gain the lead.

L.A. owner willing to part with Knox

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom said Saturday that he is willing to let Coach Chuck Knox go "...if he'd be happier in Detroit," but obliquely accused the Lions of tampering.

Rosenbloom, saying he had met with Lions owner William Clay Ford Friday in Los Angeles, said, "I'm not suprised they're interested in Chuck because he's a fine coach.

"You do have to be a little surprised that they talked to him, though."

Rosenbloom said he and Ford had "an amiable" discussion about Knox after the Lions owner flew into Los Angeles Friday.

"I told him we'd be available if he wanted to talk more," Rosenbloom added.

"We have a fine relationship with Chuck as a coach and as a friend, but if he feels he'd like to leave and something can be worked out with us, we'd be willing."

Ford reportedly is dangling a $2.5 million contract in front of Knox, and Rosenbloom said he didn't blame the Rams' coach for being interested.

"The money stories that are going around are mind-boggling. I might even go there myself for the figures that are being thrown around," Rosenbloom said with a chuckle.

He disputed published reports that there had been a rift in the Rams' "family," trouble brought on by his dictating to Knox who should be the Los Angeles quarterback.

"If there's any real problem, I don't know anything about it," Rosenbloom said. "I, of course, discussed the team with Chuck, and if I had any influence on who he used, I'm flattered. But he always used whoever he wanted to.

"I've been in the league for a quarter-century, and I've never told a coach how to do his job.

"If I could coach, I wouldn't have to hire someone else to do it."

Vachon, Dionne power Kings

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Rogie Vachon recorded his third shutout of the season and Marcel Dionne scored his 30th goal and took over the National Hockey League scoring lead as the Los Angeles Kings rolled to a 4-0 National Hockey League victory over the New York Islanders

The red-hot Dionne, who has nine goals and 10 assists in his last nine games, scored a power play goal early in the second period. It came just six seconds after New York's Gerry Hart was penalized and only 49 seconds after Butch Goring gave the Kings a 1-0 lead.

Northwestern (5-13) shocks Michigan

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Billy McKinney tossed in 29 points and lowly Northwestern handed second-ranked Michigan its first Big Ten loss 99-87 Saturday in a major college basketball upset.

The Wolverines fell behind by six points at the half and never were able to catch the Wildcats, who scored only their third victory in the Big Ten and fifth of the season against 13 losses.

Michigan, suffering only its second loss of the season, fell behind by 13 midway in the second half and rallied to cut the Northwestern lead to two points at 74-72 with eight minutes left. But the Wolverines were unable to overhaul the Wildcats.

Northwestern then opened a 77-72 lead and with 6:31 remaining, Michigan Olympian Phil Hubbard, who had scored 19 points, fouled out.

It was touch and go in the first half, with the teams taking turns holding the lead. Northwestern's Bob Svete hit a jumper to put the Wildcats ahead 27-26 with 7:32 to play. McKinney and Mike Campbell each scored four points to boost the Northwestern lead to 35-26.

Michigan had a horrid time at the free throw line and missed 11 of 20 in the first half. They twice chopped the lead to six points and then crept within four at 43-39 on a jumper by Hubbard. But Campbell scored with seven seconds remaining for a 45-39 halftime lead, alead which the Wildcats would never relinquish.

Northwestern had five players in double figures with Svete scoring 17, Tony Allen 13, Bob Klaas 11 and Campbell 10.

Watson snares lead

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I drove the ball very well most of the day," Tom Watson said. "That's the key to the reason I've been scoring so well lately."

He paused a moment and flashed the infectious, boyish grin that has made him such a gallery favorite and, tongue in cheek, added:

"It's so much easier, I've found over the last couple of weeks, to play out of the fairways instead of out of the trees."

He avoided the trees, the gullies, the canyons, the beaches and the assorted troubles of Torrey Pines, used his driver to set up birdies on all the par five holes—for the second day in a row—and cut out a five-under-par 67 that enabled him to break out of a three-way tie and establish a two-stroke lead in Saturday's third round of the $180,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

"If I can drive the ball well again tomorrow, I've got a good shot at it," said Watson, who now has only one man within five strokes of his record-matching total.

Watson, winner of the Bing Crosby last week and a strong, fourth-place finisher the week before that, put together a 54-hole total of 200, matching the tournament record at 16 below par. For his last 11 rounds, the red-haired, freckle-faced Watson is a whopping 37 strokes below par.

Watson's final birdie of the mild, hazy day, came on a 15-foot putt on the 18th hole at the 7,047 yard South course at the Torrey Pines Golf Club and dropped into the cup just moments after the national television cameras had ended their coverage for the day.

When the TV broke away, Watson enjoyed only a single shot lead over Bob Shearer of Australia, a frequent winner in Europe and his home country but a 28-year-old rookie on the American tour. Shearer, along with Lon Hinkle, shared the second round lead with Watson but couldn't match Tom's heroics on the par-five holes. The mustachioed Aussie had a 69 and was second at 202.

Bill Rogers and Larry Nelson were at 205. Nelson had a 68, Rogers a 70.

The hard-hitting Hinkle, who has yet to win in four years of tour activity, slipped to a 73 and was tied at 206—six big strokes back—with Ben Crenshaw and rookie Keith Fergus. Crenshaw shot a 69, Fergus 67.

Watson missed birdie putts of in the 10-12 foot range on the first two holes, then chipped in for birdie on the third.

His next three birds came on par fives. He chipped to 18 inches on the sixth hole, reached the ninth in two and was over the 13th with a three wood second shot, then chipped back to 8-10 feet and made the putt.

Watson, who set a scoring record last week and needs only a 71 Sunday to set another one, got it to five under par with a 10-foot birdie putt on the 15th. He then hit his only real poor shot of the day on the 202-yard, par-three 16th.

"I came over it, hit it on the hozzle and just shanked it," he said. He missed far to the right, pitched short and made his only bogey of the day.

On the 18th, he got his drive in the rough, played his second short of the water and pitched on just as the cameras ended their coverage for the day. The 12-footer found the hole and left Shearer the only man within five strokes of his lead.

MSAC triumph

By RAY NELSON
PB Correspondent

Mount San Antonio College connected on 19 of 25 field goal attempts in the second half Saturday night to post its first South Coast Conference victory, a 70-59 decision over Orange Coast at MSAC.

The 76 per cent outburst helped the Mounties break open the contest early in the final half after they had grabbed a 27-26 advantage at intermission.

At the outset of the game, it seemed as if the Pirates were going to run MSAC off the court when they capitalized on short-range jumpers to take an early 12-5 lead.

Orange Coast used a patient offense throughout the first half, passing the ball around until someone freed himself deep in the lane or on the baseline. The early Pirate streak accounted for five unanswered buckets to erase a 3-0 MSAC advantage.

However, the Mounties fought back to take the lead, 17-16, at the 7:03 mark on Robert Vigil's free throw. It was only one of 11 first-half points scored by the forward, who finished the contest with a game-high 21.

With 20 seconds remaining before halftime, MSAC set up an outside jump shot by guard Dick Rockwood. The ball rattled off the rim and Earner Mays tipped the errant shot in with one second left to give the Mounties their intermission lead.

With Mays, who concluded the game with 19 points, muscling his way for easy inside baskets, MSAC blitzed Orange Coast, 12-6, at the beginning of the second half. The outburst gave the Mounties a seven-point lead which they never relinquished.

The victory was MSAC's first in five conference outings this season.

Sellers overshadowed

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Young Mark Sellers is off to a fine start in his riding career, but he admits he's envious of another apprentice jockey.

The 17-year-old Sellers, son of former national riding champion John Sellers, is currently the top apprentice in the jockey standings at Santa Anita, and recently posted his first stakes victory.

Still, his success is dimmed by that of Steve Cauthen, the 16-year-old whose phenomenal success in the East has made him the toast of the racing world.

"Steve's kind of in a better position than I am," Sellers said. "Not trying to take anything away from him, but he has a very good agent, which is a big factor in race riding. He's riding eight or nine horses a day that are at least 5-1 or better. Most of my horses are 20-1 or 30-1 shots.

Sellers will get a chance to ride against Cauthen today, when Cauthen flies in from the East to compete at Santa Anita, where he had one winner in four tries last Sunday.

But Cauthen, with trainer Bobby Frankel lining up his mounts, will generally be on better horses, including defending champion Announcer in the $50,000-added San Marcos Handicap.

John Sellers, admitting he might be a bit prejudiced, says he thinks his son's accomplishments thus far compare favorably with those of Cauthen.

"There are not that many good riders back in the East in the winter," John explained. "Out here, Mark's riding against the best and he's holding his own. But I've hooked up with Steve a couple of times and he's a fine rider."

MARK SELLERS

Mark, who's been competing professionally for eight months, said his father didn't push him into being a jockey, and the elder Sellers was in fact surprised at his son's wishes.

"He was 14 when he told me he wanted to ride, and he hadn't shown much interest before. I was on a horse by the time I could walk, so I figured he wasn't ever going to get interested."

Mark said he already feels right at home on the track, and the veteran riders are teaching him a lot — sometimes at his expense.

"I remember one race when I was back in the pack and I saw a hole open up," Mark recalled. "One of the other riders looked back and saw me coming, then edged over to shut me off.

"But I've done that myself since then," Mark said.

The elder Sellers said he and his son have been in the same race some half-dozen times, with Mark posting the only victory. Friday at Santa Anita, Mark ran third and his father fourth in the sixth race.

"One of these days Mark and I are going to be neck-and-neck coming down the stretch," John said. "That'll be something."

Kentucky edges Alabama

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Jack Givens sank two free throws with 14 seconds remaining, giving sixth-ranked Kentucky an 87-85 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over No. 3 Alabama Saturday night.

The two free throws gave the Wildcats a four-point edge, and after Alabama cut the margin to two, Rick Robey was fouled with only two seconds remaining. He missed the first shot of a one-and-one bonus situation but Kent Looney's length-of-thefloor shot for the Tide was off target at the horn.

The victory broke the second place deadlock between the two in the SEC race, giving the Wildcats a 7-1 mark while Alabama fell to 6-2. Idle Tennessee, ranked seventh, leads the league with an 8-0 mark.

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — Washington freshman Stan Walker hit a free throw in the final seconds to ice a 71-68 victory over Washington State in Pacific-8 Conference basketball action Saturday.

Washington built up a 16-point lead three times early in the game, but had to hold off a Cougar comeback rally in the final minutes.

The victory gave the Huskies a share of the conference lead with UCLA with a 4-1 record.

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Clemson's Wayne "Tree" Rollins scored 15 points, grabbed 19 rebounds and blocked eight shots to lead the hot-shooting Tigers to a 93-73 upset victory over the fourth-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels in a Atlantic Coast Conference game here Saturday night.

The victory was the sixth in the last seven games and the 15th in 18 starts for the Tigers, who are now 4-2 in the ACC and ranked 19th in the nation. The Tar Heels lost their third game in their last four starts and fell to 13-4 over-all and 5-3 in the conference.

Clemson took a 40-34 halftime lead and then connected on 69 per cent of their shots in the second half to hand the Tar Heels their worst setback of the season.

NEW YORK (AP) — Glen Williams scored 22 points to become the fourth leading scorer in St. John's history in leading the Redmen to a 61-51 victory over Oregon Saturday.

The Redmen are now 13-5 and the Ducks are 12-6 after four straight losses.

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas' Big 3—Marvin Delph, Sidney Moncrief and Ron Brewer—combined for 60 points to give the 15th-ranked Razorbacks their ninth-straight Southwest Conference victory, 68-59 over Baylor Saturday afternoon.

Delph and Moncrief had 22 points apiece and Brewer added 16 to dominate the regionally televised game at Heart-of-Texas Coliseum.

Owls top RCC, LV, Chaffey fall

In other cage games, La Verne College fell to host Cal Lutheran 93-82 and Chaffey College dropped a high-scoring 106-95 decision to San Diego City College.

Eric Childs led the way Saturday for the Owls with a game-high 26 points. Bill Rutz added 17 for Citrus. Tom Caserman topped RCC with 16 points.

Top scorer for the Leopards was center Ulysses Ruffin with 22. Dennis Munoz added 21 and Mike Sharp had 15 and a game-high 11 rebounds.

Chaffey's Kevin Johnson had 28 points Saturday, but SDCC placed five men in double figures to down the Panthers. Mike Johnson had 27, and Joe Amos 20, to lead the winners.

Trojans nab cage victory

Lutheran High of La Verne posted a 59-56 basketball win over rival Lutheran High of Orange Saturday night in a game played at Damien High.

The Arrowhead League win gives La Verne a 5-6 league ledger. Overall, the Trojans are now right at .500 (9-9) for the year.

Forward Gregg Guenther led the way to victory for the locals Saturday, netting 25 points, pulling down seven rebounds and passing off for three assists. Dale Pomo added 10 points and nine rebounds to the win.

Sports news in brief

NEW YORK (AP) — The Veterans Committee of the Baseball Hall of Fame will hold its annual meeting here Monday for the purpose of considering candidates and conducting an election.

A maximum of two men may be elected. The candidates include former players bypassed previously by the Baseball Writers Association of America. They must have been retired from the major leagues as players for at least 25 years and must have played at least 10 years in the majors.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dwight Stones and Poland's Jacek Wszola head a list of five of the 10 top-ranked high jumpers entered in the U.S. Olympic Invitational Track meet on Feb. 12, meet directors announced Saturday.

Wszola, who won the gold medal in the event at the Olympics, has met Stones eight times in European meets since the confrontation at Montreal, with Stones winning five times.

For Pomona leagues

LL registration set

Registration for the 1977 Little League baseball season in Pomona begins this week.

Sign-ups are sets for areas throughout the city at 7 p.m. Thursday and Monday, Feb. 7, plus 2 p.m. this Saturday.

Pomona has five Little Leagues with four levels of competition: Minors and majors for the eight to 12 year olds; Senior Division for 13 to 15 year olds; and Big League for the 16-18 group.

A parent must attend the sign-ups and bring their youngster's birth certificate. A player's league age is based on the age on or before July 31.

The Ted Greene Little League has added T-Ball for eight and nine year olds. In addition, the Pomona Park and Recreation Department will conduct a T-Ball program for seven, eight and nine year olds with registration on May 7 at locations to be announced later.

The city will also conduct boys softball and girls softball leagues in the spring for eight to 12 year olds. Registrations for the softball program will also be taken on May 7.

Main field and sign-ups locations are listed below. If any doubt as to which league to register, contact the officer listed in the area nearest your residence. All leagues may request a donation at sign-ups for expenses.

POMONA AMERICAN: — Main field at Washington Park on corner of east Grand and south San Antonio avenues. Sign-ups will be taken Thursday (7 p.m.) at Philadelphia School cafetorium, Monday Feb. 7 (7 p.m.) at Simons Junior High cafetorium and Saturday (2 p.m.) at Washington Park Community Center. Frank Hurley (622-2460) is the president.

POMONA NORTHWEST: — Maon field is Kennedy Park, located off of Ganesha Boulevard just north of Marshall Junior High. Sign-ups will be Thursday and Monday at Arroyo, Kellogg and Roosevelt School cafetoriums plus at Kennedy Park Saturday. Bill Francis (629-5691) is the president. Other key officers are Lorna Ames, vice president, at 622-0481 and Linda White, player's agent, at 623-7272.

POMONA NATIONAL: — Main field is Montvue Park located behind Montvue School on San Bernardino Avenue. Sign-ups will be taken at the Emerson Junior High cafetorium on Thursday and Monday plus at Montvue Park in the picnic area on Saturday. President Jim Brown may be contacted at 627-2168 before 6 p.m.

POMONA SOUTHWEST: — Main field is located at the northwest corner of Ralph Welch Park. Sign-ups will be taken Thursday at Westmont Community Center, Saturday at Ralph Welch Park and Monday at Fremont Junior High cafetorium. Player's agent Catherine Porter may be contacted at 622-7449.

TED GREENE: — Main field is located at Orange Grove and La Verne avenues. All sign-ups will be taken at the Ted Greene Park snack bar. Petty Reed (626-4287) is the president and Autry Pilchier Jr. (622-5712) is the major league director.

Mendez hired by Palomar

SAN MARCOS (AP) — A year after he was an assistant at Monte Vista High southeast of San Diego, Mario Mendez has been named head football coach at Palomar College.

Mendez, 34, was promoted Tuesday after a season as offensivee backfield coach under Mack Wiebe. Wiebe was fired last week after a 46-47-3 record in 10 years.

Stabler values privacy over Super Bowl bucks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ken Stabler figures he could make at least $100,000 because of Oakland's Super Bowl victory but the Raiders' quarterback says he prefers his own privacy.

"The victory is worth a few bucks if you want to do all the things," he said Saturday. "But I enjoy my own personal life. I like to hunt and fish and boat with friends."

Nevertheless, the 31-year-old Stabler said he's been busy since Oakland's 32-14 victory over Minnesota in the Super Bowl earlier this month.

"I stayed in Los Angeles for 10 days, doingtelevision show's and interviews, commercials and the like," he said. "You can probably make $100,000 real quick if you hustle. But I want time to myself.

Stabler said he would be busy most of next month but then will settle down in March. He also looks forward to his annual camp for kids, this year to be held June 12-18 in Marion, Ala., near Montgomery.

"The camp is not designed to make money," he said. "We make just enough to hold one again next year. It's a public service. Like giving back something."

Stabler, along with his coach John Madden, still haven't gotten over the Super Bowl victory. "It was everything we were told it would be. It makes you want to try to do again next year."

"Because of doing it once, I can see the motivation of trying to do it again," he said.

Madden, when asked the question, said he was still enjoying the victory. "It took me two weeks before I watched the films of the game. I wanted to savor the victory as I saw it at the time. I wanted to enjoy it as the perfect game."

Stabler and Madden were in the nation's capital for the 42nd annual Timmie awards dinner of the Washington Touchdown Club which is spotlighting quarterbacks, including Bert Jones and Roger Staubach, along with other professional, collegiate and amateur stars.

Wagner named GM by Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dick Wagner was named general manager of the Cincinnati Reds Saturday by club president Bob Howsam, but Howsam will continue to operate the club.

Howsam was general manager until he was named president in 1973. The club dropped the title of general manager at that time. Wagner will retain his previous title of executive vice president.

"This move reflects the steadily increasing duties and reponsibilities that Dick has undertaken for the Reds in recent years," Howsam said.

"He will be in charge of our day-to-day operations and have increased involvement in the long range planning of the company, relating to activities both on and off the field.

"The challenges facing baseball today are severe but we have an ownership and a staff equal to the challenges," said Wagner, a native of Central City, Neb.

Wagner came to the Reds from the St. Louis Cardinals in 1967 where he was director of promotions and sales.

Gonzalez wins PBA tournament

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (AP) — Henry Gonzalez downed top-seeded Norm Meyers 246-179 Saturday to win first prize money of $10,000 in a $90,000 Professional Bowlers Association tournament here.

The victory for Gonzalez, a 26-year-old Colorado Springs, Colo., native, was his first in three years on the PBA tour.

In his second match of the day, Gonzalez beat second-seeded Tommy Hudspeth of Akron, Ohio, 279-225. In the match, Gonzalez hit seven straight strikes before leaving the two pin in the eighth frame. He picked up the spare and finished with four more strikes.

In the championship match, Gonzalez began with two strikes and added four straight spares to open a 12-pin lead after six frames. Gonzalez then finished with six strikes to thwart Meyers' bid for his first tournament title in 13 years.

He finds fast ladies — on course

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Staff Writer

You gotta be kidding me when you talk about ladies playing slowly these days. I mean I'm getting to the point where I'd much rather play behind three girls hitting and walking than a foursome of guys who spray the ball all over the place and take five minutes to line up a putt "cuz Jack Nicklaus takes his time. I seen it on TV."

Well, for my money, put me behind two gals any time. Take the other day for instance. I was playing my monthly tournament between two pros — this time it was Vic Regalado, the former Pomona Valley star, against none other than big Tom Weiskopf. Course I'm hitting both balls at Chino Creek late in the afternoon when all the good players are in the bar telling lies.

On the second hole I spot these two ladies playing ahead of me, you see, and I moan to myself, "Oh, no," because I remember how slow women played in the 1940s.

Well, those two gals played the 9 holes in ONE hour and 29 minutes, give or take a few seconds. I'm hitting both balls down the middle about 170 every time and I can't even catch up. So when I'm finished, I make a straight line for the parking lot to find out their names, and to tell them how much I enjoyed playing behind them. Well, they were gone when I putted out, clean jumped into their cars, started up the engine, and probably headed for home where they undoubtedly cooked up a fast dinner for their husband and the kids.

How did the match come out? Great. Regalado fired a superb 49 and Weiskopf was out of it with a 53. Course Vic sank a couple of beautiful putts. Both pros admitted, however, their games may have suffered trying to keep up with the ladies in front.

She hit the longest drive and was closest to the pin on a par 3 hole. Louis A. Cecchini of Diamond Bar finished first in one of the Callaway flights.

Four previous Bob Hope Desert Classic winners will head the field of 128 pros in the 18th tournament set from Wednesday through Sunday, Feb. 9-12.

Arnie Palmer, a five-time champ, will lead the pack, along with defending title-holder Johnny Miller. Billy Casper, who won the Classic three times, and Hubert Green will also be on hand.

Four Palm Springs area courses — Bermuda Dunes, Indian Wells, La Quinta and Tamarisk country clubs — will host the event, which has raised more than $5 million for the Eisenhower Medical Center since 1960.

A change in format for the PGA Tour qualifying school brings the early rounds closer to home. The first round will be held in the 39 PGA sections, with winners advancing to regional events, and then on to the national qualifying school.

A change for the better then. Insteady of having 350 players arriving at one location and vieing for only 29 spots, the PGA can eliminate players closer to their home.

Congratulations to newly elected officers of Marshall Canyon Women's Club. They are: president, Emily Miller; tournament chairperson, Delayne Lazar; handicap chairperson, Martha O'Leary; secretary, Dolores Leary; treasurer, Neva Tassio; publicity, Cathryn Naftel.

Awards were recently given to Shelby Myers, most improved; Lorraine Basinski, sweet swinger; and Sally Lockabey, putting.

Glendora C.C. Women's Auxiliary eclectic event a ended recently with Joan Shumaker and Rose Drake winning low gross honors in the first flight. Dena Hollett and Marge McKee with a 59 were net winners.

Other winners were: second flight, Dotty Beaucar and Elaine Whitcher, gross; Sue Lewis and JoAnn Scott, net. Third flight, Edie Misic and Elsie Duffy, gross; Vi Hansen and Betty Franklin, net.

Jack Nicklaus, off on a skiing vacation, probably won't play again until the tour reaches Florida. He has a business trip scheduled to Australia and may make a stop in Japan.

"I may make the L.A. Open, but I don't know yet," says Nicklaus.

Joe Dey, a former executive director of the U.S. Golf Association and the tour's first commissioner, has been named to receive the Bob Jones Award for distinguished sportsmanship in golf.

La Mancha winners in the recent Net event were: Bonnie Woodrow and Ruth Barbaris, first flight; Doris Allen and Mae Extale, second flight; Jean Hill and Madeline Maxwell, third flight.

Red Hill's fine professional Jim Lee finished fifth and won $2,552 in PGA sectional tournaments during 1976. Top money winner was Chuck Montalbano of Griffith Park with $3,775 although he missed several events.

Tommy Jacobs of La Costa C.C. finished second with $3,200 and Tom Barber of Griffith Park won $2,600 to finish third. Dave Barber of Bakersfield finished fourth, winning $2,578.

Eighty Ontario Elks will test the par 3 layout, Sunset Dunes, in Colton today, according to Bill Brodie, pro and manager of the course.

I dropped into the pro shop Thursday to look over the facilities and it looks like a fine layout, complete with traps, trees and trouble.

The course, formerly called Sam Snead Golf Course, plays to a par 57 and stretches 3,095 yards. It's an 18 holer naturally. All holes are par 3 except for the 6th, the 11th and the 17th, which are par 4s. They are listed at 275, 309 and 253 yards respectively.

Looking for a short, interesting course for an out ing? Sunset, located at 1901 Valley Blvd. in Colton may be the answer.

Talking about courses, I dropped in to chat with Dave Cink, Mountain Meadows head professional, recently, and he says the new layout is getting better every day. "We think we're going to have a real championship course here in a short time," says Cink.

Latest report I have too is that the men's club has been holding some outstanding tournaments. A great many people are excited about the rapid development of the course and the men's and women's clubs. Club champ at Mountain Meadows interestingly is Pat Duffy, a 6 handicapper who plays crosshanded. I've never seen Duffy play, but those who have say he can "really belt a golf ball."

Duffy, incidentally, won the club championship in both 1975 and '76. Last Sunday he won the men's club event by firing a 38-35 — 73.

I was happy to learn that at least four school golf teams will use Mountain Meadows as their home course this spring. Also have a report that Ganesha will field a team for the first time this year. Will track down the report.

Skating cycle begins anew

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The year after an Olympics is considered an off-year for figure skating and other amateur sports. The top Olympic stars, not willing to devote another four years of skating for just sweat, are very willing to sign lucrative pro contracts.

With the older more experienced stars skating for money, the younger athletes move into the spotlight, hoping to build successes that will lead to the 1980 Olympics and the 1981 ice shows.

Gone is 1976 senior women's champion Dorothy Hamill of nearby Riverside, Conn., whose residence now is anywhere the Ice Capades freezes its water. Miss Hamill parlayed years of dedication and the Olympic gold medal into a fat pro contract.

Also gone is last year's senior men's titlist, Terry Kubicka, who finished seventh at the Innsbruck Games but delighted the crowd with his back flips. He also turned pro.

The departures of Miss Hamill and Kubicka leave wide-open ice for the more than 140 competitors who will be competing for national titles and the chance to represent the U.S. in March at the World Figure Skating Championships in Tokyo.

The competitors get here by finishing in the top three positions in one of three sectional competitions or by finishing in the first three places in last years's national championships.

Linda Fratianne of Los Angeles, who was second in the 1976 nationals, is favored to replace Miss Hamill as queen of the American skaters. Miss Fratianne, 17, is a crowd-pleasing freestyle skater who has been working this year on her compulsory figures. She finished eighth in the 1976 Olympics, but was fifth in the freestyle.

At the nationals, the compulsory figures, a tedious session of tracing figure eights, count for 30 per cent. A disciplined short-form program makes up 20 per cent, while a longer free skating program counts for 50 per cent of the total, which then determines the final rankings.

Wendy Burge of Los Angeles, third in the 1976 nationals and sixth in the Olympics, and sectional winners Priscilla Hill of Winchester, Conn., Suzie Brasher of Salt Lake City and Kathy Gelecinsky of Colorado Springs are also highly touted.

David Santee of Park Ridge, Ill. finshed second in last year's nationals and is favored to move up one spot. Sixth at Innsbruck, Santee is expected to get tough competition from Scott Cramer and sectional winners Charles Tickner of Denver, Mahlon Bradley of Boston and John Carlow of Las Vegas.

In the pairs competition, defending champions Randy Gardner and Tai Babilonia are back, fresh from an impressive fifth-place finish in the Olympics. Gardner is an 18-year-old freshman at the University of Southern California and Miss Babilonia is a 16-year-old high school student.

The 1976 Olympics was their spotlight to amateur fame. If they keep skating, the 1980 Olympics might be their springboard to pro success.

Williams in meet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sprinter Steve Williams, coholder of the world record for 100 meters, will make his 1977 debut next week when he competes against a crack field in the 60-yard dash at the Times Indoor games.

Williams, who was injured last year and failed to make the U.S. Olympic team, informed meet directors his leg injury had healed, that he had been working out and that he'd be ready for the Feb. 4 meet at the Forum.

He said he had been working on his start — a critical aspect of short dashes like the 60 — and felt ready to resume his spot as the top sprinter in the world.

He'll have a chance to prove it against some of the best. Also entered in the 60 are Olympic champion Hasely Crawford of Trinidad, Olympic silver medalist Donald Quarrie of Jamaica and last year's schoolboy sensation Houston McTear.

Also scheduled to compete in the meet was the world record holder in the high jump, Dwight Stones, against his conquerer at the 1976 Olympics, Jacek Wszola of Poland.

John Moffet honored

John Moffet, 12, of the Mt. Baldy Aquatics was recently honored as the Southern Pacific Association Younger Age Group banquet along with 85 other AAU swimmers in the Southern California area.

The young swimmers were recognized for having achieved national top 10 status in individual strokes or relays.

Moffet, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Moffet of Claremont, is ranked second nationwide in the 100 meter breaststroke, fifth in the 50 meter breast and seventh in the 200 meter individual medley at the end of the 1976 long course season.

The La Puerta Intermediate School seventh grader achieved his high rankings after competing in the AAU only two months.

JOHN MOFFET

Moffet currently holds the SPA record in the 100 meter breast and has pending records in the 100 yard individual medley and 100 yard breast, the latter also being a pending national record.

Coach predicts record for Scott

LOS ANGELES — "I predict Steve Scott will break the outdoor world record in the mile," said UC Irvine coach Len Miller, "probably this year."

Strong words for sure. However, Miller is completely convinced he has a distance running phemon under his wing.

The 20-year-old junior from Upland will face an extremely strong field in the Times Indoor Games, Friday night at the Forum. World record holder and 1,500 meter gold medalist, John Walker, from New Zealand, Olympians Eamonn Coghlan from Ireland and Graham Crouch, Australia, and Americans Paul Cummings, Tobias Striders, Mike Manke, graduate student at Oklahoma State and Don Moses, UCI, are all slated to challenge the meet record of 3:58.3 held by Tony Waldrop.

Miller believes Scott could be equally adept at throwing the javelin or playing baseball. He pitched for Upland High School before switching to cross country.

Scott has excellent basic speed running the 220 in 22.3 and the 440 in the low 47s. "How many milers can run that quick and still have the ability to run strong 10,000 meters?" asked Miller.

Scott just missed qualifying for the Olympic team finishing sixth in the trials in 3:40.4 for the 1,500 meters.

"Steve has always been team oriented," said Miller. "He does a good job when people are depending on him. Now that he has emerged as a national class runner he is finding cause to develop more individually."

Scott ran a strong 3:59.7 in the recent Sunkist Invitational, one of three men to break four minutes for the first time in the 18 year history of the meet.

Pomona track team takes dozen medals

The Red Devil foursome of Anthony Miley, Karsem James, Alex Johnson and Curtis Goss won the seeded mile relay ahead of Long Beach Poly and Muir in 3:34.0 while Pomona's 640 relay team of William Warren, James, Miley and sophomore Joe Warren (1:08.2) ran second to Muir (1:07.4).

James also took fourth place in the 60 dash in 6.8 seconds.

Ricky Fairman was third in the shot put at 54-6¼. In the 60 high hurdles, Paul Sampson (7.9) and Walter Owens (8.1) each won a heat and Sampson was third overall.

Sophomore Ed Allen was third in his heat of the two mile and Joe Warren and Lawrence Isom placed second and third, respectively, in their 500 heats. Louis Cole finished fourth in the long jump at 20-5.

(And some straight answers from Winnebago.)

1. Is this motor home built by an experienced reputable manufacturer?
There's more to building a good motor home than putting a box on top of a truck chassis. Winnebago's experience and know-how have made it the best-selling brand in the U.S. We're also number one in repeat sales.

2. Do you have a good selection of sizes and models to choose from?
Some dealers have to push you into what they've got. But this year, Winnebago offers 6 different models and 15 floor plans. You can buy the motor home that fits your family.

3. Does this company have a program to upgrade vehicle safety?
Winnebago has one. It includes tough crash tests to prove the strength of our rugged Thermo-Steel® construction. We don't know anyone else who makes such tests.

4. Are parts and service readily available in all sections of the country?
You buy a motor home to go places. But can you get service in Florida as well as California? In Texas, Maine, Minnesota or Washington? Winnebago has some 450 service centers from coast to coast, even in Canada and Alaska. When you're on the road 500 miles from home, it's a mighty comforting thought.

5. Are you buying from a well-established, well-equipped dealer?
Winnebago dealers aren't here-today-gone-tomorrow outfits after a fast buck. They're experienced RV or automotive dealers, backed by full motor home service facilities and factory training programs.

6. Is there anyone beyond the dealer I can go to for satisfaction or help?
With Winnebago, you have a friend at the factory. Our Customer Relations Department is organized specifically to help you with questions, complaints or any special problems that may arise with your motor home.

7. What about protection after the sale?
No warranty or any other promise is any stronger than the company that stands behind it. The Winnebago Homeowners Plan spells out our limited warranty and many more owner benefits that help protect both you and your investment. And we have both the corporate and dealer strength to back it up.

8. What will your motor home be worth five years from now?
In the past few years, dozens of motor home companies have gone out of business and dozens more have sprung up. When the time comes to sell or trade, "orphan" brands take a big beating on price. On the other hand, Winnebagos consistently bring top resale dollars.

9. Will I pay more for freight charges here than in other parts of the country?
Not if you buy a Winnebago anywhere in the continental U.S. or Canada. Winnebago's freight charge is only $100 and it's included in the selling price.

10. Does this motor home have a printed sticker price?
If it's a Winnebago it does. You get facts, not fancy talk from a Winnebago dealer. When you make a deal, you'll know the price is right. Make that deal right now and you'll do even better!

Minnie Winnie® 23RB $13,768.50*

Here's the nimbleness and easy handling of a mini motor home with full size comfort and convenience features. Includes bath with separate tub/shower compartment, sleeping accommodations for five.

Dollar for dollar, feature for feature, we think it's the best motor home deal on the road!

He turned his dream world into reality

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dan Faris spends his days awash in a sea of dreams and memories, surrounded by "a cast of thousands" amidst the paper trinkets advertising Hollywood's celluloid dream world.

"I put some of my posters up in an old guy's bookstore and people wanted to buy them," he said. "When he went out of business, I took over, about 10 years ago."

Since then, he has stockpiled the tailings of the film industry, and now boasts of 250,000 posters and some 2 million photos.

"I get calls from university film classes and television, but my main trade is with private collectors," he said. "I save things for a lot of movie people, like John Wayne and director Sam Peckinpah."

But movie memorabilia is far more than a business to Faris, who has traveled around the country adding to his archives.

"The bulk of my collection I found in a little theater in Mississippi," he says. "The guy who ran it must have kept everything he ever had."

SALE OF SCRAP METAL
CALIFORNIA STATE POLYTECHNIC UNIVERSITY, POMONA
3801 West Temple Avenue
Pomona, California 91768

Sealed bids for the purchase of scrap metal will be received by the Procurement and Support Services Department, Building 75, until 10 a.m., February 3, 1977, at which time they will be publicly opened and read. Award will be to the highest bidder meeting the University's requirements as set forth herein.

Prospective bidders may arrange to inspect the scrap metal located in the Corporation Yard of the Physical Plant Department by contacting Mrs. Elizabeth Crowell, Warehouse Manager, (714) 598-4071.

Bids will be accepted only on the bid form which will be presented to each potential bidder at the time they inspect the scrap metal. No bids will be accepted which do not include the entire lot of scrap metal. The bidder to whom the bid is awarded will be responsible for cleaning up the scrap metal storage area to the entire satisfaction of Mrs. Crowell.

The successful bidder will remove all scrap metal from the aforementioned site within two (2) consecutive working days commencing the day after the bid has been awarded to the highest bidder. Payment in full to the University will be made to the Property Clerk, Building 75, before the scrap metal is picked up. Payment must be made by certified check payable to "California State Polytechnic University, Pomona" in the full amount of the bid.

The University reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

The successful bidder agrees to indemnify and save harmless the University, its officers, agents, and employees, from any and all loss, damage, or liability that may be suffered or incurred by the University, its officers, agents, and employees, caused by, arising out of or in any way connected with the removal of the said property.

Losing streak continues; market cold and slow

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market yielded again to cold-weather energy worries this past week, keeping its early-1977 losing streak intact.

Big-name growth stocks were among the primary casualties.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 4.90 to 957.53, bringing its four-week decline since the start of the year to 47.12 points.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gave up 1.39 to 101.93, and the New York Stock Exchange's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was off .66 at 55.49.

The government's index of leading economic indicators registered a strong gain in its final reading for 1976, jibing with the many bullish forecasts issued on Wall Street at year end.

But that seemed to cut no ice with investors preoccupied with the effects on the economy of the cold weather most of the country has experienced in recent weeks.

The immediate concern was that production cutbacks prompted by energy shortages would have a sharp adverse effect on first-quarter corporate earnings.

Beyond that, however, analysts noted that the situation had made investors acutely conscious once again of the longer-term energy questions confronting the nation.

A number of Wall Streeters had hoped that directors of International Business Machines would vote a stock split during the week. But the IBM board opted instead for an increase in the cash dividend.

LEWIS HOMES—GLENDORA

Lewis development in Glendora

Country-like environment

Eating one's cake and having it is no easy accomplishment for the home buyer seeking the serenity of a country-like environment, yet still wanting speedy access to his workday desk in the city.

Lewis Homes believes it has found the solution in its new Lewis Homes — Glendora development. So do a large number of buyers, for the community on which construction was started shortly before the start of the year is already more than 50 per cent sold out.

Site of the new community at Glendora Avenue, one block south of Gladstone Street in Glendora, is described as being truly suburban in flavor. Yet it lies virtually at the crossroads of the San Gabriel and Pomona Valleys and is also within easy freeway reach to Orange County.

Under construction, with sales now in progress, are single family residences designed in one story, two story and split-level elevations. Purchase price is from $55,500 to $70,000.

Largest of the plans, a four-bedroom model, embraces 2,194 square feet of liveable area plus a three car garage. It features a formal dining room, breakfast nook and two full baths plus a guest powder room. An impressive appointment in the family room is its intriguingly placed corner fireplace.

Another model, designed to appeal to seekers of three-bedroom plans, features a dressing area and built-in vanity table in its master bedroom suite. The kitchen has an indoor-outdoor serving counter as well as a breakfast bar. Another distinguishing appointment is a raised entry, from which it's a step down to the living room and other rooms of the home.

Cedar shake roofs, luminous kitchen ceilings and wood burning fireplaces are features noted in all Lewis Homes — Glendora models. Self cleaning ovens and ranges head the list of kitchen appliances. The homes are carpeted from wall to wall in living room, dining room, hallways and all bedrooms and wardrobe closets. Many have interior laundry rooms and wet bars.

Another suggested route is via Foothill Boulevard (Alosta Street) to Glendora Avenue, then south to the development.

Brisk sales reported

The sales pace at Village Park, Crowell/Leventhal's family oriented housing development in Cucamonga has been brisk. Only 5 of the total 69 homes remain for sale in the first and second phases. The 3-bedroom, 2-bath single story Spruce Plan is priced at $36,450 in this phase only. Phase III is currently under construction and the prices are substantially higher. "So the time to buy is now," commented Tom Clark, salesman for Walker & Lee, exclusive brokers for all Crowell/Leventhal communities.

The price of the homes at Village Park is so low, you might think that only the basic four walls are included in the purchase price. "Not so," remarks Tom Clark. "These homes come complete with wood burning fireplaces and gas log lighters, quality built-in kitchen appliances by O'Keefe & Merritt, forced air heating and wall-to-wall carpeting in selected areas. And I haven't begun to tell you about our recreational features."

Village Park is appropriately named because it encompasses a 4-acre park that contains a swimming pool, tot lot with play equipment and a game court available for the use of all Village Park homeowners. Nearby are facilities for golfing, fishing and hiking. Schools are also convenient to the development and the San Bernardino Freeway makes most employment centers easy to reach.

Opening of Phase III for sales is scheduled for February, but occupancy for that phase cannot be promised until April or May. "These homes in Phase II are ready for immediate occupancy," stated Tom Clark. "I know how important it is to families moving from an apartment to have that home readily available, and we can offer it at Village Park."

To reach Village Park from the San Bernardino Freeway, take the Archibald off-ramp and travel north to Arrow Route. Turn right on Arrow Route and drive east about ½ mile until you reach Village Park. The sales office is open daily from 10 a.m. till dusk.

Ontario homes are available to 'vets'

At Suncrest Homes in Ontario, veterans may move in with only $1 down, paying no closing costs, announces Wes Weissinger, regional sales director for Butler Housing Corp., the Irvine-based developer.

"As we are all aware, inflation has placed a heavy strain on new home buyers," said Weissinger. "This financing program gives them the opportunity to buy now, avoiding what might otherwise be prohibitive down payments."

Four single-story plans with two to four bedrooms are offered. They feature slope-ceilinged living rooms with sliding glass doors onto patio areas, master suites with private baths, and attached two car garages with separate laundry areas. Every home has a wood-burning fireplace in either the living or family room. One plan includes a window seat in the den/bedroom.

Modified floorplans on pre-assigned lots offer the alternative for a formal dining room in lieu of a family room — or for converting a four-bedroom plan to three bedrooms with an extra large family room. In addition each home is designed and preconstructed to enable the homeowner to add an additional bedroom and bath at a future date.

Recreational opportunities in the Ontario Community include many golf and tennis facilities, grassy parks, racing at Ontario Speedway, and skiing at nearby Mt. Baldy.

Prices at Suncrest Homes/Ontario range from $34,950 to $42,200 with FHA/VA and conventional financing.

The development may be reached by taking the San Bernardino Freeway to the Vineyard Avenue offramp and going north on Vineyard to the corner of Sixth Street, where the models are located.

Hawkins scores sales

1976 sales at Herbert Hawkins Realtors zoomed upward 40 per cent to a total of $350 million as compared to $250 million reported in 1975.

Included are sales from company-owned offices as well as franchised offices in Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange, Ventura and San Diego counties. The firm's corporate headquarters are in Temple City.

The Alhambra sales office, managed by Jim Papararo, topped the roster of 75 offices with a volume exceeding $44 million, a 70 per cent increase in that area.

Real estate

Slight softening in home prices ahead

With more disposable income, stable mortgage rates, more new homes available, and a slight softening of new homes prices, 1977 is seen as a banner year for California housing by George Fulton, corporate marketing vice president at Walker & Lee, Inc., the Anaheim-based firm that sold 13,888 new and pre-owned homes in 1976.

In a "Housing Insights" paper sent to the firm's builder clients, Fulton said:

"The California housing industry should sell more homes in 1977 than in 1976, but with a great deal less fanfare. However, the market shares of individual builders and developments will decline substantially as many new tracts open. When supplies increase, the competition from added new home inventory will soften appreciation rates slightly in both the resale and new home sectors and speculators will decline as a percentage of the market. Despite these changes, the housing market will be very strong and individual projects will be ahead of what might be considered a 'normal' year — if there is such a thing — but behind the frantic pace of 1976."

Increasing real disposable income should continue to be "a catalyst for housing sales," Fulton said. Quoting the UCLA Forecast for the U.S. Economy, he stated that real disposable income increased by 6.6 per cent in 1973, the last good housing year. Then it declined to 1.6 per cent in 1974. In 1975, it moved forward 1.8 per cent; and in 1976, 4.1 per cent. It is expected to increase by 4.8 per cent in 1977 and 3.9 per cent in 1978, signaling good housing years.

Fulton noted that various forecasts for starts in California during 1977 range from 210,000 to 235,000, up from approximately 190,000 in 1976. This compares to 217,000 starts in 1973, a very good housing year. "This high level is impressive but it is unlikely to satisfy the effective demand," he said.

More single-family detached homes will be built this year than last, according to Fulton. However, he noted they will be a smaller percentage of total sales as cluster housing, townhomes, and condominiums re-enter the market in larger numbers.

"Conditions should be good for the new attached housing in 1977, but it will remain the most vulnerable portion of the housing stock in terms of over-building, increase in mortgage rates, and uncertainties in the economy," Fulton observed.

Looking at financing, he continued: "Obviously, any major increase in mortgage rates can severely curtail sales. The buyers most affected would be those without home equities to utilize in their next purchase. So, a great portion of the inventory designed to be sold to renters would move very slowly. However, all indications are that market rates will be stable and acceptable, and mortgage funds will be plentiful in 1977."

MARKET CLOSE-UP

Fulton gave the builders a closer look at the 1977 housing market by examining the prospects among five different types of homeshoppers: homeowners, apartment renters, home renters, town-house and condominium owners, and speculators.

The number of homeowners moving should increase and remain strong in 1977, he believes. With increased numbers of new homes to choose from, these buyers "should be better served and more responsive." Also, with a slight flattening of prices and stable interest rates, further encouragement would be given to this buying group. However, there is a possibility of hesitation about selling and moving up because of an apparent slow-down in the resale sector caused by competition from new homes and more listings available for sale. In 1976, homeowners moving constituted 53 per cent of the sales. In 1977, the actual numbers should increase, but the percentage as a part of a larger total will decline to 45 per cent to 50 per cent.

Fulton states that low interest rates, rising rents, more new homes designed for apartment renters and increased incomes should make this segment strong in 1977, accounting for as much as 30 per cent to 35 per cent of total sales, up from 25 per cent last year. As long as mortgage rates remain stable, he sees this portion of the market as being substantial.

The home renters portion of the market should remain fairly stable, Fulton feels. The number of speculators renting homes (in many cases, at below-market rates) and relatively small rent increases should make rental homes good housing values. Consequently, the incentive to move will not be great. This segment is estimated to be 8 per cent to 10 per cent of total sales in 1977, as compared to 10 per cent in 1976.

Equity gains will encourage townhome and condominium owners to move up, the Walker & Lee executive states. This relatively new market of buyers produced 8 per cent of the 1976 sales and should increase to 10 per cent to 12 per cent in 1977.

Fulton noted that speculators or investors, have become a major part of the market for both new and resale homes, and in some new developments, account for as much as 50 per cent of total sales. He said that, in some respects, speculators alleviate the pressure for rental housing. He believes that during 1977, speculators should continue to play a major role in home sales, assuming that home appreciation in California will continue, as expected, near the 1976 levels of 15 per cent to 25 per cent.

CAUTIONS BUILDERS

Fulton cautioned the builders to watch out for three things: buying land and building at any price, the speculator dropping out of the market, and prices that even families with combined incomes can't afford. He said:

"The major caution for builders in 1977 would be to avoid buying land and building at any price because of the strong market. Buyers will continue to become better shoppers of competitive offerings. This is particularly true for lower-priced attached housing competing with single-family resale homes."

Speculators and investors will pose a two-fold danger to the housing market if prices begin leveling and appreciation drops to the 5 to 10 per cent range.

Northview site home sales set

Crowell/ Leventhal's Northview Homes in Alta Loma are open for sales with temporary offices in the sales center of the Ranch, located at 6085 Napa, near the intersection of Banyan and Carnelian.

Priced from $57,450, Northview Homes in Alta Loma is the latest offering in quality built homes by Crowell/Leventhal, Inc.

Homes range in size from the "Golden Spur," a 3-bedroom, 2-bath home to "The Northview," a 2-story, 4-bedroom, 3-bath modern formal large family home.

Construction is moving rapidly on both the production homes and the model home/sales center complex at Northview.

Amenities in the new homes include: floor safes, smoke detectors, shake or tile roofs, subterranean termite soil treatment, large lots, batt insulation for privacy and economy, burglar alarms, brick fireplaces, wall-to-wall carpeting and oversized 2 and 3 car garages. Some homes offer brick and stone veneers, cathedral ceilings, step-down living rooms, balconies and built-in wet bars.

Kitchens at Northview offer ceramic tile countertops, large luminous ceilings, hood vents, garbage disposals, sound cushioned dishwashers, cast iron sinks with porcelain finish, aerated faucets, custom built individually stained cabinets, and either built-in or eye-level lower ovens with microwave upper ovens.

To reach the new community of Northview's temporary sales office; from the San Bernardino Freeway — go north on Euclid Avenue in Upland to 19th Street. Turn east (right) to Carnelian, north (left) to Banyan and follow the signs to The Ranch, 6085 Napa, Alta Loma. Open seven days a week from 10 a.m. till dusk, according to Meretta Brown, sales representative.

Hawkins expansion set

Herbert Hawkins Realtors recently purchased two lots and an older home adjacent to their Pomona offices for expansion of their parking facilities.

The properties at 1104 N. Garey, 109 and 117 E. Columbia may also provide some corner commercial development in the future. Ruth Vaccari, manager of the Hawkins sales office, handled the $47,500 transaction for her firm.

Herbert Hawkins Realtors owns the building at 1146-1150-1154 N. Garey which houses their Circle Termite Company, Fortress Escrow and Pomona sales offices.

The Pomona branches of Circle Termite and Fortress Escrow also serve Hawkins sales offices located in Claremont, Upland, Ontario, and Chino.

FUN FACTS®
from WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT GUM

THE OPPOSSUM HAS FIFTY SHARP TEETH; MORE THAN ANY OTHER MAMMAL IN AMERICA.

ROMANS BOUGHT READY-TO-EAT FOODS AT COOK SHOPS AND TOOK THE MEALS HOME TO ENJOY OVER 2000 YEARS AGO.

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT (1869-1959) IS CREDITED WITH ESTABLISHING MANY FEATURES OF CONTEMPORARY HOUSE DESIGN, INCLUDING THE "CARPORT," WHICH HE REPORTEDLY NAMED.

WHILE MOST OF US KNOW WE ARE EITHER RIGHT OR LEFT-HANDED, MANY PEOPLE DON'T REALIZE THAT THEY ALSO HAVE A DOMINANT OR "MASTER" EYE.

You'll like the big, long-lasting flavor.

DEAR POLLY — To avoid lumps in the shoulders of drip dry shirts, fold a bath towel over the hanger, hang the shirt over that and I am sure you will be pleased with the results. — FLO.

●

DEAR POLLY — A friend gave me a good idea to use when regular interfacing is too heavy to use with sheers you may be sewing. Use nylon net in a color similar to the material. It does the job of interfacing without showing. — KERI.

●

Send your helpful hints to Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — After the elastic around a shower cap has lost its elasticity it will make a nifty looking toilet seat cover that looks nice, costs nothing and is easy to keep clean. — SUZANNE.

●

DEAR POLLY — I keep as many cardboard cartons in my laundry room as I have categories of wash loads. Each day the clothes hamper is emptied and the dirty clothes divided and put in the proper box. When a carton has enough for a load those clothes are washed. This way, I can anticipate my wash loads for a week. — PAM.

●

DEAR POLLY — Do not discard that old outdoor grill. Paint it, cover the bottom with gravel for drainage and use it for potted plants on the patio. — E.V.

●

DEAR POLLY — When you need a baby shower present fast, write a note on pretty stationary saying you will baby sit free for a certain length of time. — K.M.K.

DEAR POLLY — When you have food cooking while you are dressing to go out, put a potholder on top of your purse. It will serve as a reminder to be sure to shut off the stove. — ETHEL.

●

DEAR POLLY — I find it is good to put an old automobile tire around each tomato plant I set out. As the plant grows and branches out the tire keeps it off the ground. — MRS. D.B.

●

DEAR POLLY — I have little eyesight left but do have to sew on a button or do a little fixing every so often. I have someone thread several needles on one spool of thread and tie a knot in the end of the thread. When I need to do a bit of sewing, I push all the needles except one against the spool and cut off the one threaded needle with the amount of thread I think I will need, then tie another knot on the end of the thread on the spool to hold the other needles. I hope this may help someone else. — MRS. G.R.

...I'LL LEAVE A RANSOM MESSAGE WHERE SOMEBODY WILL FIND IT!
RANSOM, HUH? SAY, THAT'D REALLY MAKE FOLKS THINK THE BOONY-GOONIES MEANT BUSINESS!
HOW MUCH ARE YOU GONNA ASK FOR US?
THAT'S TH' WAY I GOT IT FIGURED, TOO!
OH, THREE OR FOUR HIDES AN' A COUPLE POTS OF COOKED MEAT!
ARE YOU OUT OF YOUR TREE, OOP? YOU GOTTA ASK MORE THAN THAT! I'M TH' KING!!
WELL, HOW MUCH DO YOU THINK WE OUGHTA ASK?
SEEMS T'ME WE OUGHTA BE WORTH AT LEAST 50 HIDES AN' 20 POTS OF MEAT!!
GRAUE 1-30
D'YOU REALLY THINK THEY'D PAY THAT MUCH?
PROBABLY NOT!
THEN MEBBE WE BETTER STICK TO FOUR HIDES AN' TWO POTS OF MEAT!

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

GILBERT VELASQUEZ OF VENTURA, CA, ASKS:

"HOW ARE PICKLES MADE?"

CUCUMBERS ARE CHANGED INTO PICKLES BY CURING THEM IN VATS FILLED WITH VINEGAR AND SALT WATER. TO MAKE DILL PICKLES, THE CUCUMBERS ARE SOAKED IN A PICKLING BRINE FLAVORED WITH THE BITTER SEEDS AND LEAVES OF THE DILL PLANT. SOUR PICKLES ARE CURED IN VINEGAR BRINE. SUGAR IS ADDED FOR SWEET PICKLES. AFTER CURING, THE PICKLES ARE DE-SALTED IN FRESH WATER, SEASONED WITH SUCH SPICES AS MUSTARD AND CLOVES, THEN SEALED IN JARS.

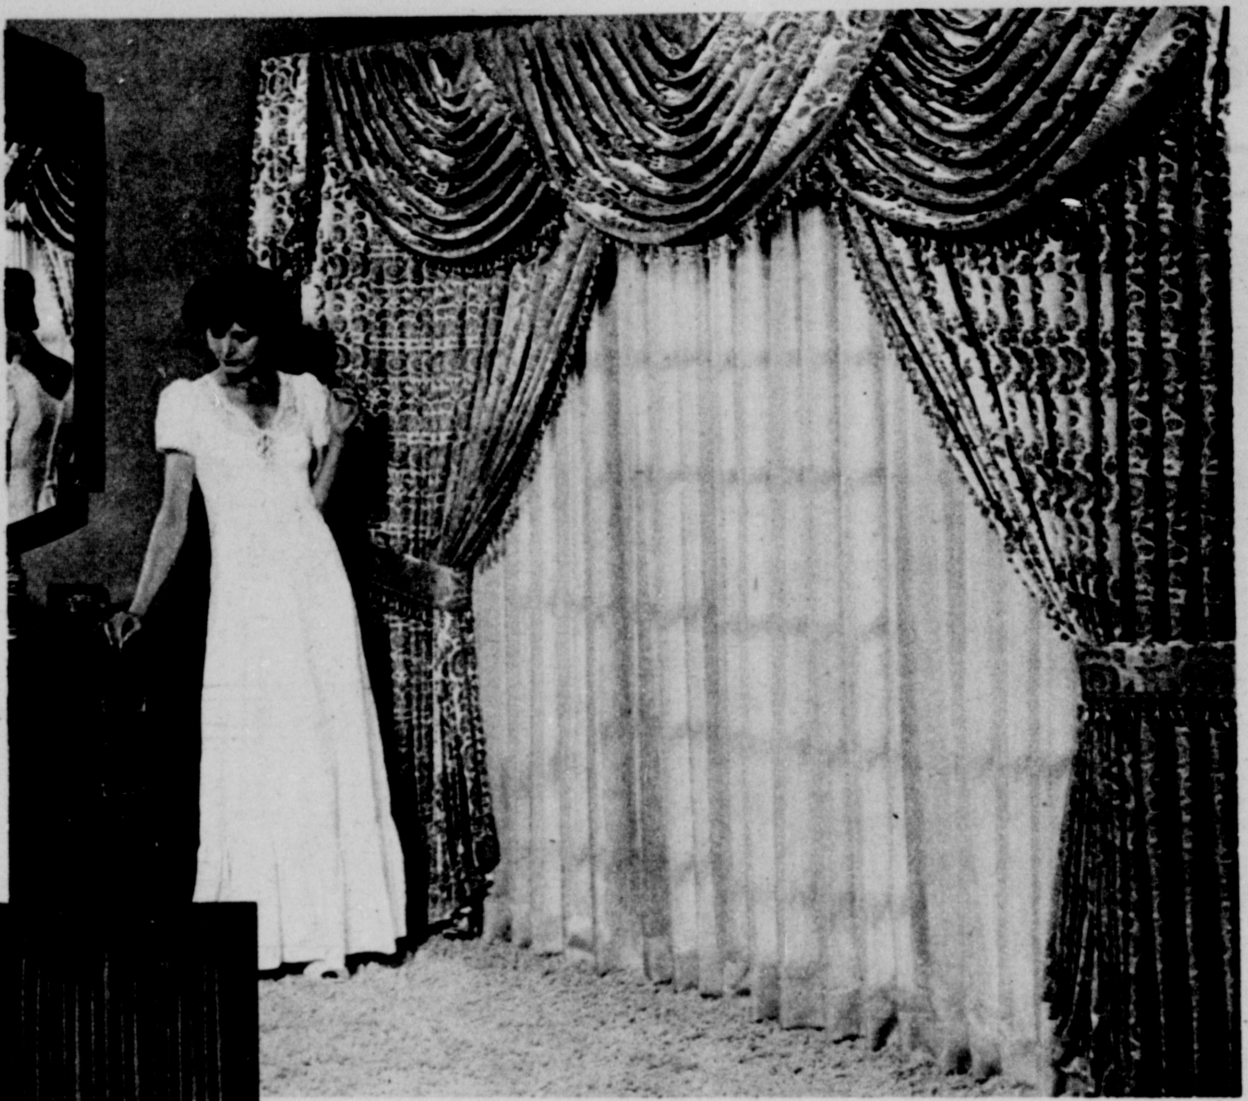
20% to 25% off custom draperies. Savings on fabric, labor, lining and installation.



Save on a wide assortment of decorative fabrics in hundreds of beautiful colors. And, there's more than that: labor, lining, even installation. Just wait until you've seen the choice: antique satins, sheers, open weaves, textures, prints, damasks and jacquards. Plan an elegant window treatment or a simple tailored look to add that custom decorator touch to any room in your home.

Come in today and visit our Decorating Studio in most larger JCPenney stores or call for a free home appointment.

All custom draperies are fabricated in our own company workrooms and not by outside contractors.

As practical as blinds with the elegant grace of sheer panels. Lowered, the horizontal accordian folds create the delicate beauty of sheer tailored panels with the added convenience of an outer film of silvery reflective material that keeps out the harsh glare and heat of the sun but lets in the view. Raised, the shades pull so tightly to the head rail you almost forget they're there. It's new, it's practical and at these tremendous savings, you can't afford to wait. Great color selection.

The job you learn in the Army is a skill that stays with you.

You'll find that the job you learn in the Army has a lot of "staying" power. And it gives you options you probably didn't have before. You can use your skill to build a career in the Army.

And, we think you'll discover another important fact. The Army's job-training courses are probably the best around. They're taught by excellent instructors, in good schools, on the most up-to-date equipment. You'll have a job that could cost you a lot of money to learn in civilian life.

Remember, you're also paid good money while you learn. And after six months, while you're learning your skill, you get a nice raise. After that, further raises and promotions will come as you earn them. And, of course, the Army takes care of your meals, clothing, housing, medical and dental care, plus a lot of other benefits, such as a 30 day vacation paid every year. Send back the card today and get all the facts.

See your Army Representative for the latest information.

You'll enjoy a good starting salary in the Army, with most of it clear, since the Army takes care of the majority of your living expenses. But if you're like a lot of young people we've talked to, "money isn't everything." You want to know you're equipped to handle whatever comes your way. And that's what the Army can do for you. It provides job training and experience in a skill you can use throughout your life. And in addition, the Army can help you develop a greater sense of confidence and responsibility. You really get to know yourself, and your abilities, in the Army. And that is an education all by itself.

GUARANTEE

If you qualify, you can enlist for one of hundreds of exciting Army jobs. Or you can choose the initial area or unit you'd like to serve in, near home in the continental United States or someplace new. Your choice will be guaranteed in writing before you enlist.

In today's Army, you earn good money while learning a skill to make even more money.

If you're looking for a good job, and a good starting salary, today's Army can help you. In fact, the Army has more good jobs to fill than anybody. Hundreds of good jobs. And we'll give you the training and the experience you need for the job you select. All of which is pretty hard to beat, especially when you get an attractive starting salary and a jump in pay after just six months in the Army.

Look over the stamps on this page, representing 40 Army career categories. Pick your first three choices, detach, moisten and place the stamps on the postage-paid card and mail it to us.

We'll send you all the details. There's no obligation.

We're #1.
And it hurts.

It doesn't care who it hurts, either. Arthritis is our nation's #1 crippler.

It can hit anyone, anywhere. Hands, legs, backs, hips, shoulders. If there's a place that can hurt, it can be ravaged by arthritis.

The only common denominator is pain. And right now, there's no cure.

Not too much is even known about arthritis, but all this week reporter Ann Martin will tell you everything we do know about it. How to spot it, where to get help, how to avoid its crippling pain when possible.

Be watching at 6 on Channel 7 for the Eyewitness Closeup, "Arthritis." Then pray you don't get it.

'LEARNED FROM THE WINGS'

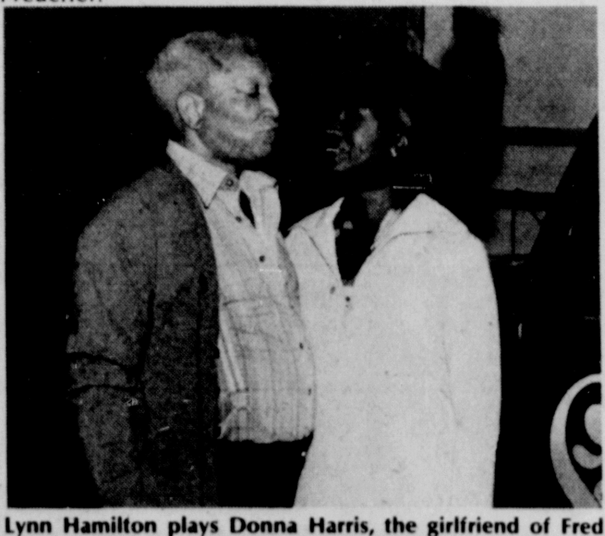
Lynn Hamilton, Donna on NBC's Sanford and Son (Fridays, 8PM), was honored by her high school alma mater for outstanding acting—though, as a student, she never had an opportunity to act. She was a member of the Drama Club at Bloom Township High School in Chicago Heights, Ill., but never appeared on stage. However, the school recently recognized her success in the field of drama and inducted her into their Hall of Fame; she is the only former student to achieve the honor for acting.

"I really didn't worry about not getting roles in the plays," Lynn said. "I worked backstage helping with the sets, the costumes, anything. I learned a lot about drama from the wings."

Hamilton later pursued dramatic training at the Goodman Theatre, a division of Chicago's Art Institute. She went on to act on the legitimate stage in New York and performed with Joseph Papp's Shakespeare in the Park.

In the early 60's, she was selected to participate in President Kennedy's first cultural exchange program in drama. As a participant she went on a world tour with the American Repertory Theatre doing plays in Europe, the Near East, and Central and South America.

In addition to appearing on Sanford and Son, Lynn plays the recurring role of Birdie Grant, a neighbor of the Waltons. She starred in the made-for-TV movie, "A Dream for Christmas," and has had guest roles in many series, including The Rockford Files, Starsky and Hutch and Ironside. Her motion picture credits include "Lady Sings the Blues" and "Buck and the Preacher."



Lynn Hamilton plays Donna Harris, the girlfriend of Fred Sanford (series star Redd Foxx), in NBC's Sanford and Son.

CLOSE-UP

'ALICE'S BOY'

The precocious, sports-minded 12-year-old who television viewers know as Alice Hyatt's son on the hit series Alice is, in reality—a precocious, sports-minded 12-year-old. Philip McKeon (pronounced Mc "Kee-un") stars as Tommy Hyatt, who has begun a new life with his widowed mother in Phoenix, in Alice, starring Linda Lavin as Alice Hyatt, seen Saturdays at 9:30PM on CBS.

Philip's acting career began when his parents were encouraged by a friend to see if he and his younger sister might find work as child models. At the age of four, Philip began a career in commercials that a mature actor would envy. He was then cast in the Broadway play, "Jason and Medea," followed by the films "Up the Sandbox" and "Once Is Not Enough."

Then Philip was cast as Alice's son in the new television series. "I couldn't believe it," Philip says with a winning grin, "at first I didn't take the idea seriously, but when they called and offered me the part, I really wanted it."

Aware of the pitfalls ahead, Philip's parents had a long talk with him about the sacrifices an actor has to make. "Frankly, we discouraged him," related father Donald McKeon, owner of a travel agency, "because we were afraid he might regret giving up all the outside activities that mean so much to him. He persisted, though," he adds with fatherly pride, "and he hasn't gone back on his commitment to the show, or to us."

Philip spends school hours with a private tutor daily, following a tough cirriculum. He excels at English composition. "I do miss going to regular school," Philip admits, "but I'm lucky that I have friends who like me for what I am, even if I don't get to see them all the time." School is one of the areas in which Philip McKeon and his character Tommy part company. "Tommy is always trying to get out of school," Philip laughs, "and I wish I were there, sometimes."

"When I have to do something that's different from what I would really do, "Philip says thoughtfully, "I just make believe that I am really Tommy, that there really is a place called Mel's (the diner where Alice works) and that Linda Lavin is really my mother. Sometimes, I could almost swear the whole thing is real!"

"What I miss most about working in television is playing sports," Philip states flatly. "I was very involved in school baseball, as catcher and sometimes on second base. I also played guard on a Pop Warner football team, and I miss that, too. With a show to do every week, there's just no time."

With Philip out of the room, his father interjects with real puzzlement, "We don't know where his motivation comes from. His mother and I are both more introverted, but Philip is very self-motivated and has not backed off from this tremendous commitment (to Alice) one bit. In fact," Mr. McKeon adds, with an incredulous shake of his head, "Philip can hardly wait to get to work in the morning. He really seems to know what he wants, and to enjoy performing."

'22nd ARTHRITIS TELETHON'

The 22nd annual "Stop Arthritis" Telethon airs Saturday, from 10PM through Sunday (Feb. 6) at 5PM on KTLA, Channel 5. Allen Ludden, longtime emcee of the TV game show Password who is chairman of the Telethon, hosts the 19-hour telecast produced by Jack Rourke for the benefit of the Arthritis Foundation. Manny Harmon is musical director of the show with his orchestra providing production music. Television and film star Wayne Rogers, who is a vice-president of the Foundation, is campaign chairman of the once-a-year February drive.

Co-hosting the show with Ludden are Mary Tyler Moore, Betty White, Maureen Reagan, Henry Winkler, Pat Boone, Clifton Davis, Lawrence Welk who will appear for a full hour with his Music Makers, and Bob Hope, who will be on the show in the closing hour from 4 to 5PM Sunday.

Among those joining the all-star lineup of celebrities who give their time to help raise funds for arthritis research, treatment centers and medical training are Edward Asner, Peter Falk, Milton Berle, Alice Faye, Jane Wyman, Robert Stack, Charleton Heston, Harriet Nelson, Gene Kelly, Bo Donaldson and the Heywoods, Dennis Cole, Guy Madison, Rick Jason, Jon Hall, Pat Buttram, Gene Nelson, Les Richter, Dennis Weaver, the Sheriff's Rhythm Posse Band plus many civic and social leaders. Also appearing on the Telethon is five-year-old Michelle Stringfield who is the 1977 Poster Girl and a victim of rheumatoid arthritis.

'EXPANDED FAMILY'

Joe Conley, now completing his fifth year as a regular on The Waltons (CBS, Thursday at 8PM) in the role of storekeeper, Ike Godsey, who is also friend and mentor to the citizens of Walton's Mountain, has had his television "family" expanded this past year. He's acquired a wife and adopted daughter, with the result that his character has become increasingly important to the story, and Joe Conley more popular with viewers each season.

So strongly has he become identified with The Waltons series, many people do not recall, or even know, that Conley has had considerable television exposure prior to this show. He was a recurring regular on Big Town quite a few years back; had a continuing role in Richard Diamond, Acapulco, The People's Choice, and more recently, Bracken's World, as the studio art director. Other television appearances include Playhouse 90, Studio One, and a staggering total of 200 commercials. "That great Conley face," as one director described it, is constantly in demand as spokesman for top sponsors.

Joe has the type of face that once seen is not easily forgotten, and one that is instantly identifiable. Conley is a third-generation show business performer. His grandfather toured with his own medicine show, and his mother was a vaudevillian. Joe broke into the entertainment field as a youngster on radio kid shows in Buffalo, New York; later appeared in his high school's "Senior Show," while moonlighting in such various areas as movie usher, soda jerk and delivering newspapers.

He later came to the West Coast to enter Loyola University and plunged headlong into college theatricals. He served two stints in the Army, serving primarily in Japan, staging Army shows. While serving with the 7th Division in Korea, he was wounded and awarded the Silver Star and the Purple Heart. After returning to civilian life, he appeared in various revues, plays and nightclubs, both as an actor and a singer. He soloed at the famous Horn in Santa Monica, where such stars as Jack Jones and Jim Nabors got their start.

Happily settled today as a permanent member of The Waltons, Joe spends his time away from the cameras operating real estate offices in the San Fernando Valley, at one time owning three Red Carpet offices. As a Realtor he often sells properties to fans who regularly know him as "Ike Godsey" on the series. He resides with his wife, Louise, daughters Erin and Jana, in a lovely new home in the Chatsworth area, where he enjoys working around the house, refinishing furniture, playing golf, tennis, swimming and handball.

ASK THEM YOURSELF

Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR REP. BARBARA JORDAN (D.-Texas)

Do you have a bill before Congress requiring housewives to pay hundreds of dollars into social security yearly?—M. Cordell, Danville, Va.

● I have submitted a bill to provide Social Security benefits for homemakers that would give them retirement, disability and survivor benefits in their own right, like other workers. But homemakers would not end up paying a tax on a salary they do not receive.

FOR POLLY BERGEN,
hostess of NBC-TV's Not For Women Only

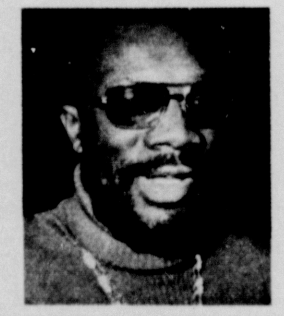
How do you plan and do your interviews?—Mrs. P. M. Jago, Fords, N.J.

● It's vitally important that I have a good research staff. Then, I must have the ability to absorb as much information as I can about my guest, so that I'll ask the right questions. I also have a problem, though—listening instead of thinking of the next question because, in general, I have to be able to think very fast, so the interview doesn't drag.



FOR ISAAC HAYES, singer

I heard you had problems in school. What were they?—K. B., Decatur, Ill.

● Well, until the ninth grade, I was an "A" student. But then my average dropped. Why? Because ghetto living held me back. I began making all kinds of excuses not to go to school; I was embarrassed because I didn't dress like the rest of the kids, and I wasn't eating right. Growing kids need nourishment to keep them healthy and alert.

FOR SYLVIA WALLACE, author of The Fountains

Why are so many men reading your book about women at a beauty spa?—B. I., Huntington, W. Va.

● Simply because most men want to know more about women. In my book women say things and discuss subjects that they usually don't discuss in the company of men—like their love lives.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Did Herb Alpert ever marry the singer he was going around with?—C. R., Durham, N.C.

● Yes, Herb married Lani Hall three years ago, and now they have a daughter Aria who is 15 months old. After about six years of letting her career lapse, Lani is making a comeback and has a new album called "Sweet Bird." Before starting in 1965 with Sergio Mendes and Brasil '66, she held a variety of office and saleslady jobs. Lani is Herb's second wife.

FOR HENRY FORD II,
Chairman of the Board, Ford Motor Company

Do you think electric cars will be economically feasible in the near future?—Larry W. Kruse, College Station, Texas

● Although I personally doubt an electric car for general use will be feasible in the next 20 years, our scientists and engineers have concluded that such cars do hold promise for some time in the future. The main reason short-term prospects are dim is that a good battery to power such a car has not been developed.

FOR DAVID KENNERLY,
former personal photographer to Gerald A. Ford

Why did White House staffers put a news blackout on your activities last year?—E. C. Judy, Grand Rapids, Mich.

● They didn't. It's true there were rumors of petty jealousies and resentment towards me by the "higher echelon" staff, but the truth of the matter is that during 1976 I suppose I was less interesting than I was the year before.

Do you know the Gabors?—J. R., Columbia, Mo.

● I know their mother Jolie but not the girls. My mother used to work at her jewelry store, and when I went there to choose a string of pearls (my 18th-birthday gift from Mom), she stared at me in my big straw hat and told my mother: "Leave your daughter to me. I'll build her career just the way I did for my own girls." Mom didn't accept her offer. Was I glad or sorry? Guess . . .

FOR KEITH JACKSON, sportscaster

How do you feel about the often-heard assertion that sportscasters today have to be "show business" types?—Daniel Rogers, Waco, Texas

● I don't feel I'm an entertainer. Nor am I in "show business." My job is to assist the TV viewer in the enjoyment of an athletic contest—to amplify, clarify, punctuate and make it a complete story. I don't believe viewers turn on a football game because of me but to watch the game.

FOR PATTI SMITH, singer

I hear you answer all your mail. Where do I write?—W. C., Great Falls, Mont.

● You're right—I'll answer anyone who wants to write to me. And it's my mom who handles my network of correspondence. Send your mail to Radio Ethiopia, Box 188, Mantua, N.J. 08051. Every letter is read and answered either by me, my mom or my sister Kimberly—all with equal care.

PRO AND CON

Should Schools Give Grades?

PRO Robben W. Fleming, President, University of Michigan, Chairman, Board of Directors, American Council on Education.

Yes. Although grades may not be necessary for all courses, schools should continue to assign grades for subjects in the area of a student's major interests. When evaluated in light of a student's major course of study and probable future career, grades probably do give a more accurate measure of a student's academic success than anything else. I also believe that grading gives a student an incentive to more sustained work throughout the term than does a course in which he knows he will simply be evaluated on a pass/fail basis.

No. First of all, schools don't know how to find out how much people know—or certainly at least how much they know about anything important. And even if they did, it's no one's business. Education is a private matter between a teacher and a learner. We don't know how to test learning; we can only test the ability to take tests, which is entirely different. Students who get good grades, as often as not, are kids who know how to outguess teachers. Unfortunately, what society wants from schools is ranking and evaluating people, not educating them.

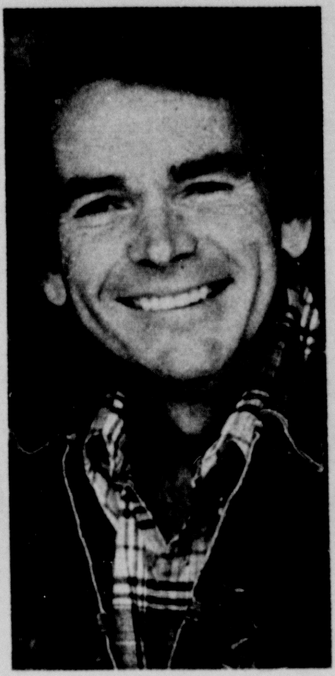
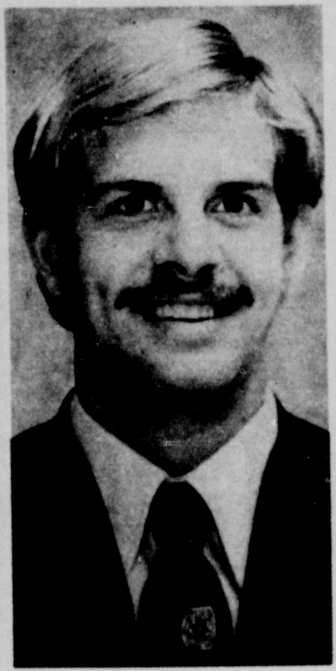
WHAT IT'S LIKE TO BE BORN AGAIN



Dean Jones



John Naber

Graham & Treena Kerr

Natalie Cole

Gail Magruder

By Monica Surfaro

Great numbers of Americans are turning to religion. Here are some celebrities who found their new faith rapidly by means of an intense conversion experience. They tell of the moment it happened.

Evidence of a current religious revival is everywhere—CB channels blare the "good news"; road signs proclaim "Jesus Saves" messages; a network of new Christian media is flourishing; Publishers Weekly magazine reports that religious books are the season's top titles; a recent Gallup poll indicates that 94 percent of all Americans now say they believe in God or a universal spirit.

The phenomenon of being "born again," of undergoing an intense religious conversion that changes one's life, is commonly associated with Southern Baptists. However, much recent evidence, including another Gallup poll, shows that Protestants in various denominations, as well as Catholics and Jews, report being born again. In addition, the born-again phenomenon seems to be part of a larger trend towards religious worship and church attendance among Americans in general. And some observers say that this itself is part of a yet larger trend of individuals seeking meaning in their lives.

Why this sudden display of spiritual fervor? Reverend Morton Kelsey notes in his book, Encounter With God, the need for religion during a time of disillusionment. He likens the healing powers of religion to the positive effects of psychotherapy and reports on studies by the American Psychological Association which support this claim.

Apparently, public personalities are not immune to the soul-searching spurred by today's social ills. Entertainers, used to a surface-skimming existence, are struggling for meaning within. As one Hollywood producer says, "I don't know anyone around here who is not empty, who is not asking himself, 'Is this all there is?' " Dancer Ben Vereen and singer Carol Lawrence have publicly acclaimed Jesus Christ. Former Miss America Phyllis George, now a network sportscaster, recently professed her new faith. Other old-line entertainers, including Dale Evans and Pat Boone, have found new stardom by evangelizing their faith.

In fact, conversions have become so numerous that Doubleday expects to publish a book on famous spiritual turnarounds. The author, William Proctor, himself a born-again Christian and an expert in the evangelical book field, calls the growing galaxy of famous new Christians "a grass roots movement that is cutting across class and denominational distinctions."

Perhaps the most important factor for those giving testimony is the conversion experience itself. Pinpointing the exact moment of spiritual turnaround has prompted fascinating and often unbelievable accounts of being born again. Some say they have met Jesus Christ. Others experience a sensation similar to an electric shock. In all cases the new believers experience overwhelming feelings of love and joy during the conversion.

Most celebrity evangelicals are eager to relate the scenario of how they found their "good news." The retelling of their testimonies seems to recharge them. Here is what it was like for some celebrities who have been born again.

Dean Jones

The Walt Disney film veteran is considered somewhat of a guru among the newly born-again Christians in Hollywood. Just two years ago, Dean's life was hitting a rocky ledge—both marriage and career were moving in senseless directions. Then he relates, "I was performing in summer stock at a New Jersey lodge and had gone to my room to be alone. Nothing was satisfying me. I looked out that window and felt fear and confusion. Impulsively, I knelt by the bed and spelled out my doubts to God; I don't know why I was moved to do this. I said to God, 'If you bring meaning in to my life, I'll serve you.' "

Dean describes his moment of spiritual "truth" as a "reactivating of the spiritual equipment. Language becomes insufficient to describe it. For me, there was suddenly a flow of energy and joy as I fearfully opened my spirit to let God touch me. I felt that I was finally home."

Dean credits the recent surge in his career and marriage to his conversion. "I doubt I'd be married now if the beauty of the Spirit had not enveloped me and my family. I've accepted Jesus Christ as the manifestation of God's truth. And if I thought it were in God's plans for me to give up my career, I wouldn't hesitate for a moment."

John Naber

At the Olympic Games last summer, this University of Southern California senior attracted international attention with his swimming prowess that earned him four gold medals. But he says there was more than just talent on his side during the competition: "I've formed a personal commitment to Jesus Christ." John is sure that sharing his commitment with other members of the United States team helped him during the Olympics.

Just a few years ago John was searching for something meaningful in his life. After attending a Billy Graham meeting, John began to wake up to the realization of Jesus Christ. The actual born-again experience came gradually: "After thinking about it for three days, I realized I needed Jesus Christ, and I accepted Him. Now that my life has been turned over to Jesus Christ, I can function with an extra power bestowed by God."

Natalie Cole

This rhythm and blues singer was unhappily living in her famous father's shadow until two years ago when a conversion experience changed her life. "Every time I got a booking I was billed as 'Nat King Cole's Daughter Appearing Here,' " she says. "I was tired of it all and felt that there was nowhere left for me to go. Friends were not really friends. I had no motivation."

Then came her experience with Jesus Christ. "It was in 1975, and I had been reunited with my father's family. My aunt [now Natalie's spiritual advisor] led me to the Third Baptist Church in Chicago, and there I realized that I wanted to be saved.

"They dressed me in a white sheet and imersed me in a huge tub filled with warm water. Suddenly I felt cleansed…accepted. A peaceful feeling is the best way to describe it. Someone had turned me upside down and brought me up again."

Like Dean Jones, Natalie experienced a career renewal almost immediately after being born again. An album, "Inseparable," was cut and netted her international rave reviews. Soon after that she won two Grammy Awards for 1976—"Best New Artist" and "Best Female Rhythm and Blues Performer." She openly thanked Jesus Christ in her acceptance speech.

Graham & Treena Kerr

The "Galloping Gourmet" couple gained fame during a glamorous television career. Then, in 1975, the Kerrs lost interest in their lifestyles and began to seek something more. Treena, who had searched for happiness in drugs, was the first of the Kerr family to find religion.

"Our housemaid Ruthie told me to give my problems to God," recounted the radiantly beautiful Treena. "I did and God just took them!"

After this, Treena received her "altar call" (this often precedes the born-again experience) in a small church in Bethlehem, Md. "I felt an undulation in the pit of my stomach which was almost suffocating. I screamed and fell to my knees. Water poured out of my eyes in buckets, as if I were being cleansed."

Treena was immersed in water for her baptism. "I felt glowingly clean," she says. "'Thank you, thank you, Jesus,' I kept repeating. Then, all of a sudden it was as if the church lights went out and a bright light was directed on my face. I had closed my eyes, but when I opened them, I saw a wonderful Man all dressed in white and full of love. I began to cry tears of joy, and all the terrible burdens of my life were lifted from my heart."

Graham's spiritual turnaround came a few months after Treena's dramatic experience. "I didn't exactly know what had changed Treena, but I wanted that peace and happiness for myself, too!" says Graham.

One night, after a grueling day's filming in Canada, Graham went back to his hotel room and got a sudden urge to pray. "Something forced me to my knees in the center of the room, and all at once I was saying, 'I love you, Jesus.' It was as if the ceiling had opened up, and love just poured in on me."

For the Kerrs, being born again was truly a life-altering experience. A shaky marriage was suddenly strengthened. Wanting to wipe the slate clean of his former life, Graham pushed to have his old Galloping Gourmet series banned from the airwaves and is now trying to teach his audience the technique of cooking with love and the Spirit. The Kerrs have forsaken their luxurious Maryland mansion and have moved to Wolcott, Colo., where they plan to open Rejoice Fellowship, a charismatic center for marriage renewal. There, they hope to help save troubled marriages through the word of Jesus.

Gail Magruder

The young mother of four was attending a Bible fellowship group when her husband's political crisis ripped through her family's life.

Gail clearly remembers being born again: "It was during the Congressional hearings, and I was nearing the end of my day's Bible study. I was with 350 women, closing our meeting in prayer. I bowed my head and asked the Lord to come into my life and help me."

Although hers was not a "lightning bolt" experience, Gail knows that her life unequivocally changed at that point. "I'm filled with a new sense of peace," she explains.

Jeb Magruder also has been born again. Last year, the Magruders moved to Colorado, where they became involved in Young Life, an interfaith, national organization which helps teen-agers realize their self-worth. Both Jeb and Gail have published books on their spiritual experiences. A Gift of Love is Gail's testimony—published earlier this year by Lippincott. "Everyone must face a crisis in his life. . . . Mine just happened to be Watergate," says Gail. "And when we do face our personal crisis, it's important to know that there is a resource to call upon."

SHE'S TRIED TO DISCOVER THE MEANING OF COURAGE

By Mary Long

We're sitting at a table in a restaurant on New York's West Side, talking about courage. The woman speaking is dressed in a sensible blue suit with a little tree-shaped pearl pin attached to its collar, and one can tell from her voice that she is a forthright person. She is 52 years old, but with her slender figure, vital eyes and soft, pale hair, she looks younger.

This is Margaret Truman, concert singer, actress and broadcaster; best known as the daughter of Bess and Harry S. Truman, the 33rd President of the United States. She is also the author of Women of Courage, a recent book that examines the lives of 12 women in American history.

"Well, I don't know that I've ever had my courageousness tested. I once described myself as a nice, average girl who had been blessed with more than average fortune, and that's true. But I know for certain that my mother is a woman of courage. It took a great deal of courage for her to be part of rough-and-tumble politics. She never liked it. But Mother kept her sense of humor and laughed in private at the pretentious and the publicity hounds.

"But I don't think a woman has to face the pressures that come with the Presidency to be courageous. I believe that any professional woman is a courageous woman. It is terribly difficult to balance home and job responsibilities, and often the competition with men is horrifying. I also think it takes courage to decide to stay at home and be a good housewife and mother. The incredible patience you need for that . . . I don't have it."

Now she asks the waiter for a glass of her favorite beverage—water. "I drink countless glasses of cold water all during the day until my feet get a chill. Then I switch to warm water.

"I think in many ways my mother is perhaps the least-understood member of our family," she says pensively. "Mother has tremendous character, which I think the public sensed, but she also has a robust sense of humor and a terrific capacity for enjoying life. She was, is and always will be a lady.

"I remember that once, when I was 11 years old, I received an invitation to a White House dancing party. Naturally, I was terribly excited because, up to that point, I had only been to the White House as a tourist. But my mother, a little suspicious as to why I would be asked, did some investigating. She found that in some protocol bulletin or White House directory there was an asterisk by my name indicating that I was an eligible daughter. I wasn't sure what this meant at the time, but it sounded good. My mother, however, refused to consider my possibilities as a child bride and wrote to Mrs. Roosevelt, who was then First Lady, explaining that I was only 11 and not eligible for even a dancing party.

"Now, if I stayed at home all the time, I'd never get a word written. I have to go out, do things, see people. I have more curiosity than a tiger cat. I can't help gaping at people. I remember once, as a young girl, I was escorted to a nightclub by an admiral and eight other men. Clark Gable walked in. I couldn't take my eyes off him. None of my escorts could get my attention for the rest of the evening.

"The current night life scene also fascinates me. I'd like to go pub crawling with my son. He's 20, and he's got a whole group of friends, and there are certain spots where they meet. It all seems to be very nice and quite safe."

Margaret Truman presently lives in New York City, where her husband, Clifton Daniel, is a newspaper executive. Her oldest son Cliff works for CBS Television. His younger brothers, William, Harrison and Thomas, attend schools across the country. "That's one bad thing about these days," their mother says. "Everyone is so scattered. But if airplanes take children away, they bring them home again, too. We're really a very close family."

She fixes her own family meals, and when old friends of the family want to treat her sons to fancy restaurant dinners, she worries that they'll get too used to living high and mighty. She likes New York City and thinks it's a good place to raise her children, although a couple of things do bother her: "I don't much like apartments. I've never felt I was putting down roots when I lived in one. Also, the city does worry me sometimes. I tell my sons, 'If someone stops you and asks for your money, that's no time to win the Purple Heart.' "

She spends a good deal of her time writing, although she claims to be rather lazy about it. "You know that Scarlett O'Hara line, 'I'll think about it tomorrow'? That's me when it comes to writing. I need a deadline staring me in the face before I get moving. I certainly do admire those people who can write all day, every day. As for me, I couldn't even look at a typewriter at eight in the morning."

She is a fervent supporter of the Equal Rights Amendment. "I think it is vital that women have equal opportunity and equal pay. I get furious at women who say they couldn't think of supporting the ERA because it would make them eligible for the Armed Forces. I hear this all the time from women my age. I've been getting so fed up that I say to them, 'My dear, aren't you a little old for the Armed Forces?' "

Sometimes she works with theater companies, either as an actress or singer. Her husband and children have no objections. "That's why I hesitate to call myself a feminist," she says. "It's true that I have always had a career and have done what I wanted. But, then, I have been spoiled. I have never been treated or considered an inferior by any man close to me."

If there is any story that characterizes Margaret Truman, it is the one she tells about her relationship with her father's mother.

"My Grandmother Truman was a remarkable person, and it was impossible to know her and not be influenced by her marvelous personal code, which was based on justice, honor and integrity. She also was a very spunky little lady and an unreconstructed Confederate. She used to tell me how, as a little girl, she had to jump into a featherbed for safekeeping when the Yankees invaded the farm. She had strong reactions to everything and one of them was being called 'Grandmother' or, worse still, 'Granny.' She insisted on being called 'Mama,' and whatever Mama wanted, Mama got.

"Early in life I became aware that she loathed 'Granny,' and the thought of calling her that became irresistible to me. But I had a healthy respect for her temper, and I only managed to pull it off once. It was a Sunday afternoon when I was about four years old. I was feeling especially full of myself. I waited until I was safely in the back seat of the car and Daddy had already started the motor. Then, I rolled down the window, stuck my head out, and shouted, 'Good-bye, Granny!' at the top of my lungs. Fortunately, at this juncture the gears meshed and we rolled away, or I daresay Mama Truman would have yanked me out of the car and given me what-for.

"She didn't hesitate to do so later," Margaret Truman says matter-of-factly. "But by that time she had lost some of her steam—and also she had been heard to admit privately that I seemed to be a chip off the old block." ■

Observations™

Sharks revisited. Some time ago, we ran a column about certain shark-like newsmen who snap at the oil industry without too much regard for the facts. Later, we praised the conscientious newshounds who take time to do a professional job and report on our industry fairly (even if not always to our liking). Unfortunately, irresponsible reporting seems to be on the rise again.

Second offense. In our first column on press sharks, we cast a barbed hook at a $2.5 billion inaccuracy of columnist Jack Anderson. Now he's back jawing at the industry in general, and at Mobil in particular. In a column claiming that Washington is eager to give the oil industry its way, Anderson cited several "examples" of how federal regulators granted oil companies special waivers of existing rules. But examination of the "examples" reveals that one agency—the Federal Trade Commission—refused to grant the favor the industry was supposed to have sought, while spokesmen for two other government departments are quoted as denying his charges. So where are the "favors"? And where is the industry's vaunted "clout"? It's a figment of Mr. Anderson's typewriter.

DAILY NEWSPAPER
DOTY

Wrong about us. In the same column, Anderson wrote: "Mobil tried to get the Interstate Commerce Commission to lift the profit ceiling quietly on offshore oil pipeline operations. . . . the ICC refused to deal with Mobil on the QT and directed the company to go through regular, open channels." To which we say, nonsense. Mr. Anderson apparently got his hands on a one-year-old letter we wrote to ICC Chairman George Stafford in which we did not ask for any special treatment. Rather we pointed out that the low rate of return the ICC regularly allows for pipelines was unrealistic for some offshore lines which serve a particular field and become useless as the field is depleted. We tried to draw attention to the danger that traditional low rates of return would jeopardize future pipeline construction. Contrary to Mr. Anderson's charge, the ICC thanked us for bringing this matter to its attention. Besides, it's hardly clandestine to write the truth to a public official. Please, Mr. A.—stop snapping at the wind.

Muddled water. Syndicated columnist Harriet Van Horne recently wrote about the "contrived" oil shortage of 1974, blamed it vaguely on the "oil cartel," and then went on to suggest federal curbs on the oil companies. Come on, Ms. Van Horne. If by "cartel" you mean the producing countries that raised prices in 1973 and 1974, we can't argue. But how would slapping down the U.S. companies weaken the grip of these producing nations? Even Senator Church's Subcommittee on Multinational Corporations noted that oil companies helped soften the effects of the 1973-74 embargo and production cutbacks by redistributing global supplies. And if you meant that the "cartel" was comprised of oil companies, you're just plain wrong.

Jungle journey. Voracious ants. Electric eels. Crocodiles. Jaguars. Disease-carrying insects. All of these obstacles had to be overcome when Alexander von Humboldt, the "father of geography," traveled the length of Venezuela's treacherous Orinoco River in 1800. His story, filmed on location, is the next episode of Ten Who Dared, the "Mobil Showcase" documentary series on great explorers. Check your local TV listings for the time and station.

AFTER 25 YEARS THE QUEEN IS A SEASONED TRAVELER

Pictorial Parade

By Graham and Heather Fisher

Date: February 6, 1952
Time: Twilight
Place: The airport near Nyeri, Kenya

Waiting on the airfield is a small, unpressurized Dakota. Walking toward it is a 25-year-old woman accompanied by her tall, handsome husband and a few aids. Who is she? At two o'clock that very afternoon, with the news of the death of her father in far-off London, she had become Elizabeth II, Queen of England.

A dramatic and historic moment, but as the new Queen entered the plane, it signaled not only the beginning of a new reign but also the beginning of countless miles of travel that would take Elizabeth around the world the equivalent of 16 times! Besides all the obvious places, she's been to Nigeria, Fiji, the Caicos Islands, India, Gambia, the Seychelles and Hong Kong, where an enterprising dressmaker ran her up some extra summer dresses.

She has traveled by road, rail, sea and air, her body shot full of vaccines against polio, smallpox, typhoid and yellow fever. She has flown in everything from that wartime Dakota to the latest jets (though not yet in a supersonic Concorde), ridden in everything from an armor-plated limousine to an old-fashioned, open-topped motor coach.

For the most part, of course, the Queen travels in regal luxury. The royal yacht has been termed "a floating palace," and so it is. The dining room, with its ebony-edged table, can seat 60. The royal cabins are furnished with beds, not bunks. (But only single beds, a problem which was deftly overcome by lashing two together when the Queen loaned the yacht to Princess Anne and Mark Phillips for their honeymoon.)

Today the Queen thinks nothing of flying back and forth across the Atlantic. In fact, most of her major tours now start and end with a jetliner, its interior specially converted to provide her with a small dining room, a sitting room with sofas that turn into beds at night and two postage-stamp dressing rooms with built-in closets. At home, for shorter trips, she has at last count three Hawker Siddeley 748's and two Westland helicopters.

She also has suffered hardships and benefits unknown to the ordinary, nonroyal traveler. Ever wonder why she always wears gloves? If she didn't, her right hand would quickly be rubbed raw with handshaking. (She once underwent the ordeal of 2,000 handshakes in nonstop succession at a reception in Washington. In Australia, on another occasion, she was seen visibly to wince as her entire hand was engulfed in the massive, toughened mitt of a professional sheep shearer.) And why is she never sunburned? Because cosmetics have been especially designed for her.

Royal tours are planned with all the thoroughness of a military operation. Nevertheless, things still go wrong from time to time—as when the Queen landed at Dubrovnik in Yugoslavia only to find that the official welcoming committee had transferred to Titograd under the impression that her flight was being diverted there.

There also have been laughs from time to time. In Japan, for instance, in order not to embarrass the Queen, it was decided that girl pearl divers, instead of working topless as usual, would wear overalls of white cotton. Someone forgot, however, that white cotton is transparent when wet. The Queen looked hurriedly away as the girls surfaced, but Philip grinned at the unexpected spectacle. And like many less regal travelers, the Queen has a collection of home movies to remind her of her travels.

She also has experienced many strange tastes during her years of travel. In Fiji she sampled both raw fish and kava, a local drink which one of her party told us tasted like soapy water. In the Seychelles she tried coco-de-mer, supposedly the "forbidden fruit" with which Eve tempted Adam in the Garden of Eden. The results are unknown. Unlike us, however, this has all been done without once having to show a passport. As Queen, she does not require one. But take heart—Philip does. fw

A fling filled with music.
The music you love most.

Part One of the fling: you go over the list of albums on these 3 pages. And you choose the 11 you want most. Then mail the coupon.

This, of course, is the part where you really go crazy. You can tease yourself and play one a day. Or you can play them all at once in the most incredible concert you've ever had in your room. You can invite good friends over to share the fun. And, of course, you can play them again and again and again.

11 hit albums for $1.00, plus shipping and handling. A crazy idea, perhaps. But it can happen to you as a new member of the Columbia Record & Tape Club.

HOW THE CLUB OPERATES

Simply mail the application at the right, together with your check or money order for $1.86 as payment (that's $1.00 for your first 11 selections, plus 86¢ for shipping and handling).

Every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest . . . plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened . . . the selections you order will be mailed and billed at the regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

After completing your enrollment agreement (by buying 8 selections within 3 years), you may cancel membership at any time. If you decide to continue, you'll be eligible for our generous money-saving bonus plan. So act now!

Special Start-Your-Membership-Now Offer: you may also choose your first selection right now—and we'll give it to you at 50% off regular Club prices (only $3.49 for a record; $3.99 for a tape). Enclose payment now and you'll receive it with your 11 introductory selections. This half-price purchase reduces your membership obligation immediately—you'll then be required to buy just 7 more (instead of 8) in the next three years. Just check box in application and fill in number.

HOW TO MAKE EFFECTIVE DECISIONS MORE EASILY

Many obstacles keep us from deciding matters in our own best interests. Our timing may be bad, or we may not distinguish among different kinds of decisions.

By Norman Lobsenz

When Louise Ellison's youngest child started third grade, Louise decided to go back to work. She was flattered when she was offered two jobs, but she couldn't make up her mind between them. She spent days trying to choose the right job. But when she finally decided, it was too late—both had been filled.

Bill Grant had a chance to get in on the ground floor of a risky but potentially profitable business deal. He couldn't afford to lose any money, but he was afraid that if he asked too many questions he'd be left out. So, almost without hesitation, he said, "Count me in!"

When Jenny Hart was 17, she was given an annual clothes allowance and told she was responsible for her own wardrobe purchases. Jenny was delighted until she had to make the choices; she was so concerned about picking the wrong thing that she usually bought nothing.

The American philosopher Walter Kaufmann once observed that we suffer from "decidophobia"—the fear of making decisions, and experts say that a variety of psychological factors subconsciously affect decision-making. For example, Louise Ellison's problem was her inability to make a choice. Bill Grant's prompt acceptance of a speculative proposition was not evidence of decisiveness so much as of his inability to handle *in*decision. Bill, like many businessmen, feared to seem doubtful. And Jenny Hart—though she had good clothes sense and money sense—unconsciously still wanted her mother to make decisions for her.

The need to be always right. Some folks can't make up their minds—even on such minor matters as which movie to see, where to go on vacation—because they are afraid they may make a mistake. Few matters, however, are so critical that they can't survive a wrong choice. What a perfectionist can't stand is losing face with himself. Some therapists say that considering everything a matter of life and death is a throwback to early childhood, when we subconsciously fear that the slightest mistake may cost us parental love.

Confusing objective and subjective questions. Some decisions should be made on the basis of facts, others on feelings. When we fail to keep the two separate, our motives for deciding get clouded. For instance, if we let our desire for a luxury sports car mix with the facts of our bank account, we may wind up buying a car we can't afford.

Fear of commitment. To some people a decision is not so much a choice as it is a wall—something that makes them feel closed in, powerless to make changes. Yet few decisions are irrevocable. And the ability to change a decision is a sign of exploration and personal growth.

How to Improve Your Decision-Making Ability

Make a list of all the "pros" and "cons" for a given choice. Seeing the possible consequences in black and white often helps clarify the problem.

Do a good job of research. The more facts you have, the easier it often is to reach a decision.

Try arbitrarily to limit (or expand) your alternatives. If you must select a new living-room carpet, say, and you are bewildered by the choices available, narrow them down to the three you like best and decide among them. Conversely, if you don't like either of two courses of action, see if you can widen your options.

Set a reasonable deadline for decisions, especially if you tend to postpone making them. Fast is not always better than slow, but a deadline can force you to come to grips with the facts.

Make believe you have decided already and try to imagine how the choice feels. Or actually try out your decision on a temporary basis—rent a house before buying it, take a weekend trip with another couple before going off with them on a month's vacation.

Don't decide minor matters the same way you decide major ones. Most of us do just that, and it is important not to get locked into a routine pattern of decision-making. FW

THE DOCTOR LETS YOU IN/By Irwin J. Polk, M.D.

THREE TIMELY HEALTH TIPS

Here is good health advice on keeping warm—and safe—in cold weather, recognizing a common medical problem and skiing without hurting yourself.

Ever wonder why your neighbor never seems to feel the cold? He can shovel snow in his shirtsleeves, and you sneeze when you open the refrigerator door. Well, maybe he knows something about *un*dressing for winter that you don't.

First, your hands and feet—and to a lesser extent, your arms and legs—act as radiators. They make up almost half the total body surface from which you lose heat. So if you keep your hands and feet warm, the rest of you will stay warm. Wearing warm gloves and footgear that help you lock in body heat is more than half the battle.

The "layered look" is a big help, too. What retains body heat is layers of clothing that can trap the heat in the air spaces between layers. Two thin sweaters are often better than one thick one. Layers of cloth with air between have made two-thickness cotton longjohns even warmer than the old wooly kind. But mothers who act on the theory that if two layers are good, four are better for their toddlers have a surprise—and probably a cold—coming. Overheating sets in, the body thermostat runs haywire and—gesundheit!—Junior misses a week of school.

Your clothing should be loose, too—at least loose enough to permit circulation of your nice warm blood all over the body. Tight clothing at the wrists can cut down circulation. Although this can prevent you from losing body heat through the hands, it can also cause you—over long periods in particularly cold outdoor situations—to lose a finger or two. So be sure your layered look is loosely fitted. Finally, water-repellent fabric and shoes are best for outer wear, since wetness conducts cold much better than does air.

IF YOU HAVE IRON POOR BLOOD ALL THE VITAMINS IN THE WORLD WON'T HELP

What you need is Geritol, every day. Geritol is so rich in iron, just one tablet contains more iron than even a pound of calf's liver. Plus vitamins important to your health.

Geritol's iron can actually build your blood day by day. That's what makes it different from vitamin pills—and so important to you.

"Watch Out—You'll Get A Hernia!"

"Don't pick up that carton," the warning goes. "You'll get a hernia!" Maybe so, maybe not. It all depends on what you call a hernia, and not even doctors agree. Our bodies are made up of a bony skeleton, with muscles draped over it. The muscles provide an enclosure for the organs within, but sometimes the enclosure is imperfect. Then, some of the inside organs can slip through to the outside. Some doctors say the organ that slips through is a hernia. Others save that term for the weak place in the muscle wall. Still others contend the hernia is the protruding organ and the weak spot. No matter. Almost all doctors agree on what to do.

How do you recognize a hernia? They look like simple swellings in places where there wasn't one before. They often develop gradually, with the swelling increasing in size over months or years. If the lump can be gently pushed back inside the abdomen, the hernia is said to be reducible. Such a hernia rarely causes pain or discomfort. If the lump can't be pushed back, it's incarcerated. Finally, if the swelling cuts off the blood supply to the incarcerated organ, the hernia is strangulated. Lack of blood can cause the organ—and, if steps are not taken immediately, the patient, too—to die.

Surgery is the preferred treatment for hernias. Since there is no need to enter the abdominal cavity itself to do the repair, such surgery usually is not difficult. It's not risky in healthy babies, who can have it a day or two after birth and still go home with Mama at the regular time. The older the patient, the slower the healing, but surgery on the usual groin hernia is not very risky in older patients, either.

How Not To Break A Leg

Breathtaking is the word for some ski runs. But if you're unprepared, the word may be arm- or leg-breaking. Here are a few simple rules that will help you keep safe.

Get in shape. Improve your endurance with jogging, jumping rope, swimming or any other activity that improves the heart and breathing rate (but, of course, only after a complete physical and stress test if you're over 35).

Skiing calls for supple muscles, too, so deep knee bends and squats are helpful. The more "elastic" your body, the less likely a fall will break it up. Equipment that fits you also is important. Recreational skiers are using skis two or three inches shorter—lighter, more maneuverable, safer—than they did a few years ago. Improved antifriction discs and bindings make it easier for bindings to release the boot in case of a fall. If your weight has changed much, however, bindings will need adjustment.

Protect against cold by wearing layers of loose-fitting clothing. Moisture speeds frostbite, so stay dry. Use face cream to protect yourself against frostbite and snow-reflected sunburn. Sun exposure can damage the eyes, so wear your shades—green or grey for sun, pink or yellow to improve visibility when it's snowing. And if you're driving home, remember that long exposure to snow glare can result in temporary night blindness. So take it slow.

Q. How can I get back in shape?
A. There is only one answer to that: get more exercise.

Q. Won't sports do the trick?
A. Sure, sports are great, provided you practice a "complete" sport like jogging, swimming or rowing a few hours every week. Unfortunately, most men don't have the time or energy for that.

Q. How about calisthenics?
A. Also very good, but even a beginner's program should comprise at least 200 to 300 repetitions. Most men find calisthenics tiring and boring and give up after a few workouts.

Q. Isn't there an easier way?
A. There is one outstanding home training method I use and recommend. It's fast, it's easy and it keeps you interested because during every workout you actually see your strength increasing on the built-in Powermeter gauge.

Q. What's it called?
A. Bullworker® training. It's based on Isometric techniques which have been proven to increase strength three times faster than conventional methods.

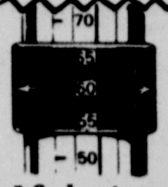
Q. How long does it take?
A. The introductory "get back in shape" program requires only 70 seconds of exercise per day. The complete advanced training program takes about 5 minutes.

Q. What kind of results can I expect?
A. After 2 or 3 weeks of introductory training, most men can see an increase in strength of around 10% and measure an extra inch or two of muscle on their shoulders, chest, biceps—and an inch or two less flab around the waist.

Q. But it's hard work, isn't it?
A. Absolutely not. Most men between 15 and 65 in good general health can run through the full program without getting tired. Bullworker training is progressive so you perform better each time, yet the training always seems easy to you.

Q. What can I expect from continued training?
A. The sky's the limit. There are specialized exercises for building-up or trimming down any part of your body you want to: broad, muscular shoulders—bulging biceps, powerful wrists and forearms—a deep, manly chest tapering down to a flat, trim waist—muscular thighs and calves. You can expect strength increases of up to 4% a week; that's 50% in just three months and I have seen many men go on to double and even triple their strength.

See your strength G-R-O-W-I-N-G day by day on the built-in patented POWERMETER



Q. How can I find out more about Bullworker?
A. I suggest you write for the Free Booklet in color. It contains complete details about Bullworker training and tells you how you can try a Bullworker for two weeks in your own home without cost or obligation.

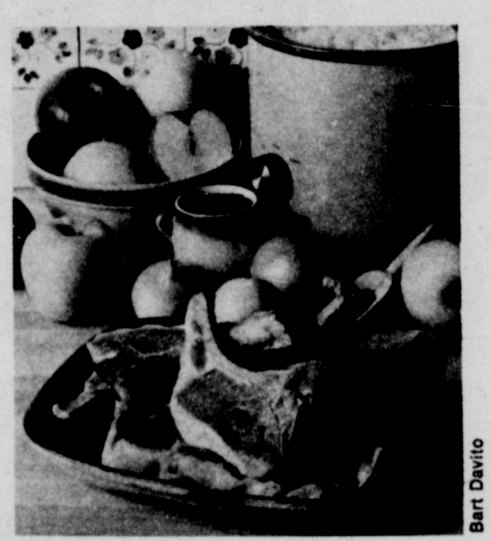
THE THRIFTY CHEF/By Marilyn Hansen

"One of the best things about these delicious one-pot meals is that they can be made either in a slow cooker or in a Dutch oven," says Food Editor Marilyn Hansen.

HEARTY, EASILY MADE, ONE-DISH MEALS FOR WINTER NIGHTS



Bart Davito

Pork chops, apples, sauerkraut and spices simmer in slow cooker or Dutch oven to a mellow whole.

PORK AND SAUERKRAUT

Slow Cooker

6 pork chops, cut ¾-inch thick
1 (2-lb. bag) sauerkraut, undrained
½ cup dark corn syrup
1 cup thinly sliced onion
2 apples, peeled, cored, sliced
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 teaspoon caraway seed
2 bay leaves
3 large potatoes, peeled and halved

1. Place chops on foil-lined rack of broiler pan. Broil 6 inches from heating element, about 5 minutes per side, or just until chops are browned.
2. In a large bowl, stir together sauerkraut, corn syrup, onion, apples, pepper, caraway seed and bay leaves.
3. Put half of sauerkraut mixture and potatoes into slow cooker. Top with 3 chops. Cover with remaining sauerkraut; place remaining 3 chops on top. Cover; set dial on low and cook 6 to 8 hours. Makes 6 servings

Dutch Oven

1. Brown chops in Dutch oven over medium-high heat until browned on both sides. Pour off any fat.
2. Add potatoes, sauerkraut, corn syrup, onion, apples, pepper, caraway seed and bay leaves. Lift chops to top of mixture.
3. Heat to boiling; reduce heat and simmer 2 hours or until tender. May also be placed in 325° F. oven for 2 to 2½ hours.

TURKEY WINGS FRICASSEE

Dutch Oven

2 pkgs. (1½ lbs. each) frozen turkey wings, thawed
1 onion, stuck with 2 cloves
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon peppercorns
¼ teaspoon thyme leaves
1 qt. water
1 lb. carrots, peeled and cut into chunks
4 ribs celery and tops

Sauce:
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups turkey broth
Few twists freshly ground black pepper

1. In 6-8-qt. Dutch oven place turkey wings, onion, bay leaf, salt, peppercorns, thyme and water. Heat to boiling; reduce heat and boil gently, covered, 1 hour.
2. Add carrots and celery; return to boiling; reduce heat and boil gently for 20 minutes.
3. Pour off turkey broth into 1-qt. measure. In 1-qt. saucepan heat butter until melted. Stir in flour smoothly. Add 2 cups broth all at once. Heat until boiling, stirring constantly.
4. Taste for seasoning. Add a little salt if you like and a few twists of freshly ground black pepper.
5. Pour over turkey wings and vegetables in serving dish. Sprinkle with a little paprika or chopped parsley. Makes 4 servings

Editor's note: This dish is great with dumplings: stir 2 cups biscuit mix and ½ cup milk together well. Drop by large tablespoons on to boiling broth (remove wings and vegetables and keep warm); cover and steam 15 minutes.

Slow Cooker

1. Place onion, bay leaf, salt, peppercorns, thyme and water into slow cooker. Add carrots and celery. Top with turkey wings.
2. Cover; turn to low-heat setting and cook for 8 hours.
3. Follow steps 3-5 as in Dutch oven instructions.

BEEF BRISKET IN BEER

Slow Cooker

1 large onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
1 clove garlic, sliced
3 or 4 large potatoes, peeled and halved
1 4-lb. fresh beef brisket
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 can (12 ozs.) beer
¼ cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons dark molasses
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ cup cold water or beer
Few twists ground black pepper

1. Place onion rings, garlic and potatoes in crockery cooker. Trim excess fat from brisket. Cut meat in half if necessary and place on top on onions. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour beer, chili sauce and molasses over meat. Cover; cook on low-heat setting for 10 to 12 hours.
2. Remove brisket and potatoes from liquid; keep warm. Measure 2 cups liquid; pour into saucepan.
3. Blend ½ cup cold water into flour; stir into liquid. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Taste for seasoning; add a few twists of freshly ground black pepper.
4. Place meat on cutting board and slice across the grain; pass gravy separately.

Makes 6 to 8 servings

Dutch Oven

1. Place onion, garlic, potatoes, beef brisket, salt, pepper, beer, chili sauce and dark molasses in Dutch oven. Heat to boiling; reduce heat; cover and boil gently 2 to 2½ hours or until tender.
2. Follow steps 2-4 as in slow cooker instructions.

LAMB SHANKS-IRISH GRANDMOTHER

Dutch Oven

3 lbs. lamb shanks, well trimmed (about 4)
1 qt. water
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon whole peppercorns
1 lb. whole peeled white onions
1 lb. carrots, peeled and cut into chunks
2-2½ lbs. cabbage, cut into 4 wedges
1 teaspoon caraway seed
Chopped parsley

1. In 6-8-qt. Dutch oven place lamb shanks, water, bay leaf, salt and peppercorns. Heat to boiling; reduce heat and boil gently, covered, for 45 minutes.
2. Add onions, carrots, cabbage wedges and caraway seed. Heat to boiling; reduce heat and boil gently 15 to 20 minutes or until just tender. Turn off heat and keep covered for 5 minutes to steam.
3. Ladle lamb shanks, broth and vegetables generously into soup bowls. Sprinkle each with a little chopped parsley.

Makes 4 servings

Slow Cooker

1. Place water, bay leaf, salt, peppercorns, onions, carrots in a slow cooker. Top with lamb shanks and cabbage wedges.
2. Cover; turn to low-heat setting and cook for 8 hours.
3. Follow step 3 as in Dutch oven instructions.

Bart Davito

Spicy and spirited Mexicali bean pot with tender chick peas or navy beans and seasoned ham.

MEXICALI BEAN POT

Dutch Oven

Boiling water
1 lb. dry navy beans or chick peas
1 cup diced smoked ham or 8 strips bacon, diced
2½ teaspoons herb-garlic-salt seasoning blend
½ teaspoon ground cumin
½ cup sliced onion
1 can (6 ozs.) tomato paste
Garnish: optional
1 avocado, sliced
1 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon chopped, seeded green chili or jalapeno peppers

1. Pour boiling water over navy beans until they are covered by 2 inches of water. Let soak 1 hour; drain.
2. Turn drained beans into 4-6-qt. Dutch oven; add enough fresh boiling water to cover with 2 inches water. Heat to boiling; cover; reduce heat to a gentle boil for about 1½ hours or until beans are tender.
3. In skillet sauté ham over medium heat for 10 minutes, stirring. Add seasoning blend and cumin; mix well. Stir in onion and tomato paste.
4. Mix ham-seasoning mixture into navy beans. Cover and cook 45 minutes more.
5. Serve with avocado slices, sour cream and chili peppers.

Makes 4 to 6 servings

Slow Cooker

1. Cook soaked navy beans with fresh water as in Dutch oven directions at medium heat for 5 hours.
2. Stir in ham-seasoning mixture; cook at low heat for 2 to 3 hours longer.

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS is underwritten by Colonial Penn Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, specialists in serving the specific needs of America's older population. This protection is recommended to their members by two of America's highly respected national nonprofit organizations of the mature: the National Retired Teachers Association (NRTA) and the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

A Protection Breakthrough for Every Older Person!

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS is a distinctive concept of life insurance, achieved as a result of the years of effort Colonial Penn has devoted to meeting the insurance needs of mature people.

Our goal was a life insurance policy we can make available to all mature people—a policy whose cost would be reasonable and whose benefits would be worthwhile. With PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS, the Colonial Penn Life Insurance Company has succeeded.

Here's How PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS Can Do This For You:

During the first two years that your policy is in effect, your coverage is reduced. If you should die during the first policy year, the benefit paid to your beneficiary is $100. If death occurs during the second policy year, your beneficiary receives $250. Once two years have passed, you are covered for the full face amount of the policy.

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS enables the older person to obtain worthwhile benefits for his insurance dollar—and, at the same time, guarantees acceptance for all applicants.

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS also provides increasing cash values which begin in the first or second year.

The cost? JUST $6.95 A MONTH.

No matter what your age, your sex, or the condition of your health, you pay just $6.95 a month. The amount of coverage you receive is based on your sex and age. However, once you are insured the amount of your insurance will never go down, and your payments will never go up!

Act Now—You Have Nothing to Lose!

To obtain full information on PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS in time to take advantage of this opportunity to become insured, please mail the coupon before February 28th.

With PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS insurance . . .

- Everyone between 50 and 80 can get this life insurance—no one will be refused!
- You receive a policy created for the needs of mature persons!
- There are no health questions!
- There is no physical examination!
- This policy provides increasing cash values which begin in the first or second year!
- Your insurance cannot be cancelled for any reason as long as you maintain your premium payments.
- You get a policy which has been recommended to their members by both the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons!

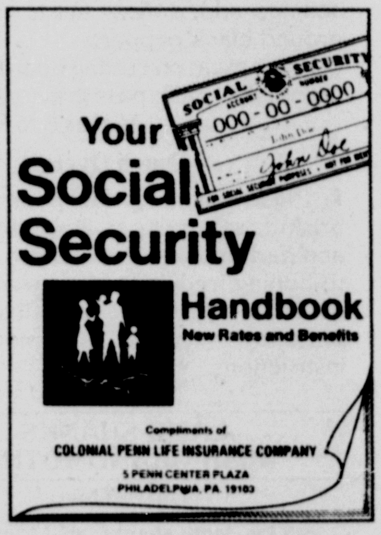
REMEMBER—To take advantage of this guaranteed opportunity to obtain PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS without answering any questions about your health, please mail the coupon before Monday, February 28, 1977. Full information and your guaranteed issue application will be on their way to you at once by mail.

No broker or agent will visit you and you will be under no obligation to purchase the policy.

Even if you are not old enough for this insurance, you may want the information for another member of your family or for a friend.

FREE SOCIAL SECURITY HANDBOOK



To introduce you to our PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS life insurance policy, we'll mail you "YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY HANDBOOK" absolutely FREE, whether you apply for the insurance or not.

This informative 32 page booklet explains the most recent revisions and describes the rates, benefits, disability payments, family and widow's payments, Medicare and many other important facts you should know.

We, at Colonial Penn, are very interested in the welfare and security of America's older citizens and we will be delighted to send you "YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY HANDBOOK" together with information about PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS. Simply mail us the coupon below.

This offer is available in all states except: Ark.; Mich.; Mo.; N.J.; N.Y.; Pa.; D.C.; W. Va.; Fla.; Ill. and Ky.

Fla., Ill. & Mo. Residents: Although Prime Life 50 Plus is not available in your state, upon request Colonial Penn will send information about other life insurance available to you without health questions or a physical examination.

North Dakota residents: Acceptance is not guaranteed, but a few health questions and liberal underwriting assume acceptance of most applicants.

Texas residents: The program we offer in your state is described in the information we will send you.

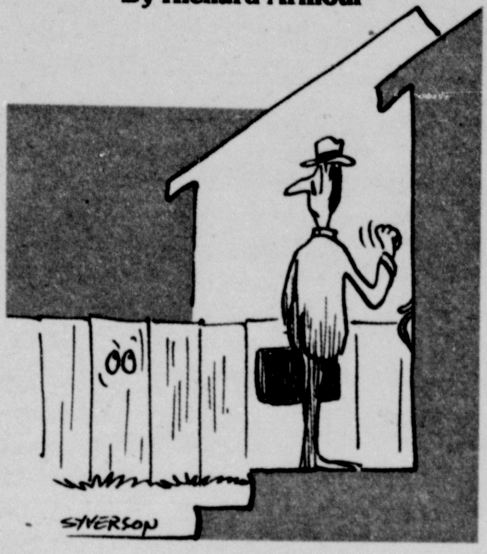
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

By Richard Armour



GOOD, NEIGHBORS

When we're away, we have good neighbors
To whom we give the little labors
Of picking up the mail and papers
And keeping kids and dogs from capers
And watching out for those they feel
Might have intent to pry and steal.

When it's our neighbors who're away
Two weeks, a week, or just a day,
We do the watching and the fuss
Precisely as they did for us.
Our neighbors are quite nice. You see,
They're not away as much as we.

A chemist stepped up to the drug counter, hesitated for a moment, and asked for some acetylsalicylic acid. "You mean aspirin," said the druggist sarcastically. "That's right," the chemist replied apologetically, "you know, I never can remember that name." —Dorothea Kent

PERMA TWEEZ AWAY UNWANTED HAIR FOREVER
©1976 GENERAL MEDICAL CO.

Perma Tweez is the largest selling home electrolysis instrument in existence because of one reason. It is the ONLY instrument that will not puncture the skin. This unique no-puncture safety feature is a must for your protection. Protect yourself from possible complications arising from the use of an ordinary product without this safety feature. Perma Tweez PERMANENTLY removes undesirable hair from all areas of the face—such as the chin, upper lip, eyebrows. Embarrassing body hair can now be removed forever at home in total privacy. Arms and legs can be forever free of the inconvenience of constant hair removal.

AN EXPERT'S APPROVAL

Perma Tweez has been clinically tested by a university professor of dermatology and proven to be safe and effective. One of his patients had previously been tweezing hairs from her chin every day for 15 years. After treating herself with Perma Tweez, she has eliminated this time consuming chore for the rest of her life! Over 15 thousand instruments in use by doctors—over one million sold to people like yourself.

Easy instructions make you expert in a few minutes. Save hundreds of dollars on salon electrolysis by doing it yourself.

PEOPLE QUIZ/ By John E. Gibson

CRIME, CRIMINALS AND YOU

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The notion that a person is in greater danger during a full moon because crimes and acts of violence increase during that period has no basis in scientific fact.

2. Introverts, who tend to be introspective and more given to thought than to action, are more likely to become involved in criminal or antisocial behavior than are extroverts.

3. The causes of pyromania—the uncontrollable impulse to set things afire—are extremely difficult for experts to understand.

4. Many crimes would never be committed were it not for the indirect cooperation of the victim.

5. How much sympathy a crime victim receives depends on how good-looking he or she happens to be.

6. For a crime such as robbery or assault to occur, nothing facilitates the meeting of both criminal and victim more than overindulgence in alcohol.

ANSWERS

1. False. A year-long study by a team of Edgecliff College (Cincinnati) behavior specialists of over 34,000 criminal offenses reveals that robbery, assault, rape, burglary, larceny, theft, drunkenness and disorderly conduct occurred significantly more frequently during the full-moon phase than at other times of the month. Only homicides were less frequent during the full-moon phase. The investigators concluded that "the results support further exploration and research related to cosmic influences on man's behavior."

2. False. Dr. H. J. Eysenck, Professor of Psychiatry at the University of London, has conducted extensive studies of the life styles, personality tendencies and incidents of criminal offenses of these two personality types. His findings show that the typical extrovert is far more likely to run afoul of the law and become involved in various forms of crime and delinquency than the typical introvert.

3. True. As psychologist David Lester observed after evaluating the findings of leading studies on the subject, "There is very little data to indicate why the behavior of fire-setting was chosen by the people studied. It appears, however, that the handling of aggression is difficult for fire-setters and that their setting of a fire is in part a displacement of anger felt toward others." But Lester is careful to note that many of the factors which trigger the impulse to set things afire have yet to be understood fully.

4. True. Studies at Edinburgh University have demonstrated that just as some people are accident-prone others are victim-prone, and that in many instances the victim, sometimes unconsciously, contributes to the pattern of circumstances that ultimately make him the recipient of punishing or exploitive actions by others. If potential victims would take reasonable precautions to avoid exposing themselves unnecessarily to dangerous situations, they would be much safer.

5. True. A California State University study titled Reactions to Victims and Defendants of Varying Degrees of Attractiveness reveals "a curious bias in which the subjects' impressions seemed to be considerably more negative toward an unattractive victim than toward an attractive one but only slightly more negative toward an unattractive defendant than an attractive defendant."

6. True. A university study of the relationship between crimes, victims and alcohol shows that overindulgence in liquor can predispose the individual to become a victim or make him commit criminal offenses ranging from homicide or assault to crimes against property. The university study also notes that "criminals will often choose their victims . . . just because they are drunk."

WHAT IN THE WORLD...

Dale King

Los Angeles Times Photo

Dale King, a 72-year-old widow, is the queen of the Southern California prospectors. She has 78 active mining claims in the Granite Mountains 120 miles northeast of Los Angeles. That's 1,560 acres of land worked by this tenacious prospector who has made her home in a miner's cabin for the last 20 years. Mrs. King stakes her claims "by feel": "When I'm on top of a deposit of precious metals, my body tingles all over. It's like getting an electric shock. I can feel those precious metals in my bones." She hasn't gotten rich yet, but she still has hopes. "I'm waiting for the fat cats with money to come along and invest in my mines. I'm sitting on top of rich veins of gold, silver, platinum, mercury and magnetite." She drives her pickup to her various mining properties—horizontal shafts 50 and 60 feet into the mountainside and verticle holes as deep as 85 feet—into which she lowers herself by rope. "Sure it's all hard work. All dug by hand with pick and shovel." A Hollywood starlet in 1927, Dale King also was a successful dress designer and interior decorator for years.

Study The Facts Before Buying

If you're confronted with a store full of stereo systems or a lineup of washing machines or a showroom full of cars, which of the many choices should you buy? How can you tell which is most dependable and capable of doing the best possible job?

- The first thing to do is to visit a store or showroom well stocked with different brands. The purpose of this visit is to get some feel for products, prices and different features. Listen to the sales clerk, jot down some prices and model names and numbers, but don't buy.
- Next, go to a library and ask for Consumers Index to Product Evaluation. This index selects 110 magazines as well as books and pamphlets for information on product performance. Likely places to find it are libraries of large universities and central branches of municipal libraries. If you can't get the index, go to one of the county extension offices jointly run by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and county and state governments all over the country. These offices are staffed with home economists who can give general advice and also make available Government information pamphlets on virtually any subject.
- The final step, of course, is to go back to the store but, this time, armed with information.

Mother's Remedy Is A Little Weird

In this season of colds and flus, a Maryland newspaper asked its readers for some home remedies—the kind Mom used to treat them with. "A teaspoon of brown sugar with a few drops of kerosine," is just the beginning of one woman's remedy for a sore throat. "Then," she wrote, "take your left stocking off and turn it wrong side out and tie it around your neck." For congested lungs, another lady said her mother used to "render fat from a polecat and rub it on the chest. It will cure a cold, but you sure will have a foul odor." A man wrote that he was brought up to eat a raw onion every day to ward off the flu. But he warned that there may be side effects: "You may lose friends and close contacts with people."

Quick Takes

Job prospects for the college class of 1977 could be the brightest in the last four or five years says the College Placement Council. Generally, employers expect to hire about 12 percent more graduates than they did last year, and there's a 24 percent hike expected in the hiring of engineers . . . Here's an item for your trivia collection: All 39 U.S. Presidents wore eyeglasses, and Jimmy Carter is no exception. The American Optometric Association says Presidents "have notoriously avoided appearing in public wearing spectacles." John F. Kennedy was "too vain" to wear his and Dwight D. Eisenhower's "never fit well." . . . Kissing can spread germs that cause cavities, bleeding gums and pyorrhea (teeth loose in infected sockets), says Dr. Paul Keyes of the National Institute of Dental Research. Until now dentists believed these conditions were the result of improper brushing, too many sweets and tartar. But it turns out germs that are passed from person to person are also at fault . . . If you are one of many Americans who complain about the high price of gasoline, be glad you don't live in France. To force fuel conservation, the French Government recently took the unpopular move of raising the nationwide price of gas to slightly over the equivalent of $2 a gallon.

Going Barefoot Is Good For You

Going barefoot promotes healthy feet, says Dr. Paul W. Brand, chief physician at Public Service Hospital in Carville, La. Shoes do sometimes protect feet from accidental injury, but poorly fitted or poorly designed shoes can cause fatigue, fractures and soft tissue inflammation. "Children just learning to walk should go barefoot," says Dr. Brand. "Pediatricians perpetuate the idea that normal toddlers need stiff shoes to guide them from the crawling to the walking phase, when actually they would develop more muscle control if allowed to go barefoot."

Don't blame your age for poor hearing

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Send for this non-operating model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this non-working model will show you how tiny hearing help can be, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 4487, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

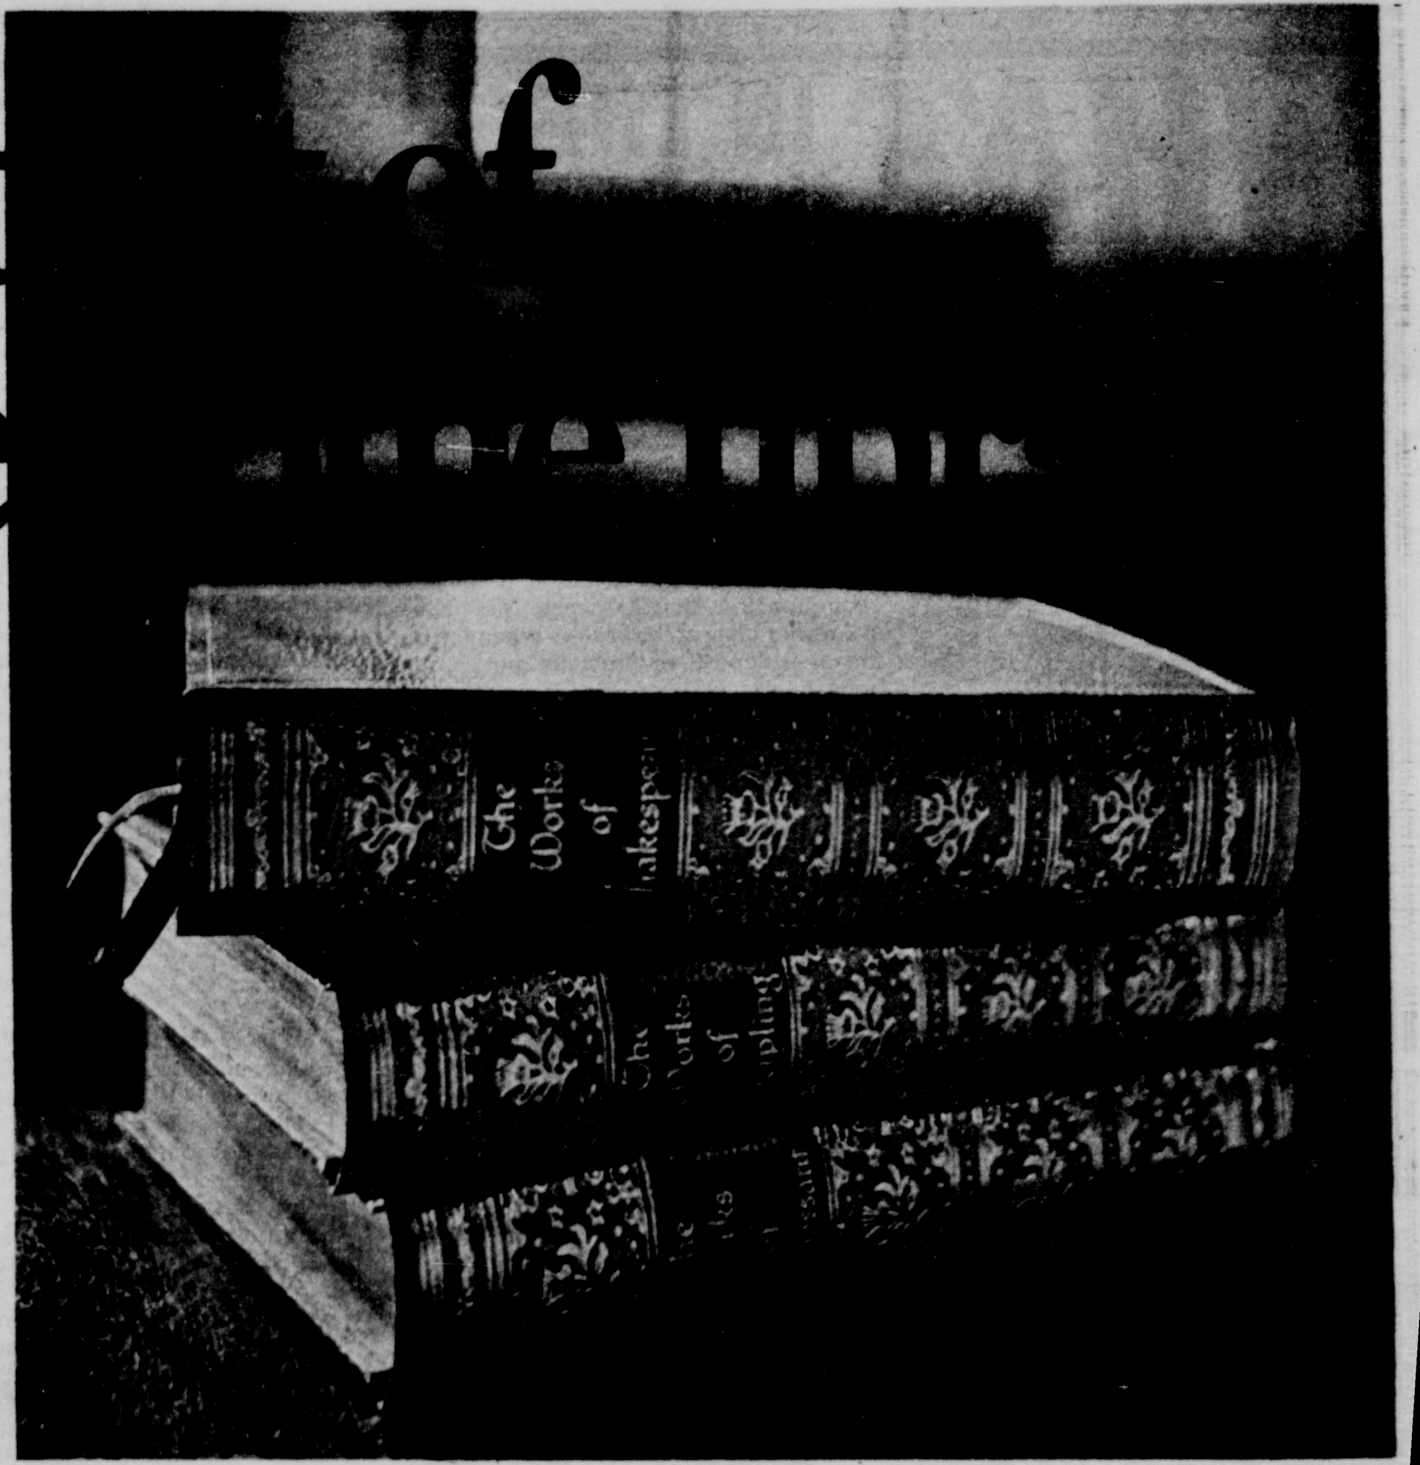
The st[illegible] of a fine [illegible]



Let us send you, for the token price of only $1 each, three books that have served as cornerstones in many a fine home library.

The complete works of Shakespeare

This beautiful 1300-page volume contains every word Shakespeare ever wrote. All 37 of his plays. All of his comedies, tragedies and historical dramas including Hamlet, Romeo and Juliet, Macbeth, etc. Also all of his poems and sonnets.

The works of Kipling

Actually eight books in one. A complete novel and 139 stories, ballads and verses loved the world over . . . including Fuzzy-Wuzzy, Mandalay, Gunga Din, The Phantom Rickshaw and others.

The works of De Maupassant

128 matchless tales by the greatest master of the short story the world has ever known. Every story complete and unexpurgated. Includes The Diamond Necklace, A Piece of String, The Will.

Each volume is clothed in a handsomely-tooled binding of antique ecru that has both the elegant look and feel of leather, a binding that should last a lifetime.

You will enjoy reading these books, just as millions before you have. Your friends will admire them, perhaps even envy you for owning them. And your children will gain a real advantage with books like these always close at hand.

Why do we offer you three books of this calibre for only $1 each?

We simply want to introduce you to our new Golden Giants Series. We think you will be impressed with the books we send you. And we hope you will want to own others in the Series, as they become available. They will include:

Hugo. 36 complete works including Hunchback of Notre Dame, A Woman of the Streets, The Souls, etc.

Tolstoi. 27 novels and stories: Anna Karenina, Kreutzer Sonata, The Cossacks, Love and many more.

Ibsen. His daring plays, each absolutely complete, including A Doll's House, Ghosts, Hedda Gabler, etc.

Doyle. All the best of Sherlock Holmes — The Sign of The Four, Red-Headed League, plus other great works.

Poe. 91 tales, poems, essays of this great American writer: Annabel Lee, The Raven, The Gold Bug, Murders in the Rue Morgue, The Black Cat, etc.

The full series will also include the works of Cellini, Wilde, Browning, Longfellow, Emerson, Dostoevsky, Byron and many others.

Normally, you would expect to pay $10 each or more for deluxe editions of books like these. But through our direct-to-the-public method of book distribution (which we have specialized in for over 50 years) we are able to make these volumes available to you for only $5.89 each, plus few cents for mailing.

Send no money now. Simply mail the coupon to get your first three volumes for only $1 each and to reserve the privilege of examining future volumes as they come from the press.

You will receive advance description of all upcoming volumes. You may reject any books before or after you receive them. And you may cancel your reservation any time you wish.

Crown Galleries Offer Glamorous Bargains-by-Mail

We specialize in extra-ordinary values. Check our prices. They are unbeatable - - anywhere. Our Gemfire collection is one of the best values in simulated diamonds - - and one of the most beautiful. All have 58 facets to provide diamond-like brilliance and beauty. Some of the stones in our fashion rings are simulated - - some are not. When we can offer a genuine stone that is beautiful yet relatively inexpensive - - such as the Tigers Eye we do it. Diamonds, rubies, etc. are very expensive, so we use simulations. BUT EVERY RING SHOWN HERE THAT HAS A SIMULATED STONE IS A TOP QUALITY SIMULATION - - NOT CHEAP PLASTIC OR PASTE. All are handsomely-crafted in elegant mountings that you will be proud to own and give to others. YOU CAN'T LOSE. ALL ARE BACKED BY OUR FULL 1—YEAR GUARANTEE. ORDER TODAY!

Glossary Of Terms

HEAVY GOLD ELECTROPLATE (HGE) — — this mounting uses karat gold (either white or yellow) that is electrically bonded to the mounting after it is formed and the gold, by government standard, is 14 times thicker than the designation "gold electroplate".

STERLING SILVER (SS) — — the mounting is 92.5% pure silver, 7.5% other metals for strength, and to eliminate tarnishing is lightly plated with precious rhodium.

CARAT (CT) — — a measure of weight for a diamond - however, Gemfires are given approximate carat values based on size (not weight). In other words, a 1 carat Gemfire is approximately the same size as a 1 carat diamond.

MOUNTING — — MTG.

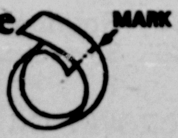
How to Find Your Ring Size

LADIES RING SIZES 5—10
MENS RING SIZES 7—13



1. Cut a strip of paper 3 inches long and 1/4 inch wide.
2. Wrap the strip around the finger that is to wear the ring. Then place a dot, on the strip where it meets the end.
3. Place the dot on the strip of paper at "A" on the ring guide. The number at the end of the strip is your ring size.
